WILSON APPEALS TO SWITCHMEN

Increase Of $10,155,000,000 In Income And Excise Levies Is Asked By Administration

Cautious Approach To "Rugged" Bill Is Favored By Some On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Snyder outlined the proposed $10,155,000,000 defense tax increase to Congress today, disclosing that in its sweep across the nation's economy it calls for 20 per cent more income taxes from the little fellow.

Heavy increases in corporate income taxes also were proposed. They would be accompanied by greatly increased levies on new automobiles, liquor, beer, cigarets, radios, refrigerators and many other consumer items.

Snyder called the program "rather rugged." He told the House Ways and Means Committee it was only the first step in the administration's plan to get at least $16,500,000,000 more revenue to put the government on a pay-as-we-go basis during the vast rearmament program.

And, the Secretary added, if the Treasury has its way, individual and corporate tax increases will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1951.

Wall Street expressed astonishment at the program. New York businessmen said they had been resigned to tax increases, but that size of the boosts proposed flabbergasted them.

Cautious Approach Favored

A bloc of congressional sentiment favors a cautious approach to the new tax bill, some contending the legislators should wait and size up the budget, then levy a one-package bill. Leaders in both houses indicated they did not expect great speed in getting a bill out despite the administration's request for speed.

Individual income taxpayers would contribute $3,600,000,000 more to the kitty under the plan outlined by the secretary. To collect it, Snyder proposed a boost of four percentage points in each rate — that is, the lowest rate, now 20 per cent, would go up to 24 per cent; the 22 per cent rate to 26, and so on.

As an example, he said a married person with two dependents and a net income of $3,000 now pays $120 federal tax or four per cent of his income. The proposed rates would increase his tax liability to $144 or 4.8 per cent of his income.

Republican members of the committee immediately raised objections to the administration's two-package approach to the revenue problem.

One Big Bill Suggested

Rep. Reed of New York, top ranking Republican on the committee, suggested that Congress first determine whether non-defense expenditures have been cut to the lowest possible level and then wrap up all the tax increases in one big bill.

Individual income tax, $3,600,000,000; Corporate income taxes, $3,080,000,000; Excise taxes, $3,035,000,000.

Increases in capital gains tax: Individuals, $330,000,000; corporations, $110,000,000.

Totals, $10,155,000,000.

Excise (sales) taxes would hit a new high under the Treasury's plan and some articles now exempt would be taxed.

The rate on liquor, now $9 per 100-proof gallon, would go up to $12, which would amount to $2.40 a fifth.

India Rejects, Sweden Accepts Committee Spot

U. N. Group To Seek Korean Settlement

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 5 (AP) — Sweden consented tonight to serve on the United Nations Good Offices Committee in the place India refused to take. The committee is seeking a settlement of the Korean conflict.

Sir Benegal N. Rau of India informed U. N. Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam of Iran today he would not serve on the committee. Entezam then offered Sweden the spot, and Sven Grafstroem, Swedish delegate, accepted.

Sweden has an envoy in Peiping, Red Chinese capital. Entezam was reported anxious to have one member of the three-man committee from a government with a channel to Red China.

Word From Pearson Awaited

Entezam was closeted today with Grafstroem; R. G. Riddell of Canada; and U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie. The Assembly president, a member of the committee, still is waiting definite word from Lester B. Pearson, Canadian foreign minister who served with Entezam and Rau on a cease-fire committee in December and January.

Pearson was reported reluctant to serve unless the original three-man group remained intact, but it was said considerable pressure was being put on him by Entezam and other delegates to remain. Final word is not expected from Pearson until the end of the foreign affairs debate in the Canadian Parliament.

Group Set Up By Assembly

Rau was the leader of a group of 12 Asian and Arab nations which sought another peace appeal to Communist China. The proposal was turned down by the Assembly, and New Delhi refused to permit him to serve.

Mexico, Norway and Argentina were being mentioned also as possibilities. The Good Offices Committee was set up last week by the U. N. Assembly to try for a cease-fire and a settlement of the whole problem. If it does not report prospects of success, a committee on collective measures is ready to study sanctions against the Chinese, ranging from mild retrictions to military action.

DiSalle-McGrath Accord Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. (AP) — Chairman Maybank (D-SC) said today Price Director Michael V. DiSalle and Attorney General McGrath will be called before a Senate-House "watchdog" committee Wednesday to settle who shall enfore price controls.

The reported high-level differences stemmed from DiSalle's contention that his agency, like the old OPA of World War II days, should handle the mechanics of enforcement, except criminal prosecutions.

McGrath was described as being insistent that the Justice Department should handle all court cases growing out of price and wage controls. McGrath announced last week he was setting up a special enforcement unit.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston promised a "very quick settlement" of the disagreement.

Steel Mill Town Has Panther Scare

CLAIRTON, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—This bustling steel mill town is enjoying the thrills and chills of a black panther scare.

Police began by scoffing at reports of excited residents who telephoned with news of seeing a black panther. Now police aren't so sure. Chief Peter Orsini and others have seen the animal.

The chief said the beast is about four feet long with a long tail. How the animal reached this industrial center near Pittsburgh remains a mystery.

Married People Get Fewer Headaches, Doctor Reports

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Married people have fewer headaches—the hurting kind in the head—than the single ones.

This is one finding in a survey, reported today, of who gets headaches and why.

Educated people get more headaches than the less educated, it shows. Women have more headaches than men. Young people get them oftener than older persons. Housewives suffer more than salesmen. Farmers get the fewest. Medical students are about the worst off, and lawyers rate high, too.

The headache survey, one of the first thorough studies of its kind, was made by Dr. Henry R. Ogden, clinical assistant professor of medicine at Louisiana State University School of Medicine. He reported it to the American Academy of Allergy at a meeting here.

Czech President Is Reported Under Police Supervision

VIENNA, Austria, Tuesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—A Vienna newspaper said today that Czech President Klement Gottwald (above) is under police supervision. It linked the report with the mysterious disappearance of former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis from Prague.

A dispatch from Brno, Czechoslovakia, to the Neue Wiener Tageszeitung said the police action against Gottwald assertedly had been taken on Russian orders because of the President's friendship with Clementis.

Clementis was ousted as Czech foreign minister last March on charges of "bourgeois nationalism" and enmity toward the Soviet Union. It was disclosed Saturday that he had disappeared from his Prague home. Speculation in Prague yesterday was that he had fled the country on hearing that his "highly placed protector" was in disfavor with ruling circles.

Republican Rally Speakers Blast Administration

'Dangerous' Policies Assailed By Sen. Taft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Republicans fired a political broadside in a Lincoln Day rally tonight at what they called the Truman administration's "dangerous" foreign policies and "confused" planning at home.

Sen. Taft of Ohio led a parade of GOP speakers assailing "the dangerous world position to which the Truman policies have brought this country."

Top Republicans were allotted one minute each of radio time at a $1 box supper where the party faithful gathered to munch chicken and cheer for GOP chances in 1952.

Taft cited his own reelection victory in Ohio last November as a sign that the American workman is "not interested in appeals to class interest."

GOP "Protects" Workmen

"Today the Republican Party undertakes to protect him against excessive government regulation and taxation," Taft said in a prepared talk.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, said Republicans "reject President Truman's claim that he alone has power to say whether American boys shall be drafted and sent into a peacetime international army in Europe."

"We don't want any more Koreas —no more Dunkirks," Wherry declared.

Rep. Devereux (R-Md) said that United Nations troops "had the battle won" in Korea "when someone made Gen. MacArthur delay at the 38th parallel when he had the enemy on the run."

McCarthy Charges "Sellout"

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said that in the November election the American people had "repudiated the greatest fraud in history."

"They turned their backs on the planners who were willing to use the blood of other people's sons to fight Communism abroad in order to disguise their sellout to Communism at home," he declared.

Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson of the Republican National Committee, called on the Republicans to help "do away with fuzzy international thinking—confused domestic planning—and above all, let's put an end to creeping socialistic schemes, disguised as welfare programs."

January Employment 59,010,000, New Record

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Census Bureau reported tonight that 59,010,000 persons were employed in civilian jobs last month, the greatest number ever for the month of January.

The number of employed dropped 1,298,000 from the December level, however. The bureau called that drop normal for the season, pointing to curtailment of outdoor work due to the weather and "the usual" after-Christmas lull in trade.

Big U. N. Tank Force Pounds Red Positions

Droves Of Chinese Killed Near Seoul

TOKYO, Tuesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—The greatest Allied tank thrust of the Korean war jabbed deep into Chinese and Korean Red positions within five miles of Seoul Monday, killed and wounded droves of Reds, then retired safely to Allied lines.

In the west, three swift hunter-killer tank columns slashed through a reported buildup of from 10,000 to 15,000 fresh Communist troops who had moved south from the Han River Sunday night.

The Reds had appeared to be massing for a Chinese lunar new year's counter-offensive today.

Five Miles From Seoul

The main Allied tank punch hit within five air miles of dead and silent Seoul. This was the nearest approach to the fallen South Korean capital since the United Nations forces abandoned it Jan. 4.

On the Central Korea front, a tank-led Allied force spurted forward to gain four miles in four hours in an attack north of Hoengsong. This placed the U. N. team 52 air miles east of Seoul on an interior highway running toward the 38th parallel, some 31 miles to the north.

The central front attacks were aimed at the North Korean Fifth Corps, which has been reported grouping for another offensive.

Allied artillery and fighter-bombers gave shattering support to the tank-infantry stabs behind Communist lines.

Holdout Reds Routed

Holdout Red forces on heights north of Suwon were driven into flight. White flags of surrender showed on Hill 431, eight miles northwest of Suwon.

Other Communists were seen fleeing north from bitterly contested ridge positions on Hill 431 after ownership of the ridge changed hands five times in furious action between Turks and Chinese.

The cannon and machine guns of the tanks cut down thousands of Red troops, caught unprepared in rear-assembly areas. Then the tanks pulled back before the Communists knew where to mass and hit, front dispatches said.

Soviet Union Replies To Conference Note

MOSCOW, Feb. 5 (AP)—British, American and French envoys tonight received Russia's latest reply on whether there will be another four-power foreign ministers conference.

The contents of the Russian note were expected to become known shortly.

The reply, it was believed, reemphasizes the Soviet view that German rearmament is the most acute problem in Europe and the Major cause of world tension. Informed sources speculated that the Soviet Union did not close the door to considering other questions at a four-power conference, but insisted the German question be the first issue.

Lend-Lease Talks Set

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Russia, after a week layoff, has notified the State Department today it will be ready to resume talks on a lend lease settlement on Wednesday.

"Work Or Fight" Bill Introduced

Rep. George W. Andrews (D-Ala) displays a copy of a "work or fight" bill he introduced in Congress yesterday. The legislation calls for immediate induction of striking railroad employes who hold occupational draft deferments.

DiSalle Plans Meat Orders To Fight Black Marketeers

TOLEDO, Feb. 5 (AP)—The nation's price chief, Michael V. DiSalle, announced tonight he is about to issue two meat orders that will enable the government "to keep a finger on meat supplies from the slaughterer to the retailer."

He also made his toughest warning against black markets so far, saying "the black marketeer is a first class fifth columnist for Stalin and I would hate to be the first one to get caught."

And he said frankly that the rising cost of living can't be stopped suddenly—"it may take us much of 1951 to put the lid on the inflationary forces generated in the past year."

But he declared that if the Jan. 25 price freeze order had not been issued, "prices today would be much higher than they are now."

Will Regulate Slaughtering

DiSalle's statements were in a speech prepared for delivery in a high school auditorium before his fellow townsmen.

It was his first real speech since he resigned as mayor of Toledo two months ago to become director of price stabilization.

Here's what he said about the two meat orders:

1. "I can announce to you tonight that the Office of Price Stabilization will within a few days issue or order regulating the slaughter of livestock. This is a first important and necessary step toward controlling prices of the nation's meat supply."

Will Assume Adequate Supplies

2. "We will follow up this regulation with another which will keep meat supplies moving through legitimate channels of distribution and enable the housewife to buy adequate meat supplies from her regular butcher or market at local ceiling prices."

Officials said this second order may require meat wholesalers and retailers to make regular reports on their business operations, so that fly-by-night distributors and "dummy" middlemen can be more easily checked to see whether they are selling at above ceiling prices.

Bears Who Tried Winter Sports End Up In Icy Prison

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 5 (AP) — A couple of husky black bears, groggy from hibernating, dabbled in winter sports over the weekend and slid into an 18-foot moat. They've been there since Saturday.

Baffled zoo keepers have tried coaxing and prodding and even let down two ladders, but the 400-pound bruins still remained trapped in their icy prison today. Bear "experts" have suggested everything from tempting them out with honey to floating them out by filling the moat with water.

The bears poked their noses into the warm air Saturday and ventured out of their caves for a little winter fun. But they lost their footing on glare ice and shot over the precipice into the moat.

Red Casualties Since Jan. 25 Over 51,000

[By The Associated Press]

The Eighth Army's estimate of enemy casualties inflicted in the current "limited offensive" that began Jan. 25 soared beyond 51,000 with Monday's toll still incomplete.

From Jan. 25 through Feb. 2, the Army estimate of ground and air-inflicted enemy battle casualties was 34,359, of whom 20,615 were listed as killed.

On Feb. 3, the ground total alone was put at 6,601, and on Feb. 4 at 8,635, plus more than 2,000 attributed to two Allied tank columns in a preliminary estimate for Monday's big thrust.

Baltimore Would Get New Congress District Under Md. Democrats' Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The high echelon of Maryland Democrats tonight recommended placing the state's new congressional district in Baltimore.

Their plan will be presented to Democrats in the General Assembly for approval later this week.

The realignment tentatively reached at a closed conference called by Rep. Sasscer, Fifth District dean of Maryland Democratic congressmen, would leave unmolested the two districts now composed entirely of counties. These are the First on the Eastern Shore and Sixth in Western Maryland.

But it would add to Baltimore's representation by slicing all city wards from the Second District and two-thirds of those now situated in the Fifth District.

What to do with the city's additions was left largely to the two congressmen from districts currently within the city limits, Rep. Fallon of the Fourth and Garmatz of the Third.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature was asked tonight to take cognizance of a growing national concern over sale of narcotics to minors by imposing stiff prison terms on the salesmen.

House Speaker Luber of Baltimore's Fifth District introduced a bill to impose a mandatory prison term of from five to 20 years for supplying a minor with narcotic drugs.

This would be in addition to present penalties for selling drugs to anybody which provide for fines of $1,000 to $3,000 and imprisonment up to five years.

Delegate Cardin (D-Balto. 5th) also introduced a bill relating to teen-agers. His would raise the minimum age of granting automobile driving licenses from 16 to 18 years.

A bill to exempt the inventory stock of business firms from state taxation was put in by Delegates Wilkinson, Democrat, and Lillard, Republican, of Prince Georges County.

Weather Normal Again After Damaging Blow

[By The Associated Press]

The weather returned to normal Monday after dealing the nation the most damaging blows of the winter.

Landslides and a flood threat developed in heavy rains in Northern California. Some of the northern border states had more sub-zero temperatures. But elsewhere the severe cold snap, which caused millions of dollars in damage in the southern states, had ended.

Readings Monday were 10 to 20 degrees higher than Sunday morning in Texas, the Southern Plains and Central Gulf states.

Russia Apparently Ignoring Trygve Lie

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Russia apparently is sticking to her threat to have nothing to do with U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie after he began his extended term Feb. 2.

U. N. officials said communications coming from Russia are now being addressed to the "United Nations Secretariat," instead of to the Secretary-General as previously.

The Russians objected to the extension of Lie's five-year term but were outvoted in the General Assembly.

Order To Draft Childless Men Awaits Approval

Hershey Favors Lower Standards

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today an order now awaiting approval would remove the draft exemption of 220,000 childless married men who are not veterans.

And, he added, he sees no reason "whatever" why physical and mental standards also should not be lowered to tap 150,000 to 250,000 more men, now deferred.

Both these groups would be in the 19 to 26 age group covered by the present draft law.

Still Wants 18-Year-Olds

But Hershey, testifying before the House Armed Services Committee, said these steps still would not meet the nation's defense manpower needs. He stuck to his guns in favor of an administration bill lowering the draft age to 18, and providing universal military service and training.

Some congressmen are reluctant to take 18-year-olds until the draft of the 19-to-26 group is tightened.

Committeemen suggested to Hershey today two additional steps in this tightening process: Drafting of National Guardsmen, and a stricter policy in deferring "essential" industrial and agricultural workers.

Certain Of Approval

Hershey told the committee an order to draft childless married men aged 19 to 26 has been prepared and turned over to defense manpower agencies, where he is virtually certain it will be approved.

The step also requires an executive order by President Truman. Chances for the order would be strong if his manpower chiefs endorse it. No date was indicated.

The order would not apply to married men with more than one dependent. The law itself exempts all war veterans.

Anti-Labor Spy Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Six senators today introduced a bill to make labor espionage punishable by a $5,000 fine, two years imprisonment, or both. The penalty would apply both to those making espionage reports and to those receiving them.

Strikers Told Tieup Threat To U. S. Safety

Union Chief Says Many Back On Job

[By The Associated Press]

The federal mobilization director Monday night appealed to striking switchmen to go back to work for "the safety of our conutry."

Charles E. Wilson spoke from the White House, with President Truman's approval.

Shortly before he spoke, President W. P. Kennedy of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said a survey showed "hundreds of our men throughout the country are responding to my appeal" to return to their jobs.

In Philadelphia, more than 5,000 rail workers were reported to have ended their six-day "sickness" strike with a back-to-work movement. Their was the first big break in the six-day old nationwide work stoppage.

Wilson told the strikers in a radio address their walkout "was not a legitimate means" to better their working conditions.

"I ask you to report for duty—now, tonight, for those who should be working now—and to stay on the job as patriotic Americans."

Strike Spreads To Erie

Despite the Philadelphia back-to-work movement and Kennedy's statement, the strike Monday night spread to another railroad—the Erie.

More than 250,000 industrial workers, in addition to the strikers, have been made idle by the walkout.

The Erie Railroad announced that the "sick strike" was spreading through its system like "ink on a blotter" and cancelled two main line passenger trains.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey announced it was shutting down all commuter service Tuesday morning, as trainmen and conductors joined the switchmen in their strike. Switchmen reported for duty through the day at several cities Monday, but there were new walkouts in Wisconsin.

Talks Deadlocked

Wage-hour talks in Washington were reported hopelessly deadlocked. A railroad "work or fight" bill was introduced in Congress.

Rep. Andrews (D-Ala.) introduced legislation for immediate induction of striking railroad employes who hold occupational draft deferments.

Andrews called the work stoppage "unpatriotic." He said he understands that many railroad men not working now on the grounds they are "sick" have been deferred from the draft because of their jobs.

The strike dealt new blows to industry. With 125,000 automobile workers idle, an industry source predicted car making will be halted if the walkout continues.

Seeking to end the tieup, the National (railway) Mediation Board met separately in Washington with representatives of the unions and the carriers.

Thomas Bickers, board secretary, said that he had "never seen any more stubborn case." No progress was reported.

South Nevadans Await Biggest A-Blast Yet

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 5 (AP) — A little alarmed by a warning to stay away from windows, Southern Nevadans waited anxiously today for the fifth of the government's current atomic tests. They think it will be the "biggest blast" yet.

When it will be no layman knows. But high government officials are in town, and presumably they want to get back to their desks as quickly as possible.

The AEC, after Sunday's warning to avoid windows which might splinter from sound waves set up by the next explosion, had nothing to say when dawn came and went today without the now-familiar flash in the northwest sky and jarring concussion a few minutes later.

Infant's Arrival Creates More Than Usual Uproar

HUNTLEY, Ill., Feb. 5 (AP)—When the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Svatik came into the world today, she created more than the usual uproar.

The score was: One man in the hospital seriously injured; a snow plow, a big milk truck, and two automobiles badly damaged.

When the Svatik birth became imminent this morning, Dr. S. L. Gabby of nearby Elgin, the attending physician, asked state highway police to get a snowplow and clear the country road leading to the Svatik farm home.

The snow plow, a state highway police squad car, and Dr. Gabby in his automobile met at the spot where the country road leaves the state highway. They stopped for a conference.

A big milk truck driven by Emory A. Luebke of Whitewater, Wis., was rolling down the road. Luebke tried to stop but skidded into the snow plow and the police car.

Then along came Alex Jankowski, 36, of Woodstock, in his automobile. He ran into the whole shebang.

Jankowski was taken to an Elgin hospital, seriously injured. Dr. Gabby finally made it to the Svatik home, but the daughter had been born unattended.

Republican Rally Speakers Blast Administration

'Dangerous' Policies Assailed By Sen. Taft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Republicans fired a political broadside in a Lincoln Day rally tonight at what they called the Truman administration's "dangerous" foreign policies and "confused" planning at home.

Sen. Taft of Ohio led a parade of GOP speakers assailing "the dangerous world position to which the Truman policies have brought this country."

Top Republicans were allotted one minute each of radio time at a $1 box supper where the party faithful gathered to munch chicken and cheer for GOP chances in 1952.

Taft cited his own reelection victory in Ohio last November as a sign that the American workman is "not interested in appeals to class interest."

GOP "Protects" Workmen

"Today the Republican Party undertakes to protect him against excessive government regulation and taxation," Taft said in a prepared talk.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, said Republicans "reject President Truman's claim that he alone has power to say whether American boys shall be drafted and sent into a peacetime international army in Europe."

"We don't want any more Koreas —no more Dunkirks," Wherry declared.

Rep. Devereux (R-Md) said that United Nations troops "had the battle won" in Korea "when someone made Gen. MacArthur delay at the 38th parallel when he had the enemy on the run."

McCarthy Charges "Sellout"

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said that in the November election the American people had "repudiated the greatest fraud in history."

"They turned their backs on the planners who were willing to use the blood of other people's sons to fight Communism abroad in order to disguise their sellout to Communism at home," he declared.

Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson of the Republican National Committee, called on the Republicans to help "do away with fuzzy international thinking—confused domestic planning—and above all, let's put an end to creeping socialistic schemes, disguised as welfare programs."

January Employment 59,010,000, New Record

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Census Bureau reported tonight that 59,010,000 persons were employed in civilian jobs last month, the greatest number ever for the month of January.

The number of employed dropped 1,298,000 from the December level, however. The bureau called that drop normal for the season, pointing to curtailment of outdoor work due to the weather and "the usual" after-Christmas lull in trade.

Big U. N. Tank Force Pounds Red Positions

Droves Of Chinese Killed Near Seoul

TOKYO, Tuesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—The greatest Allied tank thrust of the Korean war jabbed deep into Chinese and Korean Red positions within five miles of Seoul Monday, killed and wounded droves of Reds, then retired safely to Allied lines.

In the west, three swift hunter-killer tank columns slashed through a reported buildup of from 10,000 to 15,000 fresh Communist troops who had moved south from the Han River Sunday night.

The Reds had appeared to be massing for a Chinese lunar new year's counter-offensive today.

Five Miles From Seoul

The main Allied tank punch hit within five air miles of dead and silent Seoul. This was the nearest approach to the fallen South Korean capital since the United Nations forces abandoned it Jan. 4.

On the Central Korea front, a tank-led Allied force spurted forward to gain four miles in four hours in an attack north of Hoengsong. This placed the U. N. team 52 air miles east of Seoul on an interior highway running toward the 38th parallel, some 31 miles to the north.

The central front attacks were aimed at the North Korean Fifth Corps, which has been reported grouping for another offensive.

Allied artillery and fighter-bombers gave shattering support to the tank-infantry stabs behind Communist lines.

Holdout Reds Routed

Holdout Red forces on heights north of Suwon were driven into flight. White flags of surrender showed on Hill 431, eight miles northwest of Suwon.

Other Communists were seen fleeing north from bitterly contested ridge positions on Hill 431 after ownership of the ridge changed hands five times in furious action between Turks and Chinese.

The cannon and machine guns of the tanks cut down thousands of Red troops, caught unprepared in rear-assembly areas. Then the tanks pulled back before the Communists knew where to mass and hit, front dispatches said.

Soviet Union Replies To Conference Note

MOSCOW, Feb. 5 (AP)—British, American and French envoys tonight received Russia's latest reply on whether there will be another four-power foreign ministers conference.

The contents of the Russian note were expected to become known shortly.

The reply, it was believed, reemphasizes the Soviet view that German rearmament is the most acute problem in Europe and the Major cause of world tension. Informed sources speculated that the Soviet Union did not close the door to considering other questions at a four-power conference, but insisted the German question be the first issue.

DiSalle Plans Meat Orders To Fight Black Marketeers

TOLEDO, Feb. 5 (AP)—The nation's price chief, Michael V. DiSalle, announced tonight he is about to issue two meat orders that will enable the government "to keep a finger on meat supplies from the slaughterer to the retailer."

He also made his toughest warning against black markets so far, saying "the black marketeer is a first class fifth columnist for Stalin and I would hate to be the first one to get caught."

And he said frankly that the rising cost of living can't be stopped suddenly—"it may take us much of 1951 to put the lid on the inflationary forces generated in the past year."

But he declared that if the Jan. 25 price freeze order had not been issued, "prices today would be much higher than they are now."

Will Regulate Slaughtering

DiSalle's statements were in a speech prepared for delivery in a high school auditorium before his fellow townsmen.

It was his first real speech since he resigned as mayor of Toledo two months ago to become director of price stabilization.

Here's what he said about the two meat orders:

1. "I can announce to you tonight that the Office of Price Stabilization will within a few days issue or order regulating the slaughter of livestock. This is a first important and necessary step toward controlling prices of the nation's meat supply."

Will Assume Adequate Supplies

2. "We will follow up this regulation with another which will keep meat supplies moving through legitimate channels of distribution and enable the housewife to buy adequate meat supplies from her regular butcher or market at local ceiling prices."

Officials said this second order may require meat wholesalers and retailers to make regular reports on their business operations, so that fly-by-night distributors and "dummy" middlemen can be more easily checked to see whether they are selling at above ceiling prices.

Bears Who Tried Winter Sports End Up In Icy Prison

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 5 (AP) — A couple of husky black bears, groggy from hibernating, dabbled in winter sports over the weekend and slid into an 18-foot moat. They've been there since Saturday.

Baffled zoo keepers have tried coaxing and prodding and even let down two ladders, but the 400-pound bruins still remained trapped in their icy prison today. Bear "experts" have suggested everything from tempting them out with honey to floating them out by filling the moat with water.

The bears poked their noses into the warm air Saturday and ventured out of their caves for a little winter fun. But they lost their footing on glare ice and shot over the precipice into the moat.

Red Casualties Since Jan. 25 Over 51,000

[By The Associated Press]

The Eighth Army's estimate of enemy casualties inflicted in the current "limited offensive" that began Jan. 25 soared beyond 51,000 with Monday's toll still incomplete.

From Jan. 25 through Feb. 2, the Army estimate of ground and air-inflicted enemy battle casualties was 34,359, of whom 20,615 were listed as killed.

On Feb. 3, the ground total alone was put at 6,601, and on Feb. 4 at 8,635, plus more than 2,000 attributed to two Allied tank columns in a preliminary estimate for Monday's big thrust.

Baltimore Would Get New Congress District Under Md. Democrats' Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The high echelon of Maryland Democrats tonight recommended placing the state's new congressional district in Baltimore.

Their plan will be presented to Democrats in the General Assembly for approval later this week.

The realignment tentatively reached at a closed conference called by Rep. Sasscer, Fifth District dean of Maryland Democratic congressmen, would leave unmolested the two districts now composed entirely of counties. These are the First on the Eastern Shore and Sixth in Western Maryland.

But it would add to Baltimore's representation by slicing all city wards from the Second District and two-thirds of those now situated in the Fifth District.

What to do with the city's additions was left largely to the two congressmen from districts currently within the city limits, Rep. Fallon of the Fourth and Garmatz of the Third.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature was asked tonight to take cognizance of a growing national concern over sale of narcotics to minors by imposing stiff prison terms on the salesmen.

House Speaker Luber of Baltimore's Fifth District introduced a bill to impose a mandatory prison term of from five to 20 years for supplying a minor with narcotic drugs.

This would be in addition to present penalties for selling drugs to anybody which provide for fines of $1,000 to $3,000 and imprisonment up to five years.

Delegate Cardin (D-Balto. 5th) also introduced a bill relating to teen-agers. His would raise the minimum age of granting automobile driving licenses from 16 to 18 years.

A bill to exempt the inventory stock of business firms from state taxation was put in by Delegates Wilkinson, Democrat, and Lillard, Republican, of Prince Georges County.

Order To Draft Childless Men Awaits Approval

Hershey Favors Lower Standards

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today an order now awaiting approval would remove the draft exemption of 220,000 childless married men who are not yeterans.

And, he added, he sees no reason "whatever" why physical and mental standards also should not be lowered to tap 150,000 to 250,000 more men, now deferred.

Both these groups would be in the 19 to 26 age group covered by the present draft law.

Still Wants 18-Year-Olds

But Hershey, testifying before the House Armed Services Committee, said these steps still would not meet the nation's defense manpower needs. He stuck to his guns in favor of an administration bill lowering the draft age to 18, and providing universal military service and training.

Some congressmen are reluctant to take 18-year-olds until the draft of the 19-to-26 group is tightened.

Committeemen suggested to Hershey today two additional steps in this tightening process: Drafting of National Guardsmen, and a stricter policy in deferring "essential" industrial and agricultural workers.

Certain Of Approval

Hershey told the committee an order to draft childless married men aged 19 to 26 has been prepared and turned over to defense manpower agencies, where he is virtually certain it will be approved.

The step also requires an executive order by President Truman. Chances for the order would be strong if his manpower chiefs endorse it. No date was indicated.

The order would not apply to married men with more than one dependent. The law itself exempts all war veterans.

Anti-Labor Spy Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Six senators today introduced a bill to make labor espionage punishable by a $5,000 fine, two years imprisonment, or both. The penalty would apply both to those making espionage reports and to those receiving them.

Weather Normal Again After Damaging Blow

[By The Associated Press]

The weather returned to normal Monday after dealing the nation the most damaging blows of the winter.

Landslides and a flood threat developed in heavy rains in Northern California. Some of the northern border states had more sub-zero temperatures. But elsewhere the severe cold snap, which caused millions of dollars in damage in the southern states, had ended.

Readings Monday were 10 to 20 degrees higher than Sunday morning in Texas, the Southern Plains and Central Gulf states.

Russia Apparently Ignoring Trygve Lie

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Russia apparently is sticking to her threat to have nothing to do with U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie after he began his extended term Feb. 2.

U. N. officials said communications coming from Russia are now being addressed to the "United Nations Secretariat," instead of to the Secretary-General as previously.

The Russians objected to the extension of Lie's five-year term but were outvoted in the General Assembly.

Strikers Told Tieup Threat To U. S. Safety

Union Chief Says Many Back On Job

[By The Associated Press]

The federal mobilization director Monday night appealed to striking switchmen to go back to work for "the safety of our conutry."

Charles E. Wilson spoke from the White House, with President Truman's approval.

Shortly before he spoke, President W. P. Kennedy of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said a survey showed "hundreds of our men throughout the country are responding to my appeal" to return to their jobs.

In Philadelphia, more than 5,000 rail workers were reported to have ended their six-day "sickness" strike with a back-to-work movement. Their was the first big break in the six-day old nationwide work stoppage.

Wilson told the strikers in a radio address their walkout "was not a legitimate means" to better their working conditions.

"I ask you to report for duty—now, tonight, for those who should be working now—and to stay on the job as patriotic Americans."

Strike Spreads To Erie

Despite the Philadelphia back-to-work movement and Kennedy's statement, the strike Monday night spread to another railroad—the Erie.

More than 250,000 industrial workers, in addition to the strikers, have been made idle by the walkout.

The Erie Railroad announced that the "sick strike" was spreading through its system like "ink on a blotter" and cancelled two main line passenger trains.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey announced it was shutting down all commuter service Tuesday morning, as trainmen and conductors joined the switchmen in their strike. Switchmen reported for duty through the day at several cities Monday, but there were new walkouts in Wisconsin.

Talks Deadlocked

Wage-hour talks in Washington were reported hopelessly deadlocked. A railroad "work or fight" bill was introduced in Congress.

Rep. Andrews (D-Ala.) introduced legislation for immediate induction of striking railroad employes who hold occupational draft deferments.

Andrews called the work stoppage "unpatriotic." He said he understands that many railroad men not working now on the grounds they are "sick" have been deferred from the draft because of their jobs.

The strike dealt new blows to industry. With 125,000 automobile workers idle, an industry source predicted car making will be halted if the walkout continues.

Seeking to end the tieup, the National (railway) Mediation Board met separately in Washington with representatives of the unions and the carriers.

Thomas Bickers, board secretary, said that he had "never seen any more stubborn case." No progress was reported.

South Nevadans Await Biggest A-Blast Yet

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 5 (AP) — A little alarmed by a warning to stay away from windows, Southern Nevadans waited anxiously today for the fifth of the government's current atomic tests. They think it will be the "biggest blast" yet.

When it will be no layman knows. But high government officials are in town, and presumably they want to get back to their desks as quickly as possible.

The AEC, after Sunday's warning to avoid windows which might splinter from sound waves set up by the next explosion, had nothing to say when dawn came and went today without the now-familiar flash in the northwest sky and jarring concussion a few minutes later.

Infant's Arrival Creates More Than Usual Uproar

HUNTLEY, Ill., Feb. 5 (AP)—When the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Svatik came into the world today, she created more than the usual uproar.

The score was: One man in the hospital seriously injured; a snow plow, a big milk truck, and two automobiles badly damaged.

When the Svatik birth became imminent this morning, Dr. S. L. Gabby of nearby Elgin, the attending physician, asked state highway police to get a snowplow and clear the country road leading to the Svatik farm home.

The snow plow, a state highway police squad car, and Dr. Gabby in his automobile met at the spot where the country road leaves the state highway. They stopped for a conference.

A big milk truck driven by Emory A. Luebke of Whitewater, Wis., was rolling down the road. Luebke tried to stop but skidded into the snow plow and the police car.

Then along came Alex Jankowski, 36, of Woodstock, in his automobile. He ran into the whole shebang.

Jankowski was taken to an Elgin hospital, seriously injured. Dr. Gabby finally made it to the Svatik home, but the daughter had been born unattended.

Weather Forecast
Some cloudiness with moderate temperature today.

WILSON APPEALS TO SWITCHMEN

Increase Of $10,155,000,000 In Income And Excise Levies Is Asked By Administration

Cautious Approach To "Rugged" Bill Is Favored By Some On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Snyder outlined the proposed $10,155,000,000 defense tax increase to Congress today, disclosing that in its sweep across the nation's economy it calls for 20 per cent more income taxes from the little fellow.

Heavy increases in corporate income taxes also were proposed. They would be accompanied by greatly increased levies on new automobiles, liquor, beer, cigarets, radios, refrigerators and many other consumer items.

Snyder called the program "rather rugged." He told the House Ways and Means Committee it was only the first step in the administration's plan to get at least $16,500,000,000 more revenue to put the government on a pay-as-we-go basis during the vast rearmament program.

And, the Secretary added, if the Treasury has its way, individual and corporate tax increases will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1951.

Wall Street expressed astonishment at the program. New York businessmen said they had been resigned to tax increases, but that size of the boosts proposed flabbergasted them.

Cautious Approach Favored

A bloc of congressional sentiment favors a cautious approach to the new tax bill, some contending the legislators should wait and size up the budget, then levy a one-package bill. Leaders in both houses indicated they did not expect great speed in getting a bill out despite the administration's request for speed.

Individual income taxpayers would contribute $3,600,000,000 more to the kitty under the plan outlined by the secretary. To collect it, Snyder proposed a boost of four percentage points in each rate — that is, the lowest rate, now 20 per cent, would go up to 24 per cent; the 22 per cent rate to 26, and so on.

As an example, he said a married person with two dependents and a net income of $3,000 now pays $120 federal tax or four per cent of his income. The proposed rates would increase his tax liability to $144 or 4.8 per cent of his income.

Republican members of the committee immediately raised objections to the administration's two-package approach to the revenue problem.

One Big Bill Suggested

Rep. Reed of New York, top ranking Republican on the committee, suggested that Congress first determine whether non-defense expenditures have been cut to the lowest possible level and then wrap up all the tax increases in one big bill.

Here is where Snyder proposed getting the additional money:

Individual income tax, $3,600,000,000; Corporate income taxes, $3,080,000,000; Excise taxes, $3,035,000,000.

Increases in capital gains tax: Individuals, $330,000,000; corporations, $110,000,000.

Totals, $10,155,000,000.

Excise (sales) taxes would hit a new high under the Treasury's plan and some articles now exempt would be taxed.

The rate on liquor, now $9 per 100-proof gallon, would go up to $12, which would amount to $2.40 a fifth.

India Rejects, Sweden Accepts Committee Spot

U. N. Group To Seek Korean Settlement

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 5 (AP) — Sweden consented tonight to serve on the United Nations Good Offices Committee in the place India refused to take. The committee is seeking a settlement of the Korean conflict.

Sir Benegal N. Rau of India informed U. N. Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam of Iran today he would not serve on the committee. Entezam then offered Sweden the spot, and Sven Grafstroem, Swedish delegate, accepted.

Sweden has an envoy in Peiping, Red Chinese capital. Entezam was reported anxious to have one member of the three-man committee from a government with a channel to Red China.

Word From Pearson Awaited

Entezam was closeted today with Grafstroem; R. G. Riddell of Canada; and U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie. The Assembly president, a member of the committee, still is waiting definite word from Lester B. Pearson, Canadian foreign minister who served with Entezam and Rau on a cease-fire committee in December and January.

Pearson was reported reluctant to serve unless the original three-man group remained intact, but it was said considerable pressure was being put on him by Entezam and other delegates to remain. Final word is not expected from Pearson until the end of the foreign affairs debate in the Canadian Parliament.

Group Set Up By Assembly

Rau was the leader of a group of 12 Asian and Arab nations which sought another peace appeal to Communist China. The proposal was turned down by the Assembly, and New Delhi refused to permit him to serve.

Mexico, Norway and Argentina were being mentioned also as possibilities. The Good Offices Committee was set up last week by the U. N. Assembly to try for a cease-fire and a settlement of the whole problem. If it does not report prospects of success, a committee on collective measures is ready to study sanctions against the Chinese, ranging from mild retrictions to military action.

DiSalle-McGrath Accord Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. (AP) — Chairman Maybank (D-SC) said today Price Director Michael V. DiSalle and Attorney General McGrath will be called before a Senate-House "watchdog" committee Wednesday to settle who shall enfore price controls.

The reported high-level differences stemmed from DiSalle's contention that his agency, like the old OPA of World War II days, should handle the mechanics of enforcement, except criminal prosecutions.

McGrath was described as being insistent that the Justice Department should handle all court cases growing out of price and wage controls. McGrath announced last week he was setting up a special enforcement unit.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston promised a "very quick settlement" of the disagreement.

Steel Mill Town Has Panther Scare

CLAIRTON, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—This bustling steel mill town is enjoying the thrills and chills of a black panther scare.

Police began by scoffing at reports of excited residents who telephoned with news of seeing a black panther. Now police aren't so sure. Chief Peter Orsini and others have seen the animal.

The chief said the beast is about four feet long with a long tail. How the animal reached this industrial center near Pittsburgh remains a mystery.

Married People Get Fewer Headaches, Doctor Reports

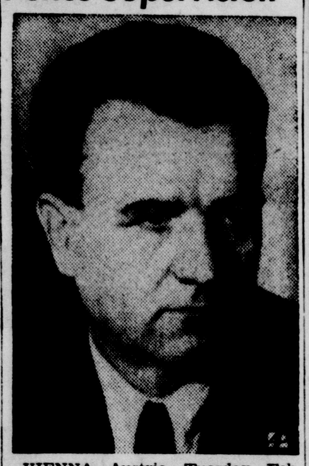
NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Married people have fewer headaches—the hurting kind in the head—than the single ones.

This is one finding in a survey, reported today, of who gets headaches and why.

Educated people get more headaches than the less educated, it shows. Women have more headaches than men. Young people get them oftener than older persons. Housewives suffer more than salesmen. Farmers get the fewest. Medical students are about the worst off, and lawyers rate high, too.

The headache survey, one of the first thorough studies of its kind, was made by Dr. Henry R. Ogden, clinical assistant professor of medicine at Louisiana State University School of Medicine. He reported it to the American Academy of Allergy at a meeting here.

Czech President Is Reported Under Police Supervision



VIENNA, Austria, Tuesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—A Vienna newspaper said today that Czech President Klement Gottwald (above) is under police supervision. It linked the report with the mysterious disappearance of former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis from Prague.

A dispatch from Brno, Czechoslovakia, to the Neue Wiener Tageszeitung said the police action against Gottwald assertedly had been taken on Russian orders because of the President's friendship with Clementis.

Clementis was ousted as Czech foreign minister last March on charges of "bourgeois nationalism" and enmity toward the Soviet Union. It was disclosed Saturday that he had disappeared from his Prague home. Speculation in Prague yesterday was that he had fled the country on hearing that his "highly placed protector" was in disfavor with ruling circles.

The Eighth Army's estimate of enemy casualties inflicted in the current "limited offensive" that began Jan. 25 soared beyond 51,000 with Monday's toll still incomplete.

From Jan. 25 through Feb. 2, the Army estimate of ground and air-inflicted enemy battle casualties was 34,359, of whom 20,615 were listed as killed.

On Feb. 3, the ground total alone was put at 6,601, and on Feb. 4 at 8,635, plus more than 2,000 attributed to two Allied tank columns in a preliminary estimate for Monday's big thrust.

Baltimore Would Get New Congress District Under Md. Democrats' Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The high echelon of Maryland Democrats tonight recommended placing the state's new congressional district in Baltimore.

Their plan will be presented to Democrats in the General Assembly for approval later this week.

The realignment tentatively reached at a closed conference called by Rep. Sasscer, Fifth District dean of Maryland Democratic congressmen, would leave unmolested the two districts now composed entirely of counties. These are the First on the Eastern Shore and Sixth in Western Maryland.

But it would add to Baltimore's representation by slicing all city wards from the Second District and two-thirds of those now situated in the Fifth District.

What to do with the city's additions was left largely to the two congressmen from districts currently within the city limits, Rep. Fallon of the Fourth and Garmatz of the Third.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature was asked tonight to take cognizance of a growing national concern over sale of narcotics to minors by imposing stiff prison terms on the salesmen.

House Speaker Luber of Baltimore's Fifth District introduced a bill to impose a mandatory prison term of from five to 20 years for supplying a minor with narcotic drugs.

This would be in addition to present penalties for selling drugs to anybody which provide for fines of $1,000 to $3,000 and imprisonment up to five years.

Delegate Cardin (D-Balto. 5th) also introduced a bill relating to teen-agers. His would raise the minimum age of granting automobile driving licenses from 16 to 18 years.

A bill to exempt the inventory stock of business firms from state taxation was put in by Delegates Wilkinson, Democrat, and Lillard, Republican, of Prince Georges County.

Order To Draft Childless Men Awaits Approval

Hershey Favors Lower Standards

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today an order now awaiting approval would remove the draft exemption of 220,000 childless married men who are not veterans.

And, he added, he sees no reason "whatever" why physical and mental standards also should not be lowered to tap 150,000 to 250,000 more men, now deferred.

Both these groups would be in the 19 to 26 age group covered by the present draft law.

Still Wants 18-Year-Olds

But Hershey, testifying before the House Armed Services Committee, said these steps still would not meet the nation's defense manpower needs. He stuck to his guns in favor of an administration bill lowering the draft age to 18, and providing universal military service and training.

Some congressmen are reluctant to take 18-year-olds until the draft of the 19-to-26 group is tightened.

Committeemen suggested to Hershey today two additional steps in this tightening process: Drafting of National Guardsmen, and a stricter policy in deferring "essential" industrial and agricultural workers.

Certain Of Approval

Hershey told the committee an order to draft childless married men aged 19 to 26 has been prepared and turned over to defense manpower agencies, where he is virtually certain it will be approved.

The step also requires an executive order by President Truman. Chances for the order would be strong if his manpower chiefs endorse it. No date was indicated.

The order would not apply to married men with more than one dependent. The law itself exempts all war veterans.

Weather Normal Again After Damaging Blow

[By The Associated Press]

The weather returned to normal Monday after dealing the nation the most damaging blows of the winter.

Landslides and a flood threat developed in heavy rains in Northern California. Some of the northern border states had more sub-zero temperatures. But elsewhere the severe cold snap, which caused millions of dollars in damage in the southern states, had ended.

Readings Monday were 10 to 20 degrees higher than Sunday morning in Texas, the Southern Plains and Central Gulf states.

Russia Apparently Ignoring Trygve Lie

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Russia apparently is sticking to her threat to have nothing to do with U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie after he began his extended term Feb. 2.

U. N. officials said communications coming from Russia are now being addressed to the "United Nations Secretariat," instead of to the Secretary-General as previously.

The Russians objected to the extension of Lie's five-year term but were outvoted in the General Assembly.

Strikers Told Tieup Threat To U. S. Safety

Union Chief Says Many Back On Job

[By The Associated Press]

The federal mobilization director Monday night appealed to striking switchmen to go back to work for "the safety of our conutry."

Charles E. Wilson spoke from the White House, with President Truman's approval.

Shortly before he spoke, President W. P. Kennedy of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said a survey showed "hundreds of our men throughout the country are responding to my appeal" to return to their jobs.

In Philadelphia, more than 5,000 rail workers were reported to have ended their six-day "sickness" strike with a back-to-work movement. Their was the first big break in the six-day old nationwide work stoppage.

Wilson told the strikers in a radio address their walkout "was not a legitimate means" to better their working conditions.

"I ask you to report for duty—now, tonight, for those who should be working now—and to stay on the job as patriotic Americans."

Strike Spreads To Erie

Despite the Philadelphia back-to-work movement and Kennedy's statement, the strike Monday night spread to another railroad—the Erie.

More than 250,000 industrial workers, in addition to the strikers, have been made idle by the walkout.

The Erie Railroad announced that the "sick strike" was spreading through its system like "ink on a blotter" and cancelled two main line passenger trains.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey announced it was shutting down all commuter service Tuesday morning, as trainmen and conductors joined the switchmen in their strike. Switchmen reported for duty through the day at several cities Monday, but there were new walkouts in Wisconsin.

Talks Deadlocked

Wage-hour talks in Washington were reported hopelessly deadlocked. A railroad "work or fight" bill was introduced in Congress.

Rep. Andrews (D-Ala.) introduced legislation for immediate induction of striking railroad employes who hold occupational draft deferments.

Andrews called the work stoppage "unpatriotic." He said he understands that many railroad men not working now on the grounds they are "sick" have been deferred from the draft because of their jobs.

The strike dealt new blows to industry. With 125,000 automobile workers idle, an industry source predicted car making will be halted if the walkout continues.

Seeking to end the tieup, the National (railway) Mediation Board met separately in Washington with representatives of the unions and the carriers.

Thomas Bickers, board secretary, said that he had "never seen any more stubborn case." No progress was reported.

South Nevadans Await Biggest A-Blast Yet

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 5 (AP) — A little alarmed by a warning to stay away from windows, Southern Nevadans waited anxiously today for the fifth of the government's current atomic tests. They think it will be the "biggest blast" yet.

When it will be no layman knows. But high government officials are in town, and presumably they want to get back to their desks as quickly as possible.

The AEC, after Sunday's warning to avoid windows which might splinter from sound waves set up by the next explosion, had nothing to say when dawn came and went today without the now-familiar flash in the northwest sky and jarring concussion a few minutes later.

Anti-Labor Spy Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Six senators today introduced a bill to make labor espionage punishable by a $5,000 fine, two years imprisonment, or both. The penalty would apply both to those making espionage reports and to those receiving them.

Infant's Arrival Creates More Than Usual Uproar

HUNTLEY, Ill., Feb. 5 (AP)—When the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Svatik came into the world today, she created more than the usual uproar.

The score was: One man in the hospital seriously injured; a snow plow, a big milk truck, and two automobiles badly damaged.

When the Svatik birth became imminent this morning, Dr. S. L. Gabby of nearby Elgin, the attending physician, asked state highway police to get a snowplow and clear the country road leading to the Svatik farm home.

The snow plow, a state highway police squad car, and Dr. Gabby in his automobile met at the spot where the country road leaves the state highway. They stopped for a conference.

A big milk truck driven by Emory A. Luebke of Whitewater, Wis., was rolling down the road. Luebke tried to stop but skidded into the snow plow and the police car.

Then along came Alex Jankowski, 36, of Woodstock, in his automobile. He ran into the whole shebang.

Jankowski was taken to an Elgin hospital, seriously injured. Dr. Gabby finally made it to the Svatik home, but the daughter had been born unattended.

VFW Plans Larger Drum-Bugle Corps

Plans are under way to increase the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum and Bugle Corps, Henry Hart Post 1411 officials said last night, with the addition of a fife brigade to the unit.

Additional openings for six buglers and five drummers are now available in the corps, officials said, and six fife players are needed to bring the outfit to full strength.

All veterans over 21 years of age are eligible to join the marching corps.

Organization of street rehearsals and plans for parades will be made at the next weekly meeting of the VFW at the post home, Harrison Street, Monday at 7:30 p. m. A report on the banquet held last week in honor of the drum and bugle corps will also be made at the meeting.

Doubt Cast On Legality Of Md. Pay Hike Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—A wage stabilization spokesman today cast doubt on the legality of a proposed pay increase for Maryland's 11,000 state jobholders.

"There is a contradiction in the regulations which cover the situation," said Garnet L. Patterson, legal consultant to the WSB, "and the answer is uncertain. I have hopes for a clarification this week."

A bill was introduced in the General Assembly last week to grant a cost-of-living increase amounting to about $7,500,000.

Increase Of

would be subject to a 20 per cent levy.

Radios, television sets and various other electrical household appliances would be taxed 25 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

Vacuum cleaners, electric razors, washing machines, mangles, dishwashers, sewing machines and a number of other appliances would become subject for the first time to a 25 per cent manufacturer's tax.

Canada's Defense Plan

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (AP) — Defense Minister Brooke Claxton announced tonight a $5,000,000,000 three-year Canadian defense program highlighted by a drive to build up a 40-squadron air force — 11 to be posted to Europe.

The word bureau comes from the French "burel," coarse woolen cloth, because a bureau originally was covered with brown baize.

There are more than 90 cities in the United States with a population larger than that of the state of Nevada.

Because of its strength, the popular name for the old Roman wall between England and Scotland was "Devil's Wall."

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5 (AP)—The United States Bureau of Mines today disclosed development of a new laboratory process for the continuous production of synthesis gas from pulverized coal.

Synthesis gas, carbon monoxide and hydrogen, is used to make synthetic gasoline and other liquid fuels.

H. J. Greenwald, regional director of the bureau, said the new process "offers an easily controlled method for testing gas-making qualities of various materials being studied for producing synthetic liquid fuels."

The process was developed at the bureau's synthesis - gas - production laboratories in Morgantown, W. Va., in cooperation with West Virginia University.

Curtain Falls On Case Of Martinsville Seven

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 5 (AP) — Three men shuffled down death row corridor to the electric chair in the Virginia State Penitentiary today in the final act of the case of the "Martinsville Seven."

In identical fashion to their four companions executed Friday, they paid with their lives for the mass rape two years ago of Mrs. Ruby Stroud Floyd, 32, a white Martinsville, Va., woman.

The executioner required 45 minutes to accomplish what attorneys in dramatic eleventh hour appeals had sought to stop. They made an unsuccessful plea to a U. S. Supreme Court justice Friday for the first four condemned negro men. Another futile bid was made last night.

VFW Plans Larger Drum-Bugle Corps

Plans are under way to increase the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum and Bugle Corps, Henry Hart Post 1411 officials said last night, with the addition of a fife brigade to the unit.

Additional openings for six buglers and five drummers are now available in the corps, officials said, and six fife players are needed to bring the outfit to full strength.

All veterans over 21 years of age are eligible to join the marching corps.

Organization of street rehearsals and plans for parades will be made at the next weekly meeting of the VFW at the post home, Harrison Street, Monday at 7:30 p. m. A report on the banquet held last week in honor of the drum and bugle corps will also be made at the meeting.

Doubt Cast On Legality Of Md. Pay Hike Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—A wage stabilization spokesman today cast doubt on the legality of a proposed pay increase for Maryland's 11,000 state jobholders.

"There is a contradiction in the regulations which cover the situation," said Garnet L. Patterson, legal consultant to the WSB, "and the answer is uncertain. I have hopes for a clarification this week."

A bill was introduced in the General Assembly last week to grant a cost-of-living increase amounting to about $7,500,000.

Canada's Defense Plan

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (AP) — Defense Minister Brooke Claxton announced tonight a $5,000,000,000 three-year Canadian defense program highlighted by a drive to build up a 40-squadron air force — 11 to be posted to Europe.

The word bureau comes from the French "burel," coarse woolen cloth, because a bureau originally was covered with brown baize.

There are more than 90 cities in the United States with a population larger than that of the state of Nevada.

Continuous Method Of Making Synthesis Gas Is Developed

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5 (AP)—The United States Bureau of Mines today disclosed development of a new laboratory process for the continuous production of synthesis gas from pulverized coal.

Synthesis gas, carbon monoxide and hydrogen, is used to make synthetic gasoline and other liquid fuels.

H. J. Greenwald, regional director of the bureau, said the new process "offers an easily controlled method for testing gas-making qualities of various materials being studied for producing synthetic liquid fuels."

The process was developed at the bureau's synthesis - gas - production laboratories in Morgantown, W. Va., in cooperation with West Virginia University.

Curtain Falls On Case Of Martinsville Seven

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 5 (AP) — Three men shuffled down death row corridor to the electric chair in the Virginia State Penitentiary today in the final act of the case of the "Martinsville Seven."

In identical fashion to their four companions executed Friday, they paid with their lives for the mass rape two years ago of Mrs. Ruby Stroud Floyd, 32, a white Martinsville, Va., woman.

The executioner required 45 minutes to accomplish what attorneys in dramatic eleventh hour appeals had sought to stop. They made an unsuccessful plea to a U. S. Supreme Court justice Friday for the first four condemned negro men. Another futile bid was made last night.

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

KNOW THE BOMB'S TRUE DANGERS. KNOW STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO ESCAPE THEM.

What About Radioactivity in the House?

KEEP ALL WINDOWS AND DOORS CLOSED UNTIL IT IS OFFICIALLY REPORTED THAT THERE IS NO POLLUTION IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD

A FEW simple steps will go a long way toward keeping your house from being contaminated by lingering radioactive wastes scattered about in some bombings. As a rule, it is far easier to prevent radioactive pollution of a household than it is to remove it.

Keep all windows and doors closed for at least several hours after an atomic bombing. In fact, better leave them shut until civil defense authorities pass the word that there is no lingering radioactivity in your neighborhood. Should you get an official report that there is serious contamination in the vicinity, better cover all broken windows with blankets or cardboard.

CLOSE FIREPLACE DAMPERS AND SHUT OFF VENTILATING FANS AND AIR CONDITIONERS

Whenever there is widespread neighborhood pollution, it will be impossible to keep your house absolutely free of it. A little is bound to seep in through cracks or else down the chimney. (By all means close the dampers in fireplace flues and shut off air conditioners and ventilating fans not equipped with special filters).

BE CAREFUL NOT TO TRACK RADIOACTIVE MATERIALS INTO THE HOUSE

Unless you are careful, some radioactivity is likely to be tracked in by people or pets. Keep your cat or dog indoors. And when you come in from outside, leave your shoes at the door, for their soles are likely to be covered with radioactive dusts. Better still, wear rubbers, galoshes or other disposable foot coverings over your shoes. Take these precautions, but don't worry. There isn't much chance really dangerous amounts will pile up in the house.

LAUNDER CONTAMINATED OBJECTS IN SPECIAL BUCKETS OR TUBS

Should you help to clean up a contaminated area, you might get some radioactive materials on both your body and clothing. So don't go home and sit around in your work clothes. Take off your outer garments outdoors or in the basement. Then wash, if you can, using warm water and plenty of soap. Never fail to launder your working clothes, but don't use the family washing machine. Scrub all contaminated objects in buckets or tubs used for that purpose only.

What About Food and Water?

WATCH OUT FOR FOOD CONTAMINATION AFTER GROUND OR WATER BURSTS

To prevent harm from accidentally eating or drinking radioactivity, throw out all unpackaged foods that were lying around where dust from ground bursts or mist from underwater bursts might have settled on them. And before opening canned or bottled goods, wash the outside of the containers thoroughly. That will remove most of the pollution that may have gotten on them. Also be sure that all cooking utensils and tableware are scrubbed clean in order to remove any invisible, radioactive dusts. Food and utensils that were in closed drawers or tight cupboards will be all right.

If it was an air burst, don't worry about the food in the house. It will be safe to use.

WATER IN THE PIPES OF YOUR HOUSE AT THE TIME OF EXPLOSION WILL NOT BE RADIOACTIVE

Be careful of drinking water after atomic explosions. There is little or no chance that water actually inside household pipes at the time of attack will be made radioactive. If a little is drawn off right after the burst and placed in clean containers with covers, it should tide you over the immediate post-raid period.

BOIL WATER BEFORE DRINKING UNLESS YOU'VE BEEN OFFICIALLY TOLD IT IS SAFE

But even if the water continues running, don't keep on using tap water for drinking purposes unless you have received official information that the city system is safe. This is not only because of radioactivity, but because of other dangers like typhoid that can come from damaged water systems. If you have to use city water before you get official information, boil it. Boiling won't remove radioactivity, but the chances that your water supply will be radioactive are pretty slim. Boiling will kill most germs that may get into damaged water mains.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) — A RECENT suggestion in these dispatches that it might be comforting for Douglas MacArthur to hear from the people back home, on the occasion of his 71st birthday, caused the General to be swamped with heart-warming mail.

In case you sent him a message, here's MacArthur's answer:

"I would be most grateful if you would convey my heartfelt gratitude to the thousands from all corners of the land who sent me messages of good will and support on my birthday.

"Tell them that my operational duties in the conduct of the war in Korea, the administration of the occupation of Japan and the fulfillment of my responsibilities to other areas within my theater of activity do not permit me the time to answer personally each as I should like to, but that as I read each message I saw reflected in it the great spiritual strength of the American home.

"Not a word expressive of fear, uncertainty or defeatism there, but that quiet determination, resolute will and unconquerable faith which has ever been the guiding impulse to American victory.

"Tell them that they who deprecate the power of American arms under-estimate that mighty reservoir of inspiration which from the home front steadies the eye and steels the arm of the American fighting man on the battle front.

"Tell them that in capable hands such as theirs our country's free destiny is secure and however long and difficult the road with the help of almighty God our immutable concepts of liberty and justice and morality will ultimately prevail. MacArthur."

Gen. Eisenhower's full endorsement of the President's military and relief program for Western Europe lends a trace of credence to the report—unconfirmed—that Mr. Truman has asked the General to head the Democrat ticket in 1952.

If the President did offer to aid any presidential plans of the General, it was his second such gesture. In 1945 Truman left the Potsdam conference tables long enough to review the 84th Division, as a guest of Ike. The General later wrote, in his "Crusade In Europe," that he and the President discussed the future of the American war leaders and the General said he himself hoped to retire and "do what little I could to help our people understand some of the great changes the war had brought to the world." Then Eisenhower continued:

"I shall never forget the President's answer . . . He suddenly turned toward me and said, 'General, there is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically includes the presidency in 1948."

But by 1948 Eisenhower was having difficulty avoiding a Republican Party draft. The following year he made several speeches which political experts, aided by fine-tooth combs, decided were anti-administration. Gov. Dewey then endorsed the General's candidacy, and other Republican leaders swarmed to his unresponsive side.

Eisenhower has never publicly stated whether he is a Republican or Democrat. His speeches since returning from his European tour would indicate, however, that if he is a Republican he does not see eye to eye with, say, Sen. Taft or ex-President Hoover.

Perhaps he has been approached again by the President, a unique honor for any American. If he has been he would now seem to be in line to become the first citizen ever to be endorsed by both major parties.

News item: Alfred Krupp, scion of the 160-year-old German munitions trust, said, upon his release from a war-criminal prison, that Krupp would never again produce arms.

Yep, Krupp finally broke itself of that nagging little 160-year-old habit.

As for Al, he'll never again produce arms until, let's say, he's told to do so by the Allied powers who sprung him for the purpose.

"I shall never forget the President's answer . . . He suddenly turned toward me and said, 'General, there is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically includes the presidency in 1948."

But by 1948 Eisenhower was having difficulty avoiding a Republican Party draft. The following year he made several speeches which political experts, aided by fine-tooth combs, decided were anti-administration. Gov. Dewey then endorsed the General's candidacy, and other Republican leaders swarmed to his unresponsive side.

Eisenhower has never publicly stated whether he is a Republican or Democrat. His speeches since returning from his European tour would indicate, however, that if he is a Republican he does not see eye to eye with, say, Sen. Taft or ex-President Hoover.

Perhaps he has been approached again by the President, a unique honor for any American. If he has been he would now seem to be in line to become the first citizen ever to be endorsed by both major parties.

News item: Alfred Krupp, scion of the 160-year-old German munitions trust, said, upon his release from a war-criminal prison, that Krupp would never again produce arms.

Yep, Krupp finally broke itself of that nagging little 160-year-old habit.

As for Al, he'll never again produce arms until, let's say, he's told to do so by the Allied powers who sprung him for the purpose.

YOU CAN SURVIVE THE ATOM BOMB

What About Radioactivity in the House?

KEEP ALL WINDOWS AND DOORS CLOSED UNTIL IT IS OFFICIALLY REPORTED THAT THERE IS NO POLLUTION IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD

A FEW simple steps will go a long way toward keeping your house from being contaminated by lingering radioactive wastes scattered about in some bombings. As a rule, it is far easier to prevent radioactive pollution of a household than it is to remove it.

Keep all windows and doors closed for at least several hours after an atomic bombing. In fact, better leave them shut until civil defense authorities pass the word that there is no lingering radioactivity in your neighborhood. Should you get an official report that there is serious contamination in the vicinity, better cover all broken windows with blankets or cardboard.

CLOSE FIREPLACE DAMPERS AND SHUT OFF VENTILATING FANS AND AIR CONDITIONERS

Whenever there is widespread neighborhood pollution, it will be impossible to keep your house absolutely free of it. A little is bound to seep in through cracks or else down the chimney. (By all means close the dampers in fireplace flues and shut off air conditioners and ventilating fans not equipped with special filters).

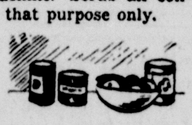
BE CAREFUL NOT TO TRACK RADIOACTIVE MATERIALS INTO THE HOUSE

Unless you are careful, some radioactivity is likely to be tracked in by people or pets. Keep your cat or dog indoors. And when you come in from outside, leave your shoes at the door, for their soles are likely to be covered with radioactive dusts. Better still, wear rubbers, galoshes or other disposable foot coverings over your shoes. Take these precautions, but don't worry. There isn't much chance really dangerous amounts will pile up in the house.

LAUNDER CONTAMINATED OBJECTS IN SPECIAL BUCKETS OR TUBS

Should you help to clean up a contaminated area, you might get some radioactive materials on both your body and clothing. So don't go home and sit around in your work clothes. Take off your outer garments outdoors or in the basement. Then wash, if you can, using warm water and plenty of soap. Never fail to launder your working clothes, but don't use the family washing machine. Scrub all contaminated objects in buckets or tubs used for that purpose only.

What About Food and Water?



WATCH OUT FOR FOOD CONTAMINATION AFTER GROUND OR WATER BURSTS

To prevent harm from accidentally eating or drinking radioactivity, throw out all unpackaged foods that were lying around where dust from ground bursts or mist from underwater bursts might have settled on them. And before opening canned or bottled goods, wash the outside of the containers thoroughly. That will remove most of the pollution that may have gotten on them. Also be sure that all cooking utensils and tableware are scrubbed clean in order to remove any invisible, radioactive dusts. Food and utensils that were in closed drawers or tight cupboards will be all right.

If it was an air burst, don't worry about the food in the house. It will be safe to use.

WATER IN THE PIPES OF YOUR HOUSE AT THE TIME OF EXPLOSION WILL NOT BE RADIOACTIVE

Be careful of drinking water after atomic explosions. There is little or no chance that water actually inside household pipes at the time of attack will be made radioactive. If a little is drawn off right after the burst and placed in clean containers with covers, it should tide you over the immediate post-raid period.

BOIL WATER BEFORE DRINKING UNLESS YOU'VE BEEN OFFICIALLY TOLD IT IS SAFE

But even if the water continues running, don't keep on using tap water for drinking purposes unless you have received official information that the city system is safe. This is not only because of radioactivity, but because of other dangers like typhoid that can come from damaged water systems. If you have to use city water before you get official information, boil it. Boiling won't remove radioactivity, but the chances that your water supply will be radioactive are pretty slim. Boiling will kill most germs that may get into damaged water mains.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) A RECENT suggestion in these dispatches that it might be comforting for Douglas MacArthur to hear from the people back home, on the occasion of his 71st birthday, caused the General to be swamped with heart-warming mail.

In case you sent him a message, here's MacArthur's answer:

"I would be most grateful if you would convey my heartfelt gratitude to the thousands from all corners of the land who sent me messages of good will and support on my birthday.

"Tell them that my operational duties in the conduct of the war in Korea, the administration of the occupation of Japan and the fulfillment of my responsibilities to other areas within my theater of activity do not permit me the time to answer personally each as I should like to, but that as I read each message I saw reflected in it the great spiritual strength of the American home.

"Not a word expressive of fear, uncertainty or defeatism there, but that quiet determination, resolute will and unconquerable faith which has ever been the guiding impulse to American victory.

"Tell them that they who deprecate the power of American arms under-estimate that mighty reservoir of inspiration which from the home front steadies the eye and steels the arm of the American fighting man on the battle front.

"Tell them that in capable hands such as theirs our country's free destiny is secure and however long and difficult the road with the help of almighty God our immutable concepts of liberty and justice and morality will ultimately prevail. MacArthur."

Gen. Eisenhower's full endorsement of the President's military and relief program for Western Europe lends a trace of credence to the report—unconfirmed—that Mr. Truman has asked the General to head the Democrat ticket in 1952.

If the President did offer to aid any presidential plans of the General, it was his second such gesture. In 1945 Truman left the Potsdam conference tables long enough to review the 84th Division, as a guest of Ike. The General later wrote, in his "Crusade In Europe," that he and the President discussed the future of the American war leaders and the General said he himself hoped to retire and "do what little I could to help our people understand some of the great changes the war had brought to the world." Then Eisenhower continued:

"I shall never forget the President's answer . . . He suddenly turned toward me and said, 'General, there is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically includes the presidency in 1948."

But by 1948 Eisenhower was having difficulty avoiding a Republican Party draft. The following year he made several speeches which political experts, aided by fine-tooth combs, decided were anti-administration. Gov. Dewey then endorsed the General's candidacy, and other Republican leaders swarmed to his unresponsive side.

Eisenhower has never publicly stated whether he is a Republican or Democrat. His speeches since returning from his European tour would indicate, however, that if he is a Republican he does not see eye to eye with, say, Sen. Taft or ex-President Hoover.

Perhaps he has been approached again by the President, a unique honor for any American. If he has been he would now seem to be in line to become the first citizen ever to be endorsed by both major parties.

To Quiet Rumors

The White House announces that the Federal Reserve Board has pledged its support to President Truman "to maintain the stability of government securities as long as the emergency lasts." White House Secretary Joseph Short adds an explanation. "This," said he, "is to quiet those rumors."

What rumors? Readers of the financial pages can answer. For weeks there have been reports of differences between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board over a question that has been raised before but has lately been posed in acute form. The swift advance of prices has turned attention to the Treasury's policy of keeping the interest rate on government securities at low levels, which Secretary of the Treasury Snyder intends to continue. The Federal Reserve Board could bring about higher rates and thus, in the opinion of many experts, put a brake on inflation.

There are indications that these clashing opinions exist. Secretary Snyder has made known his position, which is that there is no evidence that "fractional" increases in interest rates have retarded inflationary borrowing—but that even a small rise in the interest paid on the public debt can cost the government upwards of a billion dollars. Thomas C. McCabe, FRB chairman, has not openly challenged this view. Recently, however, he endorsed a statement of 400 economists who called for a rise as a move against inflation.

So the White House announcement indicates that Secretary Snyder has won this latest argument. That may save the government a half billion or thereabouts in interest charges, but it will not necessarily be an economical move If inflation continues, the government can lose not half a billion, a billion, but many billions in higher prices paid for what it buys. Snyder doesn't seem to think so, but if he is mistaken the American people will pay a stiff price for his stubborn insistence on getting his way. And can those 400 economists be wrong?

Still The Deterrent

The series of nuclear detonations near Las Vegas, Nev., point toward an obvious conclusion. Since they were of varying explosive power, American scientists now know how to put up atomic materials in packages to produce different effects. The atomic bomb has been succeeded, apparently, by a number of atomic weapons.

This, in the kind of world Americans must live in whether they like it or not, must be regarded as good news. The fact that American scientists can set off a series of nuclear explosions in a period of days is proof that their efforts to learn more about atomic energy have ben fruitful. It will not restore the sense of relative security Americans had before it was announced that Russia had succeeded in producing an atomic bomb.

Actually, American superiority in the field of Atomic weapons may be the only thing that stands in the way of a direct Russian attack on the free nations. At a recent press conference, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter drew a sharp line between air power that is a deterrent to war and air power that is chiefly valuable in winning a war after it starts.

He said that American long-range aircraft, capable of striking with atomic weapons inside the territory of a potential enemy, is a preventive of war. Planes for the support of ground troops are not.

That was tantamount to an assertion that this country is still relying on its bombers and atomic bombs to deter Russia while is it building up armed strength to match that of the Reds if and when the Kremlin no longer fears America's stock of atomic bombs.

But the U. N. now has other nuclear weapons possessing a scope and flexibility not thought of even a year ago. The Russians must weigh this new situation carefully before they take an irrevocable step.

Winters Are Different

Not much has been heard this winter to the effect that winters are different from what they were 40 or 50 years ago. If winters long ago were colder than the temperatures that have prevailed this winter over a large part of the nation, they were humdingers. Not for years have there been so many news items of the temperature dropping so low that the mercury in thermometers froze. Mercury freezes at 38 degrees below zero.

But if this winter has not been greatly different meteorologically from those of a half century ago, it has been different in many other ways. Weather years ago did not have the impact upon transportation that it now has. Trains stopped running when snow became too deep, and horse transportation was interfered with, but people expected such occurrences every winter and were prepared for them.

There was plenty of food in the cellar and there was no danger of starvation if it became inconvenient to dash to the nearest store. Today, if the average household is cut off from its food suppliers for three days, the cuisine becomes mighty limited.

If electric current was disrupted by a storm in the old days, it made little difference to the average citizen whose house wasn't wired anyway. It didn't shut down his heating system, which was hand fired and probably used wood as fuel, nor interfere with his refrigeration, which was provided by nature.

The greatest inconvenience caused by weather which swept down from the Arctic regions, in the old days, was the nightly freezing of the pump. Buckets of boiling water were required to get it going again in the morning, but this accomplished life resumed its smooth course and worries were less technological than is the case today.

End Of A Shady Deal

No sympathy should be wasted on the two New York detectives who, as the result of a court order, have now lost their $6,000 city pensions. They knew what they were doing and so did former Mayor O'Dwyer, the engineer of the deal.

The whole proceeding was a piece of trickery and the payment of pensions was, as the court declares, an outright "gift of public funds." The two men were first-grade detectives and as such were entitled upon retirement to benefits of $2,587 a year.

But Mayor O'Dwyer first appointed them as his chauffeurs and then, on the eve of his own resignation to become ambassador to Mexico, made them deputy police commissioners. Given this high and unearned rank, both promptly applied for retirement and were awarded pensions of $6,000 a year.

In ruling that the awards are null and void the court not only issues an indirect rebuke to O'Dwyer but strikes a needed blow against the policy of regarding public money as private property.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Take Care Of Child's Teeth

THE STATEMENT is made frequently that serious dental defects later in life could be lessened by administering timely dental treatment of children. This sound logical and it is no wonder that the 75,000 practicing American dentists are willing to give priority to youngsters. In addition, they have gone further by adopting the slogan, "More and better dentistry for children."

Dental decay is one of the most common diseases of civilized man. A study made in several thousand dental offices throughout the country revealed that in the year 1940 the average adult required 4.4 fillings and 2.2 extractions. One out of four needed a bridge, one out of six a partial denture, one out of seven a full upper denture, and one out of 10 a full lower denture. Selective service records from World War II showed that defective dentition was one of the most frequent causes of rejection. If better dental care for boys and girls will offset this state of affairs we are all for it and urge parents to cooperate.

Age is no barrier as studies demonstrate that caries is rife even among two and three-year-olds. It is not wise to wait until the youngster complains or a cavity can be seen with the naked eye. By this time it may be too late to save the structure. Moreover, a family history of good teeth is no guarantee that the children will escape trouble. The truth of the matter is that 90 per cent of them develop dental disorders and the odds are too high to assume that any one child is the exception.

A standard excuse for neglect is that the baby set will fall out anyway. This is idle chatter because the structures are identical with the permanent teeth except for their size and short existence. They are are necessary to the child for chewing purposes as for the adult and in some respects are more essential because proper nutrition is so necessary for growth and for laying the foundation of future well being. In addition, an abscessed tooth may affect the body in the same way as infected tonsils. There is no reason why one is more serious than the other.

Baby teeth are essential to the proper eruption and position of the permanent set. They are nature's space retractors and help the teeth to grow in a straight line. The roots begin to absorb when the permanent incisor, for example, is about to erupt. The timing of this mechanism is miraculous. In the span of years when the old teeth are leaving and the new ones coming there always are some of both sets for grinding and others for cutting. In this way there is no interference with mastication, which means that nutrition can proceed normally.

Neglecting dental difficulties defeats this phenomenon; it is hard to chew on broken down, painful, or abscessed teeth. Many school-age youngsters will not complain unless distress severe but they are restless and fussy and eat and sleep poorly. When asked point blank whether a tooth hurts they will mention an ache here and there. With immediate attention, the tooth can be saved and future trouble is averted. This is reason enough for "more and better dentistry for children."

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses heating and ventilation requirements.

EXERCISE AFTER SURGERY

Mrs. S. writes: I have your leaflet on exercises to reduce the waistline and hips. Can these exercises be used several months after an abdominal operation? Since that time I have put on a lot of weight.

REPLY

Yes. They can be started as soon as healing has occurred.

•—•—•

STOMACH BUBBLE

J. W. writes: A fluroscopic examination disclosed a bubble of air in my stomach. What disease does this indicate?

REPLY

It indicates that you are normal. This bubble is with us day and night and usually is largest after eating and smallest after a good burp.

•—•—•

NASAL BLOCKAGE

L. K. writes: I had a deviated septum repaired but still breathe through my mouth. What do I do next?

REPLY

If the nasal passageways are now open your mouth breathing must be firmly established as a habit.

•—•—•

PUFFY TOES

B. W. writes: Could working at a standing job cause the toes to swell? What are other causes?

REPLY

Yes, but when swelling is extensive enough to be noticeable, inflammation of the lymph channels, veins, and joints, as well as skin infections, must be considered. Possibilities include phlebitis, gout, ringworm of the feet, and a "run-around" associated with an ingrown nail.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Pentagon Debates Big Army Vs. Air Armada; Truman Tax Conference Resulted In Sharp Clashes; Jimmie Byrnes Will Fight For His Program

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—An all-important debate is going on inside the Pentagon. On its outcome will depend whether we keep on building up a huge land army; also whether we draft more married men and have a continuing policy of drafting 18-year-olds.

The debate is over the basic military question of whether it takes a big army of foot soldiers or a big air armada to win a war.

Old line army men, led by General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, together with Gen. Lawton Collins, the Army's Chief of Staff, both favor building a huge army, claim that final victory will be decided on the ground.

The Air Force, on the other hand, argues that we can never outnumber the red hordes of Asia and Russia; that our only chance to win is to produce superior weapons and airplanes. Russia, they claim, can never be whipped on the ground. Her manpower reserves are too limitless and the Russian value of life too cheap.

There is a very honest difference of opinion about this, and the men who differ do so not to promote their own type of warfare but with the interest of their country at heart.

The debate has now gone one step beyond the Pentagon to the National Security Council, composed of President Truman, Vice President Barkley, Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Security Resources Board Chairman Stuart Symington.

Inside the National Security Council, Symington is leading the fight to put most of our defense eggs in the aviation and tactical weapons basket. He is chiefly opposed by General Marshall, a former infantryman, who argues for a big land army.

So far the President has stuck with Marshall.

However, the outcome of the atomic tests in Nevada may help to settle the question. One of the most important weapons the scientists are reported testing in Nevada is atomic artillery shells which Gen. Collins announced we were developing. If atomic artillery shells are proved practical in the Nevada test, it will make the Red Army's famed artillery old fashioned overnight and will mean that a big land army is not so necessary.

Unrecommended Reading

Two ex-Roosevelt aides, George Allen and Judge Samuel Rosenman, were traveling from New York to Washington and had a literary argument in the diner.

Noticing a man at the next table deep in a book, Judge Rosenman remarked: "Now there is a citizen improving his mind on his way to Washington. What kind of book do you suppose it is?"

"George," continued Rosenman in deep horror, "the country is going to the bowwows. It's that terrible low-brow book of yours, 'Presidents Who Have Known Me.' Here I write a serious, scholarly book about government, and haven't found more than ten people who ever read it. But this terrible thing of yours is every place.

"There are only two pieces of reading matter in the entire dining car," concluded Rosenman, "The menu and your book. Personally I prefer the menu!"

Truman On Taxes

The President's private tax conference with members of the House Ways and Means Committee wasn't nearly as chummy as the press indicated. There were some sharp clashes over government economy, also over Truman's piece-meal tax program—a plan by which Congress would approve $10 billion of new taxes now, then another $6½ billion later.

"I realize that the more we economize the less we will have to tax," Truman announced. "However, I have scrutinized the budget with great care and find that we just can't cut expenditures any more without sacrificing efficiency. We have already cut to the bone, but I am open to suggestions."

"Senator Byrd of Virginia has made some very fine suggestions on how to effect economies in domestic spending," remarked GOP Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois. "We could save a lot of money if they were carried out."

"It's one thing to speak about economy," snapped the President, "but it's quite another to accomplish it without endangering the necessary operations of the government."

"We're talking about wasteful operations that can be cut down or eliminated," interposed GOP Congressman Dan Reed of New York. He pointed out that overstaffing of nondefense agencies was one example.

Reducing Exemptions

Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, another Republican, added: "Mr. President, you have told us how to get the first $10 billion of your tax program, but you haven't told us where the additional $6½ billion is coming from. How can you get that without delving deeper into the pockets of lower-income taxpayers? How can you do it without lowering their personal exemptions from $600 to $500 which you apparently oppose?"

"That's something your committee will have to decide," replied Truman warmly. "I will make some suggestions, but it's your job to write the tax laws."

"Well, if you really meant it when you said that you wanted us to raise $16½ billion, then we must assume that you want us to reduce the exemptions of lower-bracket taxpayers in addition to increasing their regular taxes," persisted the Pennsylvania Congressman.

This is the $64 question that everybody agrees will have to be answered eventually. It was obvious at the White House meeting, however, that neither Truman nor the committee (including its Democratic members) wanted to take responsibility for such a politically unpopular move.

"That's a committee matter," reiterated the President. "I haven't asked for a lowering of personal exemptions."

Governor Jimmie Byrnes

For years the Legislature of South Carolina has quarreled with the Governor of South Carolina. Last month, however, South Carolina's legislators finally met a governor whom they may have to get along with—ex-Secretary of State, ex-Supreme Court Justice, ex-Senator, ex-War Mobilizer Jimmie Byrnes.

Byrnes, who has fought plenty of battles on the Potomac, is determined to push a $75,000,000 school program through the South Carolina Legislature—much of it for Negro schools. He also wants a sales tax to finance the school program, plus a complete reorganization of the state government.

Probably he'll win—due to the fact that 90 per cent of the people love him and the other 10 per cent fear him.

NOTE—Though invited to come to Washington to advise the State Department, Byrnes plans to stick to his knitting in South Carolina.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Mobilizer

WASHINGTON—

IT IS TOO bad that in these troubled times, Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson cannot be regularly exhibited to selected guided tours. During the mornings, perhaps, groups of the more defeatist politicians and government officials might alternate with parties of worried Allies and of the narrower sort of businessmen; while larger troops of ordinary voters could be admitted in the afternoons.

The mere spectacle of this huge, raw-boned, red-faced, ham-fisted man is in itself reassuring. There is something natural and simple and powerful about Wilson that must strike even the sort of politician who normally has eyes only for the main chance. And if Wilson would talk for a bit in his plain unvarnished way about America and what America can do, the doubt and defeatism in which most people clammily wallow nowadays would be suddenly dispelled, like smog shredding away before a gust of good air.

What manner of man Charles Wilson may be is now a vitally important question, since he is, in his own person, the national device for making up for criminally lost time. In the government, the seismic shocks resulting from the Defense Mobilizer's enormous new powers over production, manpower, wages, prices, raw materials, housing and research can already be observed in the miffed expressions of Cabinet members whose new boss he has in fact become. In the country, his effort will probably be little noticed until the man in the street feels the inevitably unpleasant first effects, in the form of shortages, labor dislocations and the like.

"The worst problem I've got," Wilson says himself, "is that we have to take wartime measures in peacetime, when people aren't ready for them."

Due To Un-Awareness

But this national un-awareness is, of course, the penalty for having to make up for lost time. Wilson's task, as he conceives it, is to rebuild the dismantled defenses of the United States and the Western World in the shortest possible interval, thus reducing to a minimum the unavoidable time of danger when a weak Western defense invites Soviet aggression. For a while, because the task of defense has been put off for so long, measures that would normally be taken only in wartime must be adopted in what passes for peace-time. It does not bother Wilson.

"If I thought I could get the job done any faster," he says, "I'd just ask for whatever I needed to do it. In this business, it's the country you've got to think about."

The job he has set for himself is nothing less than a permanent expansion of American productivity of

'Economist' Twits British Government On Tactics

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Many people here have had a good laugh over an article in the London "Economist" twitting the British government on its recent tactics in the UN in connection with the Korean situation. It is in the form of an imaginary dispatch dated about a year hence—January 22, 1952—from a British correspondent at Lake Success. It reads as follows:

"Since the withdrawal of the United Nations forces from Bonn, opinion in the assembly has been veering in favour of the American view that it is necessary to abandon Germany altogether in order to restore peace in Europe. The British delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, has, indeed, continued to press for the condemnation of Russia as an aggressor, arguing that the whole purpose of the United Nations would be stultified if the assembly refused to stigmatize the Russian invasion of West Germany as an aggression. The American delegate, Mr. Warren Austin, however, is urging caution: he maintains that hasty action would not be in the interests of peace and that time is needed to study the latest Russian counter-proposals, which should be given the most careful consideration.

Russia Confident

"The proposal of the United Nations political committee for a cease-fire in Germany, to be followed by a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers, was rejected by Russia, who insisted that Russian basic terms for a settlement must be accepted before the victorious Russian volunteers could be advised to desist from their offensive. The Russian demand is that all foreign troops must be withdrawn from Germany and that the internal affairs of Germany must be settled by the Germans themselves; as all German politicians who have not either escaped across the Rhine or joined the Communists have now been shot, Moscow is confident that Herr Ulbricht will be able to handle the situation without difficulty. The Russians are willing to accept the proposal for a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers on condition that representatives of Italy, Iraq and Mongolia are added to it and that the conference is held in Leningrad.

"The British Army having suffered 50,000 casualties in the fighting in Germany, British public opinion is in a somewhat excitable mood and the government is being sharply criticized by the opposition for the ineffectiveness of its European policy. The Prime Minister has pointed out that the RAF cannot be used for bombing beyond the boundary of the British zone without a decision of the United Nations, but he has promised to do all he can to get the United Nations to declare Russia an aggressor, even though it is generally recognized that no sanctions are likely to be imposed. Opinion in well-informed circles in Washington, however, is that America must be wary of being drawn into an extension of hostilities; it is felt that the British are liable to be headstrong in their reactions to events in Europe and that their old imperial traditions are making them unduly bellicose. The State Department has not yet abandoned its hope of detaching Russia from China, and deprecates any policy which might have the effect of driving Stalin into the arms of Mao.

"Senator Bebop has made an important speech at Cincinnati, in which he warned the American people against allowing American troops to be tied up in Europe when there was such a serious danger of Russo-Chinese attack on Alaska, Japan and the Philippines. He said it was very unfortunate that nobody seemed to be able to exercise any control over General Eisenhower, who had evidently underestimated the prospects of Russian intervention when he pursued the East German invaders back across the zonal boundary. Everything should be done to restore peace as quickly as possible, so that there should be no damage to the old friendship between the Russian and American peoples. The Russians, he declared, were a proud people who would not long be subservient to the mandarins of the forbidden city.

India Still At It

"A deep impression has also been made by an address delivered to the Foreign Policy Association by Mr. John K. Poffenheimer of Adriatic Exports Inc., who told his audience that he had been doing excellent business in trade from Trieste behind the iron curtain and that, if only America would do nothing to interfere with Russian expansion, there was no reason why this trade should not go on for a few years longer. He said that communism in Europe could not be stopped by force, and the sooner Britain realised this, the better.

"The Indian Prime Minister has also given a press conference in Mexico opposing the idea of declaring Russia an aggressor. The Russians, he said, had suffered great humiliations in the period before Peter the Great, and naturally it would take them a long time to get over it; they were very sensitive to criticism and, if they were to be branded as aggressors simply because they had committed an act of aggression, it might spoil the chances of peaceful negotiation. The Indian delegation in the assembly has been taking a similar line with the support of the bloc of Asian and Arab countries.

"The latest news from Germany is that the Russians have crossed the Rhine on a broad front and that an armoured spearhead has penetrated into Aachen. The political committee of the assembly has today voted for an adjournment to consider Mr. Vyshinsky's clarification of the Russian terms for a cease-fire. Sir Gladwyn Jebb strongly opposed the adjournment, declaring that the new Russian statement was a transparent attempt to divide the free world and delay the exercise of the pacific functions of the United Nations. Mr. Warren Austin, however, urged that delegates must have time to consult their governments about the 'new situation' and said that in the opinion of his government the United Nations 'should not at this stage take a new and important decision.' These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Salesman Ike

GENERAL Dwight D. Eisenhower is possessed of so charming and convincing a personality that President Truman could have selected no one more able to sell his war program, or who could have done it more effectively.

Furthermore, it takes considerable courage to question General Eisenhower's judgement on a military question in view of his expertness and authority in this particular field. While it is possible to wonder whether the President quite understands the problems of war, it is not possible to have the same doubts about General Eisenhower.

Again, while General George Marshall has been involved in startling errors, proved by time to have been errors of knowledge as well as judgment, General Eisenhower has not become so involved. He has had no part in the Asiatic confusion and bears no responsibility for Teheran or Yalta.

This places him in an extraordinary position to influence public opinion, and his responsibilities are the greater because his acceptance is so universal.

Therefore, an analysis of his speeches, press interviews and the reports of his meetings with congressional committees must take on this objective approach: That with keen desire to accept what General Eisenhower has said as gospel truth, it is still essential, under our system of government, to scrutinize, analyze, and debate his suggestions with the view toward discovering, as far as possible, the exact state of our own security.

1. It is clear that General Eisenhower adds nothing to nor does he modify the terms, purposes and arrangements of the Brussels Conference. Therefore, his speeches could have been made before his trip to Europe, or without any trip at all. His was a confirmatory inspection.

2. He holds that the President should be in a position to send ground troops, of whatever quantity, anywhere without restriction.

3. While this is the equipment-providing stage, no restrictions are to be placed upon the man-giving stage.

4. Spain, Yugoslavia, Turkey and Formosa are not included in his program. His remarks concerning Germany are remote and inconclusive.

He said:

"I am not even going to mention my several conversations in Germany, and for a very specific reason. I personally think that there has to be a political platform achieved, an understanding that will contemplate an eventual and earned equality on the part of that nation, before we should start to talk about including units of Germans in any kind of army."

In a word, France's program regarding Germany is to be accepted by the United States, although that means that more manpower will have to be provided either by France or the United States.

5. While, in a plea for patience, he refers to France's commitments in French Indo-China and Great Britain's in Malaya, General Eisenhower makes no comment on our own enormous commitments in Korea. Why are we more concerned with other countries' commitments than with our own?

6. General Eisenhower declines any commitment on ratios of obligations, which translated means a free hand and an open heart, without a specified quid pro quo. That cost us $50,000,000,000 in lend-lease, as operated by Harry Hopkins, including $11,000,000,00 for Soviet Russia.

Lend-Lease did not bring to the United States security from war, for had it done so, General Eisenhower would not have been called upon to make these speeches and statements. Nor has it brought us friendships, as the recent conduct of nations at the United Nations clearly indicated.

If there is to be a giving, there ought to be some fixed obligations by the recipients of our benefactions. General Eisenhower does not indicate that he has such a plan in mind.

7. He said:

"I do not believe, for example, that the United States can pick up the world on its economic, financial and material shoulders and carry it. We must have cooperation if we are going to work with other nations. The results of the effort would be the mutual, the common good, the common security of the nations of the free world."

Nothing could be sounder doctrine. Yet it comes out of committee that he anticipates a 20 or 30-year period of confusion and cost. Will our economy and a lowering standard of living sustain either this operation

To Quiet Rumors

The White House announces that the Federal Reserve Board has pledged its support to President Truman "to maintain the stability of government securities as long as the emergency lasts." White House Secretary Joseph Short adds an explanation. "This," said he, "is to quiet those rumors."

What rumors? Readers of the financial pages can answer. For weeks there have been reports of differences between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board over a question that has been raised before but has lately been posed in acute form. The swift advance of prices has turned attention to the Treasury's policy of keeping the interest rate on government securities at low levels, which Secretary of the Treasury Snyder intends to continue. The Federal Reserve Board could bring about higher rates and thus, in the opinion of many experts, put a brake on inflation.

There are indications that these clashing opinions exist. Secretary Snyder has made known his position, which is that there is no evidence that "fractional" increases in interest rates have retarded inflationary borrowing—but that even a small rise in the interest paid on the public debt can cost the government upwards of a billion dollars. Thomas C. McCabe, FRB chairman, has not openly challenged this view. Recently, however, he endorsed a statement of 400 economists who called for a rise as a move against inflation.

So the White House announcement indicates that Secretary Snyder has won this latest argument. That may save the government a half billion or thereabouts in interest charges, but it will not necessarily be an economical move If inflation continues, the government can lose not half a billion, a billion, but many billions in higher prices paid for what it buys. Snyder doesn't seem to think so, but if he is mistaken the American people will pay a stiff price for his stubborn insistence on getting his way. And can those 400 economists be wrong?

Still The Deterrent

The series of nuclear detonations near Las Vegas, Nev., point toward an obvious conclusion. Since they were of varying explosive power, American scientists now know how to put up atomic materials in packages to produce different effects. The atomic bomb has been succeeded, apparently, by a number of atomic weapons.

This, in the kind of world Americans must live in whether they like it or not, must be regarded as good news. The fact that American scientists can set off a series of nuclear explosions in a period of days is proof that their efforts to learn more about atomic energy have ben fruitful. It will not restore the sense of relative security Americans had before it was announced that Russia had succeeded in producing an atomic bomb.

Actually, American superiority in the field of Atomic weapons may be the only thing that stands in the way of a direct Russian attack on the free nations. At a recent press conference, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter drew a sharp line between air power that is a deterrent to war and air power that is chiefly valuable in winning a war after it starts.

He said that American long-range aircraft, capable of striking with atomic weapons inside the territory of a potential enemy, is a preventive of war. Planes for the support of ground troops are not.

That was tantamount to an assertion that this country is still relying on its bombers and atomic bombs to deter Russia while is it building up armed strength to match that of the Reds if and when the Kremlin no longer fears America's stock of atomic bombs.

But the U. N. now has other nuclear weapons possessing a scope and flexibility not thought of even a year ago. The Russians must weigh this new situation carefully before they take an irrevocable step.

Winters Are Different

Not much has been heard this winter to the effect that winters are different from what they were 40 or 50 years ago. If winters long ago were colder than the temperatures that have prevailed this winter over a large part of the nation, they were humdingers. Not for years have there been so many news items of the temperature dropping so low that the mercury in thermometers froze. Mercury freezes at 38 degrees below zero.

But if this winter has not been greatly different meteorologically from those of a half century ago, it has been different in many other ways. Weather years ago did not have the impact upon transportation that it now has. Trains stopped running when snow became too deep, and horse transportation was interfered with, but people expected such occurrences every winter and were prepared for them.

There was plenty of food in the cellar and there was no danger of starvation if it became inconvenient to dash to the nearest store. Today, if the average household is cut off from its food suppliers for three days, the cuisine becomes mighty limited.

If electric current was disrupted by a storm in the old days, it made little difference to the average citizen whose house wasn't wired anyway. It didn't shut down his heating system, which was hand fired and probably used wood as fuel, nor interfere with his refrigeration, which was provided by nature.

The greatest inconvenience caused by weather which swept down from the Arctic regions in the old days, was the nightly freezing of the pump. Buckets of boiling water were required to get it going again in the morning, but this accomplished life resumed its smooth course and worries were less technological than is the case today.

End Of A Shady Deal

No sympathy should be wasted on the two New York detectives who, as the result of a court order, have now lost their $6,000 city pensions. They knew what they were doing and so did former Mayor O'Dwyer, the engineer of the deal.

The whole proceeding was a piece of trickery and the payment of pensions was, as the court declares, an outright "gift of public funds." The two men were first-grade detectives and as such were entitled upon retirement to benefits of $2,587 a year.

But Mayor O'Dwyer first appointed them as his chauffeurs and then, on the eve of his own resignation to become ambassador to Mexico, made them deputy police commissioners. Given this high and unearned rank, both promptly applied for retirement and were awarded pensions of $6,000 a year.

In ruling that the awards are null and void the court not only issues an indirect rebuke to O'Dwyer but strikes a needed blow against the policy of regarding public money as private property.

Take Care Of Child's Teeth

THE STATEMENT is made frequently that serious dental defects later in life could be lessened by administering timely dental treatment of children. This sound logical and it is no wonder that the 75,000 practicing American dentists are willing to give priority to youngsters. In addition, they have gone further by adopting the slogan, "More and better dentistry for children."

Dental decay is one of the most common diseases of civilized man. A study made in several thousand dental offices throughout the country revealed that in the year 1940 the average adult required 4.4 fillings and 2.2 extractions. One out of four needed a bridge, one out of six a partial denture, one out of seven a full upper denture, and one out of 10 a full lower denture. Selective service records from World War II showed that defective dentition was one of the most frequent causes of rejection. If better dental care for boys and girls will offset this state of affairs we are all for it and urge parents to cooperate.

Age is no barrier as studies demonstrate that caries is rife even among two and three-year-olds. It is not wise to wait until the youngster complains or a cavity can be seen with the naked eye. By this time it may be too late to save the structure. Moreover, a family history of good teeth is no guarantee that the children will escape trouble. The truth of the matter is that 90 per cent of them develop dental disorders and the odds are too high to assume that any one child is the exception.

A standard excuse for neglect is that the baby set will fall out anyway. This is idle chatter because the structures are identical with the permanent teeth except for their size and short existence. They are are necessary to the child for chewing purposes as for the adult and in some respects are more essential because proper nutrition is so necessary for growth and for laying the foundation of future well being. In addition, an abscessed tooth may affect the body in the same way as infected tonsils. There is no reason why one is more serious than the other.

Baby teeth are essential to the proper eruption and position of the permanent set. They are nature's space retractors and help the teeth to grow in a straight line. The roots begin to absorb when the permanent incisor, for example, is about to erupt. The timing of this mechanism is miraculous. In the span of years when the old teeth are leaving and the new ones coming there always are some of both sets for grinding and others for cutting. In this way there is no interference with mastication, which means that nutrition can proceed normally.

Neglecting dental difficulties defeats this phenomenon; it is hard to chew on broken down, painful, or abscessed teeth. Many school-age youngsters will not complain unless distress severe but they are restless and fussy and eat and sleep poorly. When asked point blank whether a tooth hurts they will mention an ache here and there. With immediate attention, the tooth can be saved and future trouble is averted. This is reason enough for "more and better dentistry for children."

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses heating and ventilation requirements.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—An all-important debate is going on inside the Pentagon. On its outcome will depend whether we keep on building up a huge land army; also whether we draft more married men and have a continuing policy of drafting 18-year-olds.

The debate is over the basic military question of whether it takes a big army of foot soldiers or a big air armada to win a war.

Old line army men, led by General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, together with Gen. Lawton Collins, the Army's Chief of Staff, both favor building a huge army, claim that final victory will be decided on the ground.

The Air Force, on the other hand, argues that we can never outnumber the red hordes of Asia and Russia; that our only chance to win is to produce superior weapons and airplanes. Russia, they claim, can never be whipped on the ground. Her manpower reserves are too limitless and the Russian value of life too cheap.

There is a very honest difference of opinion about this, and the men who differ do so not to promote their own type of warfare but with the interest of their country at heart.

The debate has now gone one step beyond the Pentagon to the National Security Council, composed of President Truman, Vice President Barkley, Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Security Resources Board Chairman Stuart Symington.

Inside the National Security Council, Symington is leading the fight to put most of our defense eggs in the aviation and tactical weapons basket. He is chiefly opposed by General Marshall, a former infantryman, who argues for a big land army.

So far the President has stuck with Marshall.

However, the outcome of the atomic tests in Nevada may help to settle the question. One of the most important weapons the scientists are reported testing in Nevada is atomic artillery shells which Gen. Collins announced we were developing. If atomic artillery shells are proved practical in the Nevada test, it will make the Red Army's famed artillery old fashioned overnight and will mean that a big land army is not so necessary.

Unrecommended Reading

Two ex-Roosevelt aides, George Allen and Judge Samuel Rosenman, were traveling from New York to Washington and had a literary argument in the diner.

Noticing a man at the next table deep in a book, Judge Rosenman remarked: "Now there is a citizen improving his mind on his way to Washington. What kind of book do you suppose it is?"

"George," continued Rosenman in deep horror, "the country is going to the bowwows. It's that terrible low-brow book of yours, 'Presidents Who Have Known Me.' Here I write a serious, scholarly book about government, and haven't found more than ten people who ever read it. But this terrible thing of yours is every place.

"There are only two pieces of reading matter in the entire dining car," concluded Rosenman, "The menu and your book. Personally I prefer the menu!"

Truman On Taxes

The President's private tax conference with members of the House Ways and Means Committee wasn't nearly as chummy as the press indicated. There were some sharp clashes over government economy, also over Truman's piece-meal tax program—a plan by which Congress would approve $10 billion of new taxes now, then another $6½ billion later.

"I realize that the more we economize the less we will have to tax," Truman announced. "However, I have scrutinized the budget with great care and find that we just can't cut expenditures any more without sacrificing efficiency. We have already cut to the bone, but I am open to suggestions."

"Senator Byrd of Virginia has made some very fine suggestions on how to effect economies in domestic spending," remarked GOP Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois. "We could save a lot of money if they were carried out."

"It's one thing to speak about economy," snapped the President, "but it's quite another to accomplish it without endangering the necessary operations of the government."

"We're talking about wasteful operations that can be cut down or eliminated," interposed GOP Congressman Dan Reed of New York. He pointed out that overstaffing of nondefense agencies was one example.

Reducing Exemptions

Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, another Republican, added: "Mr. President, you have told us how to get the first $10 billion of your tax program, but you haven't told us where the additional $6½ billion is coming from. How can you get that without delving deeper into the pockets of lower-income taxpayers? How can you do it without lowering their personal exemptions from $600 to $500 which you apparently oppose?"

"That's something your committee will have to decide," replied Truman warmly. "I will make some suggestions, but it's your job to write the tax laws."

"Well, if you really meant it when you said that you wanted us to raise $16½ billion, then we must assume that you want us to reduce the exemptions of lower-bracket taxpayers in addition to increasing their regular taxes," persisted the Pennsylvania Congressman.

This is the $64 question that everybody agrees will have to be answered eventually. It was obvious at the White House meeting, however, that neither Truman nor the committee (including its Democratic members) wanted to take responsibility for such a politically unpopular move.

"That's a committee matter," reiterated the President. "I haven't asked for a lowering of personal exemptions."

Governor Jimmie Byrnes

For years the Legislature of South Carolina has quarreled with the Governor of South Carolina. Last month, however, South Carolina's legislators finally met a governor whom they may have to get along with—ex-Secretary of State, ex-Supreme Court Justice, ex-Senator, ex-War Mobilizer Jimmie Byrnes.

Byrnes, who has fought plenty of battles on the Potomac, is determined to push a $75,000,000 school program through the South Carolina Legislature—much of it for Negro schools. He also wants a sales tax to finance the school program, plus a complete reorganization of the state government.

Probably he'll win—due to the fact that 90 per cent of the people love him and the other 10 per cent fear him.

NOTE—Though invited to come to Washington to advise the State Department, Byrnes plans to stick to his knitting in South Carolina.

The Mobilizer

WASHINGTON—

IT IS TOO bad that in these troubled times, Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson cannot be regularly exhibited to selected guided tours. During the mornings, perhaps, groups of the more defeatist politicians and government officials might alternate with parties of worried Allies and of the narrower sort of businessmen; while larger troops of ordinary voters could be admitted in the afternoons.

The mere spectacle of this huge, raw-boned, red-faced, ham-fisted man is in itself reassuring. There is something natural and simple and powerful about Wilson that must strike even the sort of politician who normally has eyes only for the main chance. And if Wilson would talk for a bit in his plain unvarnished way about America and what America can do, the doubt and defeatism in which most people clammily wallow nowadays would be suddenly dispelled, like smog shredding away before a gust of good air.

What manner of man Charles Wilson may be is now a vitally important question, since he is, in his own person, the national device for making up for criminally lost time. In the government, the seismic shocks resulting from the Defense Mobilizer's enormous new powers over production, manpower, wages, prices, raw materials, housing and research can already be observed in the miffed expressions of Cabinet members whose new boss he has in fact become. In the country, his effort will probably be little noticed until the man in the street feels the inevitably unpleasant first effects, in the form of shortages, labor dislocations and the like.

"The worst problem I've got," Wilson says himself, "is that we have to take wartime measures in peacetime, when people aren't ready for them."

Due To Un-Awareness

But this national un-awareness is, of course, the penalty for having to make up for lost time. Wilson's task, as he conceives it, is to rebuild the dismantled defenses of the United States and the Western World in the shortest possible interval, thus reducing to a minimum the unavoidable time of danger when a weak Western defense invites Soviet aggression. For a while, because the task of defense has been put off for so long, measures that would normally be taken only in wartime must be adopted in what passes for peace-time. It does not bother Wilson.

"If I thought I could get the job done any faster," he says, "I'd just ask for whatever I needed to do it. In this business, it's the country you've got to think about."

The job he has set for himself is nothing less than a permanent expansion of American productivity of

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Many people here have had a good laugh over an article in the London "Economist" twitting the British government on its recent tactics in the UN in connection with the Korean situation. It is in the form of an imaginary dispatch dated about a year hence—January 22, 1952—from a British correspondent at Lake Success. It reads as follows:

"Since the withdrawal of the United Nations forces from Bonn, opinion in the assembly has been veering in favour of the American view that it is necessary to abandon Germany altogether in order to restore peace in Europe. The British delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, has, indeed, continued to press for the condemnation of Russia as an aggressor, arguing that the whole purpose of the United Nations would be stultified if the assembly refused to stigmatize the Russian invasion of West Germany as an aggression. The American delegate, Mr. Warren Austin, however, is urging caution: he maintains that hasty action would not be in the interests of peace and that time is needed to study the latest Russian counter-proposals, which should be given the most careful consideration.

Russia Confident

"The proposal of the United Nations political committee for a cease-fire in Germany, to be followed by a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers, was rejected by Russia, who insisted that Russian basic terms for a settlement must be accepted before the victorious Russian volunteers could be advised to desist from their offensive. The Russian demand is that all foreign troops must be withdrawn from Germany and that the internal affairs of Germany must be settled by the Germans themselves; as all German politicians who have not either escaped across the Rhine or joined the Communists have now been shot, Moscow is confident that Herr Ulbricht will be able to handle the situation without difficulty. The Russians are willing to accept the proposal for a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers on condition that representatives of Italy, Iraq and Mongolia are added to it and that the conference is held in Leningrad.

"The British Army having suffered 50,000 casualties in the fighting in Germany, British public opinion is in a somewhat excitable mood and the government is being sharply criticized by the opposition for the ineffectiveness of its European policy. The Prime Minister has pointed out that the RAF cannot be used for bombing beyond the boundary of the British zone without a decision of the United Nations, but he has promised to do all he can to get the United Nations to declare Russia an aggressor, even though it is generally recognized that no sanctions are likely to be imposed. Opinion in well-informed circles in Washington, however, is that America must be wary of being drawn into an extension of hostilities; it is felt that the British are liable to be headstrong in their reactions to events in Europe and that their old imperial traditions are making them unduly bellicose. The State Department has not yet abandoned its hope of detaching Russia from China, and deprecates any policy which might have the effect of driving Stalin into the arms of Mao.

"Senator Bebop has made an important speech at Cincinnati, in which he warned the American people against allowing American troops to be tied up in Europe when there was such a serious danger of Russo-Chinese attack on Alaska, Japan and the Philippines. He said it was very unfortunate that nobody seemed to be able to exercise any control over General Eisenhower, who had evidently underestimated the prospects of Russian intervention when he pursued the East German invaders back across the zonal boundary. Everything should be done to restore peace as quickly as possible, so that there should be no damage to the old friendship between the Russian and American peoples. The Russians, he declared, were a proud people who would not long be subservient to the mandarins of the forbidden city.

India Still At It

"A deep impression has also been made by an address delivered to the Foreign Policy Association by Mr. John K. Poffenheimer of Adriatic Exports Inc., who told his audience that he had been doing excellent business in trade from Trieste behind the iron curtain and that, if only America would do nothing to interfere with Russian expansion, there was no reason why this trade should not go on for a few years longer. He said that communism in Europe could not be stopped by force, and the sooner Britain realised this, the better.

"The Indian Prime Minister has also given a press conference in Mexico opposing the idea of declaring Russia an aggressor. The Russians, he said, had suffered great humiliations in the period before Peter the Great, and naturally it would take them a long time to get over it; they were very sensitive to criticism and, if they were to be branded as aggressors simply because they had committed an act of aggression, it might spoil the chances of peaceful negotiation. The Indian delegation in the assembly has been taking a similar line with the support of the bloc of Asian and Arab countries.

"The latest news from Germany is that the Russians have crossed the Rhine on a broad front and that an armoured spearhead has penetrated into Aachen. The political committee of the assembly has today voted for an adjournment to consider Mr. Vyshinsky's clarification of the Russian terms for a cease-fire. Sir Gladwyn Jebb strongly opposed the adjournment, declaring that the new Russian statement was a transparent attempt to divide the free world and delay the exercise of the pacific functions of the United Nations. Mr. Warren Austin, however, urged that delegates must have time to consult their governments about the 'new situation' and said that in the opinion of his government the United Nations 'should not at this stage take a new and important decision.' These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Salesman Ike

GENERAL Dwight D. Eisenhower is possessed of so charming and convincing a personality that President Truman could have selected no one more able to sell his war program, or who could have done it more effectively.

Furthermore, it takes considerable courage to question General Eisenhower's judgement on a military question in view of his expertness and authority in this particular field. While it is possible to wonder whether the President quite understands the problems of war, it is not possible to have the same doubts about General Eisenhower.

Again, while General George Marshall has been involved in startling errors, proved by time to have been errors of knowledge as well as judgment, General Eisenhower has not become so involved. He has had no part in the Asiatic confusion and bears no responsibility for Teheran or Yalta.

This places him in an extraordinary position to influence public opinion, and his responsibilities are the greater because his acceptance is so universal.

Therefore, an analysis of his speeches, press interviews and the reports of his meetings with congressional committees must take on this objective approach: That with keen desire to accept what General Eisenhower has said as gospel truth, it is still essential, under our system of government, to scrutinize, analyze, and debate his suggestions with the view toward discovering, as far as possible, the exact state of our own security.

1. It is clear that General Eisenhower adds nothing to nor does he modify the terms, purposes and arrangements of the Brussels Conference. Therefore, his speeches could have been made before his trip to Europe, or without any trip at all. His was a confirmatory inspection.

2. He holds that the President should be in a position to send ground troops, of whatever quantity, anywhere without restriction.

3. While this is the equipment-providing stage, no restrictions are to be placed upon the man-giving stage.

4. Spain, Yugoslavia, Turkey and Formosa are not included in his program. His remarks concerning Germany are remote and inconclusive.

He said:

"I am not even going to mention my several conversations in Germany, and for a very specific reason. I personally think that there has to be a political platform achieved, an understanding that will contemplate an eventual and earned equality on the part of that nation, before we should start to talk about including units of Germans in any kind of army."

In a word, France's program regarding Germany is to be accepted by the United States, although that means that more manpower will have to be provided either by France or the United States.

5. While, in a plea for patience, he refers to France's commitments in French Indo-China and Great Britain's in Malaya, General Eisenhower makes no comment on our own enormous commitments in Korea. Why are we more concerned with other countries' commitments than with our own?

6. General Eisenhower declines any commitment on ratios of obligations, which translated means a free hand and an open heart, without a specified quid pro quo. That cost us $50,000,000,000 in lend-lease, as operated by Harry Hopkins, including $11,000,000,00 for Soviet Russia.

Lend-Lease did not bring to the United States security from war, for had it done so, General Eisenhower would not have been called upon to make these speeches and statements. Nor has it brought us friendships, as the recent conduct of nations at the United Nations clearly indicated.

If there is to be a giving, there ought to be some fixed obligations by the recipients of our benefactions. General Eisenhower does not indicate that he has such a plan in mind.

7. He said:

"I do not believe, for example, that the United States can pick up the world on its economic, financial and material shoulders and carry it. We must have cooperation if we are going to work with other nations. The results of the effort would be the mutual, the common good, the common security of the nations of the free world."

Nothing could be sounder doctrine. Yet it comes out of committee that he anticipates a 20 or 30-year period of confusion and cost. Will our economy and a lowering standard of living sustain either this operation

To Quiet Rumors

The White House announces that the Federal Reserve Board has pledged its support to President Truman "to maintain the stability of government securities as long as the emergency lasts." White House Secretary Joseph Short adds an explanation. "This," said he, "is to quiet those rumors."

What rumors? Readers of the financial pages can answer. For weeks there have been reports of differences between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board over a question that has been raised before but has lately been posed in acute form. The swift advance of prices has turned attention to the Treasury's policy of keeping the interest rate on government securities at low levels, which Secretary of the Treasury Snyder intends to continue. The Federal Reserve Board could bring about higher rates and thus, in the opinion of many experts, put a brake on inflation.

There are indications that these clashing opinions exist. Secretary Snyder has made known his position, which is that there is no evidence that "fractional" increases in interest rates have retarded inflationary borrowing—but that even a small rise in the interest paid on the public debt can cost the government upwards of a billion dollars. Thomas C. McCabe, FRB chairman, has not openly challenged this view. Recently, however, he endorsed a statement of 400 economists who called for a rise as a move against inflation.

So the White House announcement indicates that Secretary Snyder has won this latest argument. That may save the government a half billion or thereabouts in interest charges, but it will not necessarily be an economical move If inflation continues, the government can lose not half a billion, a billion, but many billions in higher prices paid for what it buys. Snyder doesn't seem to think so, but if he is mistaken the American people will pay a stiff price for his stubborn insistence on getting his way. And can those 400 economists be wrong?

Still The Deterrent

The series of nuclear detonations near Las Vegas, Nev., point toward an obvious conclusion. Since they were of varying explosive power, American scientists now know how to put up atomic materials in packages to produce different effects. The atomic bomb has been succeeded, apparently, by a number of atomic weapons.

This, in the kind of world Americans must live in whether they like it or not, must be regarded as good news. The fact that American scientists can set off a series of nuclear explosions in a period of days is proof that their efforts to learn more about atomic energy have ben fruitful. It will not restore the sense of relative security Americans had before it was announced that Russia had succeeded in producing an atomic bomb.

Actually, American superiority in the field of Atomic weapons may be the only thing that stands in the way of a direct Russian attack on the free nations. At a recent press conference, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter drew a sharp line between air power that is a deterrent to war and air power that is chiefly valuable in winning a war after it starts.

He said that American long-range aircraft, capable of striking with atomic weapons inside the territory of a potential enemy, is a preventive of war. Planes for the support of ground troops are not.

That was tantamount to an assertion that this country is still relying on its bombers and atomic bombs to deter Russia while is it building up armed strength to match that of the Reds if and when the Kremlin no longer fears America's stock of atomic bombs.

But the U. N. now has other nuclear weapons possessing a scope and flexibility not thought of even a year ago. The Russians must weigh this new situation carefully before they take an irrevocable step.

Winters Are Different

Not much has been heard this winter to the effect that winters are different from what they were 40 or 50 years ago. If winters long ago were colder than the temperatures that have prevailed this winter over a large part of the nation, they were humdingers. Not for years have there been so many news items of the temperature dropping so low that the mercury in thermometers froze. Mercury freezes at 38 degrees below zero.

But if this winter has not been greatly different meteorologically from those of a half century ago, it has been different in many other ways. Weather years ago did not have the impact upon transportation that it now has. Trains stopped running when snow became too deep, and horse transportation was interfered with, but people expected such occurrences every winter and were prepared for them.

There was plenty of food in the cellar and there was no danger of starvation if it became inconvenient to dash to the nearest store. Today, if the average household is cut off from its food suppliers for three days, the cuisine becomes mighty limited.

If electric current was disrupted by a storm in the old days, it made little difference to the average citizen whose house wasn't wired anyway. It didn't shut down his heating system, which was hand fired and probably used wood as fuel, nor interfere with his refrigeration, which was provided by nature.

The greatest inconvenience caused by weather which swept down from the Arctic regions, in the old days, was the nightly freezing of the pump. Buckets of boiling water were required to get it going again in the morning, but this accomplished life resumed its smooth course and worries were less technological than is the case today.

End Of A Shady Deal

No sympathy should be wasted on the two New York detectives who, as the result of a court order, have now lost their $6,000 city pensions. They knew what they were doing and so did former Mayor O'Dwyer, the engineer of the deal.

The whole proceeding was a piece of trickery and the payment of pensions was, as the court declares, an outright "gift of public funds." The two men were first-grade detectives and as such were entitled upon retirement to benefits of $2,587 a year.

But Mayor O'Dwyer first appointed them as his chauffeurs and then, on the eve of his own resignation to become ambassador to Mexico, made them deputy police commissioners. Given this high and unearned rank, both promptly applied for retirement and were awarded pensions of $6,000 a year.

In ruling that the awards are null and void the court not only issues an indirect rebuke to O'Dwyer but strikes a needed blow against the policy of regarding public money as private property.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Take Care Of Child's Teeth

THE STATEMENT is made frequently that serious dental defects later in life could be lessened by administering timely dental treatment of children. This sound logical and it is no wonder that the 75,000 practicing American dentists are willing to give priority to youngsters. In addition, they have gone further by adopting the slogan, "More and better dentistry for children."

Dental decay is one of the most common diseases of civilized man. A study made in several thousand dental offices throughout the country revealed that in the year 1940 the average adult required 4.4 fillings and 2.2 extractions. One out of four needed a bridge, one out of six a partial denture, one out of seven a full upper denture, and one out of 10 a full lower denture. Selective service records from World War II showed that defective dentition was one of the most frequent causes of rejection. If better dental care for boys and girls will offset this state of affairs we are all for it and urge parents to cooperate.

Age is no barrier as studies demonstrate that caries is rife even among two and three-year-olds. It is not wise to wait until the youngster complains or a cavity can be seen with the naked eye. By this time it may be too late to save the structure. Moreover, a family history of good teeth is no guarantee that the children will escape trouble. The truth of the matter is that 90 per cent of them develop dental disorders and the odds are too high to assume that any one child is the exception.

A standard excuse for neglect is that the baby set will fall out anyway. This is idle chatter because the structures are identical with the permanent teeth except for their size and short existence. They are are necessary to the child for chewing purposes as for the adult and in some respects are more essential because proper nutrition is so necessary for growth and for laying the foundation of future well being. In addition, an abscessed tooth may affect the body in the same way as infected tonsils. There is no reason why one is more serious than the other.

Baby teeth are essential to the proper eruption and position of the permanent set. They are nature's space retractors and help the teeth to grow in a straight line. The roots begin to absorb when the permanent incisor, for example, is about to erupt. The timing of this mechanism is miraculous. In the span of years when the old teeth are leaving and the new ones coming there always are some of both sets for grinding and others for cutting. In this way there is no interference with mastication, which means that nutrition can proceed normally.

Neglecting dental difficulties defeats this phenomenon; it is hard to chew on broken down, painful, or abscessed teeth. Many school-age youngsters will not complain unless distress severe but they are restless and fussy and eat and sleep poorly. When asked point blank whether a tooth hurts they will mention an ache here and there. With immediate attention, the tooth can be saved and future trouble is averted. This is reason enough for "more and better dentistry for children."

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses heating and ventilation requirements.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—An all-important debate is going on inside the Pentagon. On its outcome will depend whether we keep on building up a huge land army; also whether we draft more married men and have a continuing policy of drafting 18-year-olds.

The debate is over the basic military question of whether it takes a big army of foot soldiers or a big air armada to win a war.

Old line army men, led by General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, together with Gen. Lawton Collins, the Army's Chief of Staff, both favor building a huge army, claim that final victory will be decided on the ground.

The Air Force, on the other hand, argues that we can never outnumber the red hordes of Asia and Russia; that our only chance to win is to produce superior weapons and airplanes. Russia, they claim, can never be whipped on the ground. Her manpower reserves are too limitless and the Russian value of life too cheap.

There is a very honest difference of opinion about this, and the men who differ do so not to promote their own type of warfare but with the interest of their country at heart.

The debate has now gone one step beyond the Pentagon to the National Security Council, composed of President Truman, Vice President Barkley, Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Security Resources Board Chairman Stuart Symington.

Inside the National Security Council, Symington is leading the fight to put most of our defense eggs in the aviation and tactical weapons basket. He is chiefly opposed by General Marshall, a former infantryman, who argues for a big land army.

So far the President has stuck with Marshall.

However, the outcome of the atomic tests in Nevada may help to settle the question. One of the most important weapons the scientists are reported testing in Nevada is atomic artillery shells which Gen. Collins announced we were developing. If atomic artillery shells are proved practical in the Nevada test, it will make the Red Army's famed artillery old fashioned overnight and will mean that a big land army is not so necessary.

Unrecommended Reading

Two ex-Roosevelt aides, George Allen and Judge Samuel Rosenman, were traveling from New York to Washington and had a literary argument in the diner.

Noticing a man at the next table deep in a book, Judge Rosenman remarked: "Now there is a citizen improving his mind on his way to Washington. What kind of book do you suppose it is?"

"George," continued Rosenman in deep horror, "the country is going to the bowwows. It's that terrible low-brow book of yours, 'Presidents Who Have Known Me.' Here I write a serious, scholarly book about government, and haven't found more than ten people who ever read it. But this terrible thing of yours is every place.

"There are only two pieces of reading matter in the entire dining car," concluded Rosenman, "The menu and your book. Personally I prefer the menu!"

Truman On Taxes

The President's private tax conference with members of the House Ways and Means Committee wasn't nearly as chummy as the press indicated. There were some sharp clashes over government economy, also over Truman's piece-meal tax program—a plan by which Congress would approve $10 billion of new taxes now, then another $6½ billion later.

"I realize that the more we economize the less we will have to tax," Truman announced. "However, I have scrutinized the budget with great care and find that we just can't cut expenditures any more without sacrificing efficiency. We have already cut to the bone, but I am open to suggestions."

"Senator Byrd of Virginia has made some very fine suggestions on how to effect economies in domestic spending," remarked GOP Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois. "We could save a lot of money if they were carried out."

"It's one thing to speak about economy," snapped the President, "but it's quite another to accomplish it without endangering the necessary operations of the government."

"We're talking about wasteful operations that can be cut down or eliminated," interposed GOP Congressman Dan Reed of New York. He pointed out that overstaffing of nondefense agencies was one example.

Reducing Exemptions

Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, another Republican, added: "Mr. President, you have told us how to get the first $10 billion of your tax program, but you haven't told us where the additional $6½ billion is coming from. How can you get that without delving deeper into the pockets of lower-income taxpayers? How can you do it without lowering their personal exemptions from $600 to $500 which you apparently oppose?"

"That's something your committee will have to decide," replied Truman warmly. "I will make some suggestions, but it's your job to write the tax laws."

"Well, if you really meant it when you said that you wanted us to raise $16½ billion, then we must assume that you want us to reduce the exemptions of lower-bracket taxpayers in addition to increasing their regular taxes," persisted the Pennsylvania Congressman.

This is the $64 question that everybody agrees will have to be answered eventually. It was obvious at the White House meeting, however, that neither Truman nor the committee (including its Democratic members) wanted to take responsibility for such a politically unpopular move.

"That's a committee matter," reiterated the President. "I haven't asked for a lowering of personal exemptions."

Governor Jimmie Byrnes

For years the Legislature of South Carolina has quarreled with the Governor of South Carolina. Last month, however, South Carolina's legislators finally met a governor whom they may have to get along with—ex-Secretary of State, ex-Supreme Court Justice, ex-Senator, ex-War Mobilizer Jimmie Byrnes.

Byrnes, who has fought plenty of battles on the Potomac, is determined to push a $75,000,000 school program through the South Carolina Legislature—much of it for Negro schools. He also wants a sales tax to finance the school program, plus a complete reorganization of the state government.

Probably he'll win—due to the fact that 90 per cent of the people love him and the other 10 per cent fear him.

NOTE—Though invited to come to Washington to advise the State Department, Byrnes plans to stick to his knitting in South Carolina.

'Economist' Twits British Government On Tactics

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Many people here have had a good laugh over an article in the London "Economist" twitting the British government on its recent tactics in the UN in connection with the Korean situation. He said it was very unfortunate that nobody seemed to be able to exercise any control over General Eisenhower, who had evidently underestimated the prospects of Russian intervention when he pursued the East German invaders back across the zonal boundary. Everything should be done to restore peace as quickly as possible, so that there should be no damage to the old friendship between the Russian and American peoples. The Russians, he declared, were a proud people who would not long be subservient to the mandarins of the forbidden city.

India Still At It

"A deep impression has also been made by an address delivered to the Foreign Policy Association by Mr. John K. Poffenheimer of Adriatic Exports Inc., who told his audience that he had been doing excellent business in trade from Trieste behind the iron curtain and that, if only America would do nothing to interfere with Russian expansion, there was no reason why this trade should not go on for a few years longer. He said that communism in Europe could not be stopped by force, and the sooner Britain realised this, the better.

"The Indian Prime Minister has also given a press conference in Mexico opposing the idea of declaring Russia an aggressor. The Russians, he said, had suffered great humiliations in the period before Peter the Great, and naturally it would take them a long time to get over it; they were very sensitive to criticism and, if they were to be branded as aggressors simply because they had committed an act of aggression, it might spoil the chances of peaceful negotiation. The Indian delegation in the assembly has been taking a similar line with the support of the bloc of Asian and Arab countries.

"The latest news from Germany is that the Russians have crossed the Rhine on a broad front and that an armoured spearhead has penetrated into Aachen. The political committee of the assembly has today voted for an adjournment to consider Mr. Vyshinsky's clarification of the Russian terms for a cease-fire. Sir Gladwyn Jebb strongly opposed the adjournment, declaring that the new Russian statement was a transparent attempt to divide the free world and delay the exercise of the pacific functions of the United Nations. Mr. Warren Austin, however, urged that delegates must have time to consult their governments about the 'new situation' and said that in the opinion of his government the United Nations 'should not at this stage take a new and important decision.' These Days

Salesman Ike

GENERAL Dwight D. Eisenhower is possessed of so charming and convincing a personality that President Truman could have selected no one more able to sell his war program, or who could have done it more effectively.

Furthermore, it takes considerable courage to question General Eisenhower's judgement on a military question in view of his expertness and authority in this particular field. While it is possible to wonder whether the President quite understands the problems of war, it is not possible to have the same doubts about General Eisenhower.

Again, while General George Marshall has been involved in startling errors, proved by time to have been errors of knowledge as well as judgment, General Eisenhower has not become so involved. He has had no part in the Asiatic confusion and bears no responsibility for Teheran or Yalta.

This places him in an extraordinary position to influence public opinion, and his responsibilities are the greater because his acceptance is so universal.

Therefore, an analysis of his speeches, press interviews and the reports of his meetings with congressional committees must take on this objective approach: That with keen desire to accept what General Eisenhower has said as gospel truth, it is still essential, under our system of government, to scrutinize, analyze, and debate his suggestions with the view toward discovering, as far as possible, the exact state of our own security.

1. It is clear that General Eisenhower adds nothing to nor does he modify the terms, purposes and arrangements of the Brussels Conference. Therefore, his speeches could have been made before his trip to Europe, or without any trip at all. His was a confirmatory inspection.

2. He holds that the President should be in a position to send ground troops, of whatever quantity, anywhere without restriction.

3. While this is the equipment-providing stage, no restrictions are to be placed upon the man-giving stage.

4. Spain, Yugoslavia, Turkey and Formosa are not included in his program. His remarks concerning Germany are remote and inconclusive.

He said:

"I am not even going to mention my several conversations in Germany, and for a very specific reason. I personally think that there has to be a political platform achieved, an understanding that will contemplate an eventual and earned equality on the part of that nation, before we should start to talk about including units of Germans in any kind of army."

In a word, France's program regarding Germany is to be accepted by the United States, although that means that more manpower will have to be provided either by France or the United States.

5. While, in a plea for patience, he refers to France's commitments in French Indo-China and Great Britain's in Malaya, General Eisenhower makes no comment on our own enormous commitments in Korea. Why are we more concerned with other countries' commitments than with our own?

6. General Eisenhower declines any commitment on ratios of obligations, which translated means a free hand and an open heart, without a specified quid pro quo. That cost us $50,000,000,000 in lend-lease, as operated by Harry Hopkins, including $11,000,000,00 for Soviet Russia.

Lend-Lease did not bring to the United States security from war, for had it done so, General Eisenhower would not have been called upon to make these speeches and statements. Nor has it brought us friendships, as the recent conduct of nations at the United Nations clearly indicated.

If there is to be a giving, there ought to be some fixed obligations by the recipients of our benefactions. General Eisenhower does not indicate that he has such a plan in mind.

7. He said:

"I do not believe, for example, that the United States can pick up the world on its economic, financial and material shoulders and carry it. We must have cooperation if we are going to work with other nations. The results of the effort would be the mutual, the common good, the common security of the nations of the free world."

Nothing could be sounder doctrine. Yet it comes out of committee that he anticipates a 20 or 30-year period of confusion and cost. Will our economy and a lowering standard of living sustain either this operation

Scouts Will Celebrate 41st Anniversary

Pageant And Circus Will Highlight Week

The units of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, have many activities scheduled during Boy Scout Week which begins today and will run until next Monday.

The week has been set aside to mark the 41st anniversary of the founding of Scouting in the United States. "Strengthen Liberty" is the anniversary theme.

Willis V. Smith, Potomac Council executive, said events are planned in five of the six districts of the council.

Cumberland District's main celebration will be the presentation of a pageant on Scouting Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Strand Theatre. From 25 troops and Cub packs, will be 150 actors who will show in 25 scenes the various phases of their training.

Fun Night Planned

A fun night will be held next Monday at 7 p. m. in Centre Street Methodist Church recreation hall for the pageant participants. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

In New Creek District, which covers the Keyser-Mineral County, W. Va., area, a fun night program will be held Wednesday at 7 p. m. in Potomac State School gym. A swim night will be held Friday evening in the Central YMCA pool.

A father and son dinner will be held for Scouts, Cubs and their fathers Monday at 6:30 p. m. in Grace Methodist Church, Keyser. The following day at 7 p. m. a Cub party will be held in the same church.

Tri-Towns District, comprised of Piedmont, Westernport and Luke troops and packs, will have its annual Scout Circus Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in Piedmont High School auditorium.

Mountain District, Frostburg, will have its Cub and Scout circus Thursday at 7 p. m. in Beall Elementary School.

A "deerburger" feed at St. Paul's Methodist Church Thursday evening will start Boy Scout Week in Deep Creek District at Oakland.

On Saturday the Boy Scouts will take over the government of Oakland and Monday they will be guests of the Oakland Lions Club at a dinner.

In all districts, Boy Scouts and Cubs will attend church uniformed and in groups this Sunday.

Gas Shortage Here Eased By Temperature Rise

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company relaxed its gas conservation request to commercial users yesterday as the mercury rose slowly.

The program for industrial users for gas remains unchanged, however. Industrial users all along the gas supply lines last week cut consumption to a minimum because of the sudden cold wave.

There was no indication that such a request would be made if temperatures suddenly drop again. "We'll have to wait and see what develops," a spokesman said.

The weather also eased. With the exception of reports of early-morning fog in spots which made travel for both cars and pedestrians hazardous, the district was generally clear.

The only exception was Garrett county where light snow flurries fell yesterday morning. G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said that the flurries in no way interfered with traffic.

Rubber Workers To Ballot Sunday

Members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, CIO, will elect department chairmen and committeemen and three members of the contract negotiations committee next Sunday, according to Ralph Beard, union vice president.

Beard said there are 140 department committee positions to be filled.

The present contract with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company expires May 1, Beard said. Contract talks are expected to get started sometime late this month. Wages will not be a part of the talks.

At a meeting Saturday night the union voted to donate $50 to the Allegany County Heart Association. It was also voted to match a previous contribution of $69 to the March of Dimes campaign. This action followed an appeal from the March of Dimes committee.

Workers at the Kelly plant, both office and production, donated $124 to the March of Dimes during the past few weeks. The money was placed in containers at the plant.

West Side PTA Will Meet Tonight

West Side Parent Teachers Association meets tonight at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

Following the business meeting, a movie "Preface To A Life", showing the influence parents play in the life of a child, will be shown. Mrs. A. J. Mirkin will be commentator. A discussion, led by Mrs. Ross Decker, will follow.

Violin selections of by Wilton H. Sykes, accompanied by Mrs. Samuel Weatherholt, will feature the entertainment. Home room visitation is scheduled for 9 p. m. Refreshments will be served.

The Sargasso sea was discovered by Columbus in 1492.

Textile Workers To Conduct Installation

Newly-elected officers of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, will be installed Friday, February 23, at Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, in Frostburg.

It is hoped to have George Baldanzi, vice president of the national TWUA, come here as principal speaker.

Food Prices Up 127 Percent Over September, 1936

Food prices in Cumberland have risen 127 per cent over the September, 1936, totals, according to Chamber of Commerce food basket statistics.

This week the basket of 15 staple items for the average family costs $9.12 while in the fall of 1936 the list figured to $3.99.

Meats, coffee, milk and butter have all doubled or tripled their cost of 14 years ago.

In September, 1936, three pounds of round steak could be purchased for 69 cents, but today the price tag says $2.85.

Fourteen years ago, a housewife could buy two pounds of lard for 15 cents. Today it is 42 cents for two pounds.

Bacon has jumped from 58 cents for two pounds in 1936, to $1.40 today while the cost of five pounds of sugar in the similar time went from 30 cents to 50 cents.

With the increase of government help to the farmer, potatoes have dropped from 37 cents a peck to 27 cents a peck. Advances in agriculture have also helped this situation.

Canned vegetable have remained fairly static over the 14 years with the exception of 1941 when they dropped to nearly half of their 1936 and 1951 prices.

A dozen of eggs in 1930 sold for 33 cents. This month the cost is 56 cents. However, this is a fluctuating market, depending on the attitude of "Mother Hen."

The other dinner table staple, the loaf of bread, has risen from 10 cents to 18 cents.

Milk, similarly, has climbed slowly from 12 cents a quart to 21 cents. Cabbage has remained the same.

Scouts Will Celebrate 41st Anniversary

Pageant And Circus Will Highlight Week

The units of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, have many activities scheduled during Boy Scout Week which begins today and will run until next Monday.

The week has been set aside to mark the 41st anniversary of the founding of Scouting in the United States. "Strengthen Liberty" is the anniversary theme.

Willis V. Smith, Potomac Council executive, said events are planned in five of the six districts of the council.

Cumberland District's main celebration will be the presentation of a pageant on Scouting Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Strand Theatre. From 25 troops and Cub packs, will be 150 actors who will show in 25 scenes the various phases of their training.

Fun Night Planned

A fun night will be held next Monday at 7 p. m. in Centre Street Methodist Church recreation hall for the pageant participants. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

In New Creek District, which covers the Keyser-Mineral County, W. Va., area, a fun night program will be held Wednesday at 7 p. m. in Potomac State School gym. A swim night will be held Friday evening in the Central YMCA pool.

A father and son dinner will be held for Scouts, Cubs and their fathers Monday at 6:30 p. m. in Grace Methodist Church, Keyser. The following day at 7 p. m. a Cub party will be held in the same church.

Circus At Piedmont

Tri-Towns District, comprised of Piedmont, Westernport and Luke troops and packs, will have its annual Scout Circus Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in Piedmont High School auditorium.

Mountain District, Frostburg, will have its Cub and Scout circus Thursday at 7 p. m. in Beall Elementary School.

A "deerburger" feed at St. Paul's Methodist Church Thursday evening will start Boy Scout Week in Deep Creek District at Oakland.

On Saturday the Boy Scouts will take over the government of Oakland and Monday they will be guests of the Oakland Lions Club at a dinner.

In all districts, Boy Scouts and Cubs will attend church uniformed and in groups this Sunday.

Gas Shortage Here Eased By Temperature Rise

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company relaxed its gas conservation request to commercial users yesterday as the mercury rose slowly.

The program for industrial users for gas remains unchanged, however. Industrial users all along the gas supply lines last week cut consumption to a minimum because of the sudden cold wave.

There was no indication that such a request would be made if temperatures suddenly drop again. "We'll have to wait and see what develops," a spokesman said.

The weather also eased. With the exception of reports of early-morning fog in spots which made travel for both cars and pedestrians hazardous, the district was generally clear.

The only exception was Garrett county where light snow flurries fell yesterday morning. G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said that the flurries in no way interfered with traffic.

NOTICE

The East End Playground Association will meet Monday, March 5th for the nomination and election of officers. Time and place of meeting will be published one week in advance of date.

Beard said there are 140 department committee positions to be filled.

At a meeting Saturday night the union voted to donate $50 to the Allegany County Heart Association. It was also voted to match a previous contribution of $69 to the March of Dimes campaign. This action followed an appeal from the March of Dimes committee.

Food Prices Up 127 Percent Over September, 1936

Food prices in Cumberland have risen 127 per cent over the September, 1936, totals, according to Chamber of Commerce food basket statistics.

This week the basket of 15 staple items for the average family costs $9.12 while in the fall of 1936 the list figured to $3.99.

Meats, coffee, milk and butter have all doubled or tripled their cost of 14 years ago.

In September, 1936, three pounds of round steak could be purchased for 69 cents, but today the price tag says $2.85.

Fourteen years ago, a housewife could buy two pounds of lard for 15 cents. Today it is 42 cents for two pounds.

Bacon has jumped from 58 cents for two pounds in 1936, to $1.40 today while the cost of five pounds of sugar in the similar time went from 30 cents to 50 cents.

With the increase of government help to the farmer, potatoes have dropped from 37 cents a peck to 27 cents a peck. Advances in agriculture have also helped this situation.

Canned vegetable have remained fairly static over the 14 years with the exception of 1941 when they dropped to nearly half of their 1936 and 1951 prices.

A dozen of eggs in 1930 sold for 33 cents. This month the cost is 56 cents. However, this is a fluctuating market, depending on the attitude of "Mother Hen."

The other dinner table staple, the loaf of bread, has risen from 10 cents to 18 cents.

Milk, similarly, has climbed slowly from 12 cents a quart to 21 cents. Cabbage has remained the same.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound Helps Alabama Wife Relieve Nervous Feelings, Hot Spells—of 'Change of Life'

Peppy, attractive-looking Mrs. Gema D. Waites of 127 Rotary Street, Montgomery, Alabama, is a dutiful daughter and followed her mother's advice. She writes us: "As I am a Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound user of only 2½ months I want you to know how it has helped me. I am going through functional change of life and feel so nervous and suffer so from hot spells, wasn't able to do my work — had to quit work. I have only taken three bottles and this is my fourth bottle. I think it is a wonderful medicine to relieve such symptoms. It sure has done wonders for me in this way.

"My mother recommended it for me. She took it when she was going through the change 20 years ago. Thank you for such a wonderful medicine."

When Lefty Teed Off

Tom Mont Tells One

All Pro Teams Alike

Fisher Averages .739

By C. V. BURNS

They still write about that mighty clout "Lefty" Duberstein, one-time Cumberland Colts' first sacker, put over The Point Stadium right field wall at Johnstown.

Only two players have achieved this feat since the stadium was built 25 years ago.

Al Milnar hoisted one over the barrier when he was a rookie with Zanesville. Al is the 1951 manager at New Castle.

These were mighty clouts but how about the time Babe Ruth belted one over the centerfield fence at Community Park during batting practice when the Yankees played the Colts in an exhibition game here?

At the testimonial dinner the other day for Bob Ward, All-America lineman from Maryland, Tommy Mont of the Redskins told a funny one about Joe Tereshinski, who played in the 1947 All-Star game in Chicago.

As Frank Leahy drilled his All-Stars, he warned Tereshinski about Fred Davis, the Bears' standout tackle.

"This guy is real smart, "Leahy told Tereshinski, "You gotta be careful. Davis is one of the smartest players in pro ball."

"Don't worry none about that Davis coach, "Tereshinski assured Leahy. "After I hit him once he'll be as dumb as I am."

The Spas and their predecessors, the Dukes, have wretched road records but how about these for National Basketball Association teams: Rochester 9-14, Minneapolis 8-13, New York 9-15, Syracuse 7-16, Boston 6-14, Indianapolis 7-18, Philadelphia 6-16, Fort Wayne 5-20, Tri-Cities 3-22 and Baltimore Bullets 2-20.

Over five seasons Cumberland pro teams have lost 42 out of 48 games away from home.

And Kid Chocolate, the "Human Clothespin" who whipped Jim Roby here last September at Penn Avenue Field, copped the 118 pound crown by decisioning Frankie Spanetti, the lad who was disqualified here in his rough and tumble go with Bobby Goss.

Mel Henry's Hagerstown High cagers have won seven in a row while Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets provided an upset by spilling Patterson Park High of Baltimore, 41-40. Frederick has won nine and lost two. Hagerstown plays Fort Hill here Feb. 26.

Ed "Whitey" Mathewson is still leading the Spas in scoring with 243 points. Bob Pence who headed the locals for four years is 2nd with 203 followed by Jack Murphy with 200 and Jimmy Clevenger with 174.

Pinehurst Lands Ryder Cup Tests

U. S. British Teams Clash In November

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25 (AP)—The 1951 Ryder Cup matches between the top 10 professional golfers of the United States and Great Britain were awarded today to Pinehurst, N. C. for the first week of November. The announcement was made by President Joe Novak of the Professional Golfers Association of America after conferences with Dick Tufts, representing Pinehurst, which put in the first bid.

Also assisting was Robert A. Hudson of Portland, Ore. He is chairman of the PGA advisory committee and sponsored the matches the last time they were held in this country in 1947.

Ryder Cup play started in 1927, and is held every two years—although the war caused a lapse from 1937 to 1947—with the U. S. and Britain alternating as host country. Americans have won six of the eight matches. The last time Great Britain won was at Southport, Eng., in 1933.

The matches have been set for Friday, Nov. 2, and Sunday, Nov. 4. Saturday, Nov. 3, will be skipped to avoid conflict with the North Carolina-Tennessee football game at nearby Chapel Hill.

The American team is selected on a point system based on victories in such major classics as the national open, the PGA championship, and PGA-conducted tournaments.

Selection on the team is a big goal for the golfers. Presently, Sam Snead leads with 972 points. Trailing, in order, are Lloyd Mangrum, 588 points, Jimmy Demaret, 439, Jack Burke, Jr., 413, Skip Alexander, 276, Henry Ransom, 268, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, 251, Chandler Harper, 233, Ed Oliver, 215, and Ben Hogan, 192.

Ready for Willie

HOLDER of three consecutive victories in tournament play over Willie Hoppe, the world's three-cushion billiard champion, Art Rubin prepares for the coming world's tournament in Chicago Feb. 16-25 by winning the 1951 sectional event in New York.

Only two players have achieved this feat since the stadium was built 25 years ago.

Al Milnar hoisted one over the barrier when he was a rookie with Zanesville. Al is the 1951 manager at New Castle.

These were mighty clouts but how about the time Babe Ruth belted one over the centerfield fence at Community Park during batting practice when the Yankees played the Colts in an exhibition game here?

At the testimonial dinner the other day for Bob Ward, All-America lineman from Maryland, Tommy Mont of the Redskins told a funny one about Joe Tereshinski, who played in the 1947 All-Star game in Chicago.

As Frank Leahy drilled his All-Stars, he warned Tereshinski about Fred Davis, the Bears' standout tackle.

"This guy is real smart, "Leahy told Tereshinski, "You gotta be careful. Davis is one of the smartest players in pro ball."

"Don't worry none about that Davis coach, "Tereshinski assured Leahy. "After I hit him once he'll be as dumb as I am."

The Spas and their predecessors, the Dukes, have wretched road records but how about these for National Basketball Association teams:

Rochester 9-14, Minneapolis 8-13, New York 9-15, Syracuse 7-16, Boston 6-14, Indianapolis 7-18, Philadelphia 6-16, Fort Wayne 5-20, Tri-Cities 3-22 and Baltimore Bullets 2-20.

Over five seasons Cumberland pro teams have lost 42 out of 48 games away from home.

C. for the first week of November. The announcement was made by President Joe Novak of the Professional Golfers Association of America after conferences with Dick Tufts, representing Pinehurst, which put in the first bid.

Also assisting was Robert A. Hudson of Portland, Ore. He is chairman of the PGA advisory committee and sponsored the matches the last time they were held in this country in 1947.

Ryder Cup play started in 1927, and is held every two years—although the war caused a lapse from 1937 to 1947—with the U. S. and Britain alternating as host country. Americans have won six of the eight matches. The last time Great Britain won was at Southport, Eng., in 1933.

The matches have been set for Friday, Nov. 2, and Sunday, Nov. 4. Saturday, Nov. 3, will be skipped to avoid conflict with the North Carolina-Tennessee football game at nearby Chapel Hill.

The American team is selected on a point system based on victories in such major classics as the national open, the PGA championship, and PGA-conducted tournaments.

Selection on the team is a big goal for the golfers. Presently, Sam Snead leads with 972 points. Trailing, in order, are Lloyd Mangrum, 588 points, Jimmy Demaret, 439, Jack Burke, Jr., 413, Skip Alexander, 276, Henry Ransom, 268, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, 251, Chandler Harper, 233, Ed Oliver, 215, and Ben Hogan, 192.

When Lefty Teed Off

Tom Mont Tells One

All Pro Teams Alike

Fisher Averages .739

By C. V. BURNS

They still write about that mighty clout "Lefty" Duberstein, one-time Cumberland Colts' first sacker, put over The Point Stadium right field wall at Johnstown.

Only two players have achieved this feat since the stadium was built 25 years ago.

Al Milnar hoisted one over the barrier when he was a rookie with Zanesville. Al is the 1951 manager at New Castle.

These were mighty clouts but how about the time Babe Ruth belted one over the centerfield fence at Community Park during batting practice when the Yankees played the Colts in an exhibition game here?

At the testimonial dinner the other day for Bob Ward, All-America lineman from Maryland, Tommy Mont of the Redskins told a funny one about Joe Tereshinski, who played in the 1947 All-Star game in Chicago.

As Frank Leahy drilled his All-Stars, he warned Tereshinski about Fred Davis, the Bears' standout tackle.

"This guy is real smart, "Leahy told Tereshinski, "You gotta be careful. Davis is one of the smartest players in pro ball."

"Don't worry none about that Davis coach, "Tereshinski assured Leahy. "After I hit him once he'll be as dumb as I am."

The Spas and their predecessors, the Dukes, have wretched road records but how about these for National Basketball Association teams: Rochester 9-14, Minneapolis 8-13, New York 9-15, Syracuse 7-16, Boston 6-14, Indianapolis 7-18, Philadelphia 6-16, Fort Wayne 5-20, Tri-Cities 3-22 and Baltimore Bullets 2-20.

Over five seasons Cumberland pro teams have lost 42 out of 48 games away from home.

And Kid Chocolate, the "Human Clothespin" who whipped Jim Roby here last September at Penn Avenue Field, copped the 118 pound crown by decisioning Frankie Spanetti, the lad who was disqualified here in his rough and tumble go with Bobby Goss.

Mel Henry's Hagerstown High cagers have won seven in a row while Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets provided an upset by spilling Patterson Park High of Baltimore, 41-40. Frederick has won nine and lost two. Hagerstown plays Fort Hill here Feb. 26.

Ed "Whitey" Mathewson is still leading the Spas in scoring with 243 points. Bob Pence who headed the locals for four years is 2nd with 203 followed by Jack Murphy with 200 and Jimmy Clevenger with 174.

Pinehurst Lands Ryder Cup Tests

U. S. British Teams Clash In November

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25 (AP)—The 1951 Ryder Cup matches between the top 10 professional golfers of the United States and Great Britain were awarded today to Pinehurst, N. C. for the first week of November. The announcement was made by President Joe Novak of the Professional Golfers Association of America after conferences with Dick Tufts, representing Pinehurst, which put in the first bid.

Also assisting was Robert A. Hudson of Portland, Ore. He is chairman of the PGA advisory committee and sponsored the matches the last time they were held in this country in 1947.

Ryder Cup play started in 1927, and is held every two years—although the war caused a lapse from 1937 to 1947—with the U. S. and Britain alternating as host country. Americans have won six of the eight matches. The last time Great Britain won was at Southport, Eng., in 1933.

The matches have been set for Friday, Nov. 2, and Sunday, Nov. 4. Saturday, Nov. 3, will be skipped to avoid conflict with the North Carolina-Tennessee football game at nearby Chapel Hill.

The American team is selected on a point system based on victories in such major classics as the national open, the PGA championship, and PGA-conducted tournaments.

Selection on the team is a big goal for the golfers. Presently, Sam Snead leads with 972 points. Trailing, in order, are Lloyd Mangrum, 588 points, Jimmy Demaret, 439, Jack Burke, Jr., 413, Skip Alexander, 276, Henry Ransom, 268, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, 251, Chandler Harper, 233, Ed Oliver, 215, and Ben Hogan, 192.

Income Tax Primer

Choice Of Forms May Save You Money On Tax Payment

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—This year, more than ever, income taxpayers will want to find their lowest tax.

Personal income taxes have been increased, and may be increased more, but the federal government doesn't want you to pay more tax than you actually owe. It expects you to take every allowable exemption and deduction.

Another important tax saver for thousands of taxpayers is choosing the cheaper way of taking non-business deductions.

Among these deductions are most taxes and interest paid by you, losses from fire, storm and theft and medical expenses exceeding five per cent of your income. Others are contributions to religious, educational and charitable organizations.

The government gives you the choice of taking a standard deduction, amounting to 10 per cent of your income, or itemizing your allowable deductions and taking the total of those deductions.

You will want to itemize your deductions if they amount to more than 10 per cent of your income. If they amount to less than 10 per cent of your income, it will pay you to take the 10 per cent allowance.

An important choice for married couples is whether to make a joint or a separate return. For a large majority of married couples a joint return is a cheap or cheaper than a separate return.

Most taxpayers want to use a return form easy to fill out. But be sure an easy return doesn't cost you more.

There are three different return forms—Form 1040-A, the "short" Form 1040 and the "long" form 1040. They are aimed at fitting the varying needs of the more than 50,000,000 taxpayers.

Many taxpayers, however, don't have a choice of forms.

If your income in 1950 was $5,000 or more, you must make your return on long form 1040.

Also you must use long form 1040 if you itemize your non-business deductions.

The law requires every citizen or resident of the United States who had a gross income of $600 or more in 1950 to file a federal income tax return. Even minors (persons under 21) must file a return if their incomes amounted to $600.

Minors who worked for a short period and received less than $600 in pay from which income tax was withheld will still want to make a return. They will get a refund of the tax that was withheld.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5—(INS)—Hal Wallis put $100,000 on the line for "Scapel,' 'a Horace McCoy story he bought while it was still in manuscript form. He decided then and there if he could persuade Burt Lancaster to star in it he would have a great picture.

Well, although it's a complete change for Burt, who plays a surgeon, he decided to do it. It sounds very much like the A. J. Cronin stories.

The hero is a young coal miner who becomes a surgeon after marrying a wealthy girl, and has to decide whether he wants to be a society doctor or spend the rest of his life helping everyday humanity.

Sid Silvers has completed the biography of Buddy De Sylva with the title "Stairway To Paradise"—and it is a work of love and devotion. Sid was with Buddy when he died—and Buddy had said that he wanted no one but Silvers to write his life story.

Buddy's story, plus the use of many of his song hits, would make an excellent romantic musical. There were many sad and melodramatic things in Buddy's life as well as his success as a tunewriter and a film producer.

Recently, Silvers and James Kern (director of "Two Tickets To Broadway") formed a writing-directing partnership. The De Sylva story will probably be their first fling as independents.

Ever since "Double Indemnity," Fred MacMurray has been looking for another thriller. Now he thinks he has found it in "Windy City Six," a radio script he'll play this week. So sold is Fred on the yarn that he's bought it from E. John Neumann before it ever goes on the air.

It's about a jazz band drummer who gets tangled up with Chicago mobsters. But it's ten to one that Fred will change that drummer spot to a saxophone player. Maybe you have forgotten that MacMurray started his movie career in Hollywood after he played the sax at one of Marion Davies' parties. He had been a professional before he came to Hollywood.

The color and scenes of Spain in "Pandora And The Flying Dutchman" are breathtakingly beautiful. This story is done with the same artistry that Art Lewin puts into all his motion pictures.

I was curious to see Mario Cabre, the bullfighter who fell in love with Ava Gardner and wrote her such impassioned poems. As an actor, Cabre will never win an Academy Award, but he is more than adequate.

Ava, in some of the scenes is more beautiful than I have ever seen her. Her gowns are gorgeous. Moreover, this is a love story and a beautifu one, and that, I beieve, is what the public likes.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Franchot Tone telephoned me to say that he was very worried about my news that Jean Wallace planned to go to Italy and make a picture.

"I expected to leave the two boys with her," Franchot told me. "I don't want them in Hollywood alone, and I must be in New York, so I shall take them with me."

Now I have some news! Upon advice of Jean's attorney, she planed back to the coast from New York and is here now. She wanted to prevent Franchot from taking the children out of the state.

Pat and Randy Scott take off for a ten-day holiday—destination unknown. The Scotts say they don't even know where they are going. I can tell them it's no kind of a vacation. Tried it myself once.

John Ringling North has reservations at Mayo Clinic and is probably there by this time.

Ida Lupino and Howard Duff are more that way than ever.

Don Cornell, Cocoanut Grove singer, who reminds so many people of Russ Colombo, is being tested at Warners.

Linda Darnell and Polan Banks at the Captain's Table at a table for two.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Income Tax Primer

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—This year, more than ever, income taxpayers will want to find their lowest tax.

Personal income taxes have been increased, and may be increased more, but the federal government doesn't want you to pay more tax than you actually owe. It expects you to take every allowable exemption and deduction.

Another important tax saver for thousands of taxpayers is choosing the cheaper way of taking non-business deductions.

Among these deductions are most taxes and interest paid by you, losses from fire, storm and theft and medical expenses exceeding five per cent of your income. Others are contributions to religious, educational and charitable organizations.

The government gives you the choice of taking a standard deduction, amounting to 10 per cent of your income, or itemizing your allowable deductions and taking the total of those deductions.

You will want to itemize your deductions if they amount to more than 10 per cent of your income. If they amount to less than 10 per cent of your income, it will pay you to take the 10 per cent allowance.

An important choice for married couples is whether to make a joint or a separate return. For a large majority of married couples a joint return is a cheap or cheaper than a separate return.

Most taxpayers want to use a return form easy to fill out. But be sure an easy return doesn't cost you more.

There are three different return forms—Form 1040-A, the "short" Form 1040 and the "long" form 1040. They are aimed at fitting the varying needs of the more than 50,000,000 taxpayers.

Many taxpayers, however, don't have a choice of forms.

If your income in 1950 was $5,000 or more, you must make your return on long form 1040.

Also you must use long form 1040 if you itemize your non-business deductions.

The law requires every citizen or resident of the United States who had a gross income of $600 or more in 1950 to file a federal income tax return. Even minors (persons under 21) must file a return if their incomes amounted to $600.

Minors who worked for a short period and received less than $600 in pay from which income tax was withheld will still want to make a return. They will get a refund of the tax that was withheld.

KEEPING UP WITH

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5—(INS)—Hal Wallis put $100,000 on the line for "Scapel,' 'a Horace McCoy story he bought while it was still in manuscript form. He decided then and there if he could persuade Burt Lancaster to star in it he would have a great picture.

Well, although it's a complete change for Burt, who plays a surgeon, he decided to do it. It sounds very much like the A. J. Cronin stories.

The hero is a young coal miner who becomes a surgeon after marrying a wealthy girl, and has to decide whether he wants to be a society doctor or spend the rest of his life helping everyday humanity.

Sid Silvers has completed the biography of Buddy De Sylva with the title "Stairway To Paradise"—and it is a work of love and devotion. Sid was with Buddy when he died—and Buddy had said that he wanted no one but Silvers to write his life story.

Buddy's story, plus the use of many of his song hits, would make an excellent romantic musical. There were many sad and melodramatic things in Buddy's life as well as his success as a tunewriter and a film producer.

Recently, Silvers and James Kern (director of "Two Tickets To Broadway") formed a writing-directing partnership. The De Sylva story will probably be their first fling as independents.

Ever since "Double Indemnity," Fred MacMurray has been looking for another thriller. Now he thinks he has found it in "Windy City Six," a radio script he'll play this week. So sold is Fred on the yarn that he's bought it from E. John Neumann before it ever goes on the air.

It's about a jazz band drummer who gets tangled up with Chicago mobsters. But it's ten to one that Fred will change that drummer spot to a saxophone player. Maybe you have forgotten that MacMurray started his movie career in Hollywood after he played the sax at one of Marion Davies' parties. He had been a professional before he came to Hollywood.

The color and scenes of Spain in "Pandora And The Flying Dutchman" are breathtakingly beautiful. This story is done with the same artistry that Art Lewin puts into all his motion pictures.

I was curious to see Mario Cabre, the bullfighter who fell in love with Ava Gardner and wrote her such impassioned poems. As an actor, Cabre will never win an Academy Award, but he is more than adequate.

Ava, in some of the scenes is more beautiful than I have ever seen her. Her gowns are gorgeous. Moreover, this is a love story and a beautifu one, and that, I beieve, is what the public likes.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Franchot Tone telephoned me to say that he was very worried about my news that Jean Wallace planned to go to Italy and make a picture.

"I expected to leave the two boys with her," Franchot told me. "I don't want them in Hollywood alone, and I must be in New York, so I shall take them with me."

Now I have some news! Upon advice of Jean's attorney, she planed back to the coast from New York and is here now. She wanted to prevent Franchot from taking the children out of the state.

Pat and Randy Scott take off for a ten-day holiday—destination unknown. The Scotts say they don't even know where they are going. I can tell them it's no kind of a vacation. Tried it myself once.

John Ringling North has reservations at Mayo Clinic and is probably there by this time.

Ida Lupino and Howard Duff are more that way than ever.

Don Cornell, Cocoanut Grove singer, who reminds so many people of Russ Colombo, is being tested at Warners.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Aggipah peak in the Salmon National forest of central Idaho was named after the Chinook Indian dialect for salmon.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis and Cuban heavyweight Omelio Agramonte wound up training today for their 10-round fight here Wednesday night.

Governor Says No

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 5 (AP)—The job of baseball's high commissioner does not appeal to Gov. Earl Warren.

"I was just elected governor," Warren told newsmen today, "and I think that's the job I want."

Income Tax Primer

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—This year, more than ever, income taxpayers will want to find their lowest tax.

Personal income taxes have been increased, and may be increased more, but the federal government doesn't want you to pay more tax than you actually owe. It expects you to take every allowable exemption and deduction.

Many persons can save tax money by choosing the return form which will give them the lowest tax.

Another important tax saver for thousands of taxpayers is choosing the cheaper way of taking non-business deductions.

Among these deductions are most taxes and interest paid by you, losses from fire, storm and theft and medical expenses exceeding five per cent of your income. Others are contributions to religious, educational and charitable organizations.

The government gives you the choice of taking a standard deduction, amounting to 10 per cent of your income, or itemizing your allowable deductions and taking the total of those deductions.

You will want to itemize your deductions if they amount to more than 10 per cent of your income. If they amount to less than 10 per cent of your income, it will pay you to take the 10 per cent allowance.

An important choice for married couples is whether to make a joint or a separate return. For a large majority of married couples a joint return is a cheap or cheaper than a separate return.

Most taxpayers want to use a return form easy to fill out. But be sure an easy return doesn't cost you more.

There are three different return forms—Form 1040-A, the "short" Form 1040 and the "long" form 1040. They are aimed at fitting the varying needs of the more than 50,000,000 taxpayers.

Many taxpayers, however, don't have a choice of forms.

If your income in 1950 was $5,000 or more, you must make your return on long form 1040.

Also you must use long form 1040 if you itemize your non-business deductions.

The law requires every citizen or resident of the United States who had a gross income of $600 or more in 1950 to file a federal income tax return. Even minors (persons under 21) must file a return if their incomes amounted to $600.

Minors who worked for a short period and received less than $600 in pay from which income tax was withheld will still want to make a return. They will get a refund of the tax that was withheld.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5—(INS)—Hal Wallis put $100,000 on the line for "Scapel,' 'a Horace McCoy story he bought while it was still in manuscript form. He decided then and there if he could persuade Burt Lancaster to star in it he would have a great picture.

Well, although it's a complete change for Burt, who plays a surgeon, he decided to do it. It sounds very much like the A. J. Cronin stories.

The hero is a young coal miner who becomes a surgeon after marrying a wealthy girl, and has to decide whether he wants to be a society doctor or spend the rest of his life helping everyday humanity.

Sid Silvers has completed the biography of Buddy De Sylva with the title "Stairway To Paradise"—and it is a work of love and devotion. Sid was with Buddy when he died—and Buddy had said that he wanted no one but Silvers to write his life story.

Buddy's story, plus the use of many of his song hits, would make an excellent romantic musical. There were many sad and melodramatic things in Buddy's life as well as his success as a tunewriter and a film producer.

Recently, Silvers and James Kern (director of "Two Tickets To Broadway") formed a writing-directing partnership. The De Sylva story will probably be their first fling as independents.

Ever since "Double Indemnity," Fred MacMurray has been looking for another thriller. Now he thinks he has found it in "Windy City Six," a radio script he'll play this week. So sold is Fred on the yarn that he's bought it from E. John Neumann before it ever goes on the air.

It's about a jazz band drummer who gets tangled up with Chicago mobsters. But it's ten to one that Fred will change that drummer spot to a saxophone player. Maybe you have forgotten that MacMurray started his movie career in Hollywood after he played the sax at one of Marion Davies' parties. He had been a professional before he came to Hollywood.

The color and scenes of Spain in "Pandora And The Flying Dutchman" are breathtakingly beautiful. This story is done with the same artistry that Art Lewin puts into all his motion pictures.

I was curious to see Mario Cabre, the bullfighter who fell in love with Ava Gardner and wrote her such impassioned poems. As an actor, Cabre will never win an Academy Award, but he is more than adequate.

Ava, in some of the scenes is more beautiful than I have ever seen her. Her gowns are gorgeous. Moreover, this is a love story and a beautifu one, and that, I believe, is what the public likes.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Franchot Tone telephoned me to say that he was very worried about my news that Jean Wallace planned to go to Italy and make a picture.

"I expected to leave the two boys with her," Franchot told me. "I don't want them in Hollywood alone, and I must be in New York, so I shall take them with me."

Now I have some news! Upon advice of Jean's attorney, she planed back to the coast from New York and is here now. She wanted to prevent Franchot from taking the children out of the state.

Pat and Randy Scott take off for a ten-day holiday—destination unknown. The Scotts say they don't even know where they are going. I can tell them it's no kind of a vacation. Tried it myself once.

John Ringling North has reservations at Mayo Clinic and is probably there by this time.

Ida Lupino and Howard Duff are more that way than ever.

Don Cornell, Cocoanut Grove singer, who reminds so many people of Russ Colombo, is being tested at Warners.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Four Bonus Bills In West Virginia Reach Governor

Misunderstanding Delays Another

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Legislature laid four of the five Veterans' Bonus measures on the Governor's desk today, but an apparent misunderstanding prevented final passage of the fifth.

Still awaiting final Senate concurrence in a minor House amendment is the bill authorizing the issuance of the $90,000,000 bond issue.

The House took up the omnibus bonus legislation with leaders still mindful of a desire to keep all five measures in one bundle when dispatching them to the Governor.

A technical revision was made in the Bond Issue Bill itself relating to the payments to be made over the 20-year liquidation period. Majority Leader Davis (D-Kanawha) told the House he had received assurances from the Senate it would act favorably on this change at once so that all five bills could be passed finally on the same day.

However, when the bill got over to the Senate, that chamber had adjourned. A Senate leader said merely the bill was too late getting there; assuring newsmen there was no disposition to be obstinate and that the House change would be speeded through.

Four Bonus Bills In West Virginia Reach Governor

Misunderstanding Delays Another

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Legislature laid four of the five Veterans' Bonus measures on the Governor's desk today, but an apparent misunderstanding prevented final passage of the fifth.

Still awaiting final Senate concurrence in a minor House amendment is the bill authorizing the issuance of the $90,000,000 bond issue.

The House took up the omnibus bonus legislation with leaders still mindful of a desire to keep all five measures in one bundle when dispatching them to the Governor.

A technical revision was made in the Bond Issue Bill itself relating to the payments to be made over the 20-year liquidation period. Majority Leader Davis (D-Kanawha) told the House he had received assurances from the Senate it would act favorably on this change at once so that all five bills could be passed finally on the same day.

However, when the bill got over to the Senate, that chamber had adjourned. A Senate leader said merely the bill was too late getting there; assuring newsmen there was no disposition to be obstinate and that the House change would be speeded through.

$975 Collected In Dimes Drive

KEYSER, W. Va.—The March of Dimes campaign in Mineral county has moved very slowly this year, and James Goldsworthy, treasurer of the county chapter, announced yesterday that only $975 had been deposited in the bank to date.

He is hopeful that there will be more donations received before the end of next week, when the campaign is scheduled to close, having been extended two weeks over the regular period.

He said that another case like that of Mona Walker will be hard to handle unless there is more money contributed to the fund.

Interest has been very light in the campaign this year, he said, although the county was called on for care of the local child, who is still in a convalescent home in Morgantown and will probably need attention for another three months.

Four Bonus Bills In West Virginia Reach Governor

Misunderstanding Delays Another

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 5 (AP) —The Legislature laid four of the five Veterans' Bonus measures on the Governor's desk today, but an apparent misunderstanding prevented final passage of the fifth.

Still awaiting final Senate concurrence in a minor House amendment is the bill authorizing the issuance of the $90,000,000 bond issue.

The House took up the omnibus bonus legislation with leaders still mindful of a desire to keep all five measures in one bundle when dispatching them to the Governor.

A technical revision was made in the Bond Issue Bill itself relating to the payments to be made over the 20-year liquidation period. Majority Leader Davis (D-Kanawha) told the House he had received assurances from the Senate it would act favorably on this change at once so that all five bills could be passed finally on the same day.

However, when the bill got over to the Senate, that chamber had adjourned. A Senate leader said merely the bill was too late getting there; assuring newsmen there was no disposition to be obstinate and that the House change would be speeded through.

LUKE—Sgt. Herbert Lee VanMeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. VanMeter, Fairview Street, was killed in action in Korea, on July 20, 1950, according to a telegram just received by his mother from the Adjutant Department.

His death, the first war fatality from the Tri-Towns, was confirmed in a letter received from the government Monday morning. On August 15, 1950, he was reported missing in action. He was a member of the Seventh Division in the Infantry.

Sgt. VanMeter had 10 years of service, according to his mother. He told his mother when he was home on a 20-day furlough in June, 1950 that he expected to make it a career.

West Virginia Soldiers Honored For Heroism

Berkeley Springs Man Commended

Two West Virginians are among three soldiers who have just received awards for heroism for plunging into the chill waters of Seattle's Shilshole Bay last Spring in a partially successful rescue effort, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Seattle, Wash.

They are PFC Vernon McGowan, Berkeley Springs, and Cpl. Clinton D. Nelson Whitmer, in Randolph county. The third is PFC Joseph Barnett, Dayton, Ohio. All are military policemen at Fort Lawton in Seattle and are winners of the Army's commendation ribbons.

The ribbons, each with a metal pendant, were given to the trio at a recent Fort Lawton ceremony.

The three risked their lives last April 7 after a small skiff capsized and threw two other Fort Lawton soldiers and a girl companion into the bay. The rescuers swam out several hundred feet and managed to get the victims of the boating accident to shore.

One of the men in the skiff, Cpl. Frederick M. Towns, Grand Rapids, Mich., died soon afterward of shock and exhaustion.

If you want to look taller, you can! Learn how to extend your body to its full capacity today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

NO WONDER the tall, reed-slim look of the fashion model is the ideal of today. Implicit in it are youth, figure beauty, grace and the ability to wear clothes well. But you need not be 5'6" or over to have that tall look. Some of the tiniest women I know carry themselves with such assurance and authority that they appear inches taller than they measure. You can, too.

Just by learning to extend your body to its full capacity, you can increase your height by a whole inch! I'll show you how right now. But first, put a mark on the wall to record your present height.

Loosening Tight Spots

Let's start by loosening the tight spots in your spine. Stand on tiptoe with your feet together. Raise both arms high over head. Beginning at the base of your spine, start to stretch. Pull your waist out of your hips, your neck out of your shoulders, your hands out of your wrists. Reach for the ceiling. Then, slowly walk around the room in this attenuated position for a count of ten.

Now, very slowly, allow your arms and feet to return to normal standing position. But, don't lose the stretch in your spine! Do this exercise ten times or more during each day at various intervals. Between times, hold your back and head as erect as possible.

Stretch Your Neck

Next, let's see how swan-like we can make your neck. Lie on your back on the floor. Keep one leg out straight. Bend the other so the knee touches your chest. Clasp your hands lightly around the bent knee. Raise your head and stretch it toward that knee. Keep your shoulders flat on the floor and don't cheat by pulling your knee toward your head with your hands! At the same time, try to stretch the leg that is on the floor. Hold for a count of five; repeat with opposite leg. Start with five times for each and work up to fifteen times per leg as soon as possible.

These exercises will help you achieve ease in standing, sitting and walking stretched as tall as possible, which you should do at all times.

After one month, measure your height again. Your new mark on the wall might be as much as one inch above the original!

If you want to look taller, you can! Learn how to extend your body to its full capacity today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

NO WONDER the tall, reed-slim look of the fashion model is the ideal of today. Implicit in it are youth, figure beauty, grace and the ability to wear clothes well. But you need not be 5'6" or over to have that tall look. Some of the tiniest women I know carry themselves with such assurance and authority that they appear inches taller than they measure. You can, too.

Just by learning to extend your body to its full capacity, you can increase your height by a whole inch! I'll show you how right now. But first, put a mark on the wall to record your present height.

Loosening Tight Spots

Let's start by loosening the tight spots in your spine. Stand on tiptoe with your feet together. Raise both arms high over head. Beginning at the base of your spine, start to stretch. Pull your waist out of your hips, your neck out of your shoulders, your hands out of your wrists. Reach for the ceiling. Then, slowly walk around the room in this attenuated position for a count of ten.

Now, very slowly, allow your arms and feet to return to normal standing position. But, don't lose the stretch in your spine! Do this exercise ten times or more during each day at various intervals. Between times, hold your back and head as erect as possible.

Stretch Your Neck

Next, let's see how swan-like we can make your neck. Lie on your back on the floor. Keep one leg out straight. Bend the other so the knee touches your chest. Clasp your hands lightly around the bent knee. Raise your head and stretch it toward that knee. Keep your shoulders flat on the floor and don't cheat by pulling your knee toward your head with your hands! At the same time, try to stretch the leg that is on the floor. Hold for a count of five; repeat with opposite leg. Start with five times for each and work up to fifteen times per leg as soon as possible.

These exercises will help you achieve ease in standing, sitting and walking stretched as tall as possible, which you should do at all times.

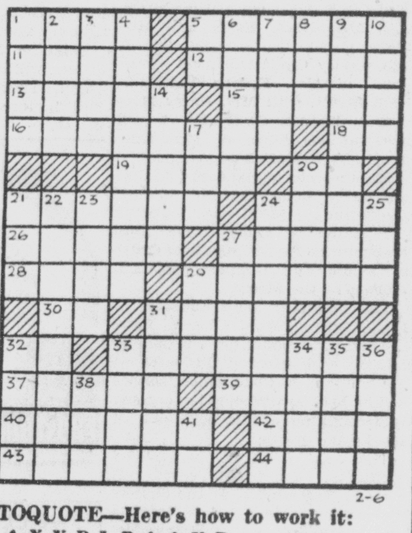
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

IFF ORIO'D YZTERO AHDO KIVL,—ORL YZTEROLDO DOTFF ORL KFLLOLDO—AUUZL.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE MISS THY SMALL STEP ON THE STAIR: WE MISS THEE AT THINE EVENING PRAYER. MOIR.

BLONDIE / BRICK BRADFORD / HENRY / BUZ SAWYER / BARNEY & SNUFFY / ANNIE RONEY / JOE PALOOKA / BIG SISTER / DICK TRACY

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness following the sudden and tragic death of my husband, Mr. F. B. Shipley. I especially wish to thank the Blades family, Rev. Donald F. Brake and James Scarpelli and all those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars.
Mrs. F. B. Shipley

In Memoriam

In loving memory of E. G. A. Snider.
SAFE IN THE ARMS OF JESUS
SAFE ON HIS GENTLE BREAST
THERE BY HIS LOVE O'ER SHADED
SWEETLY HIS SOUL SHALL REST.
Sadly missed by his Wife & Children.

In loving memory of our beloved mother, Mary O. Twigg, who passed away 2 years ago today, February 6, 1949.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered; since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Your Devoted Children

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Marie Wilkins, who passed away one year ago today, February 6, 1950.
Dear Mother in silence you suffered
And with patience you bore,
And God called you to him to suffer no more.
We took our sorrows all to you,
You'd smooth our troubled brow;
You always chased the cloud away,
We could not forget you now,
Gone into the light that shines so fair,
Gone from this earth of sorrows and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
Gone dear Mother, gone to rest,
What is home without our Mother?
What are all the joys we meet,
When your loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet.
Dear Mother, how we miss you
Since from earth you passed away,
And our hearts are aching sorely,
As we think of you today.
Sadly missed by her daughters
MRS. CLARA BREIGHNER
MRS. ELEANOR MILLER

In loving memory of our Daddy, Russell Coakley, Jr., who was killed two years ago in February, 1949.
We miss your love and pleasing way,
Please God just let him know
That we down here do not forget,
And that we miss him so.
His loving son and daughter,
DONALD & VIRGINIA

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness following the sudden and tragic death of my husband, Mr. F. B. Shipley. I especially wish to thank the Blades family, Rev. Donald F. Brake and James Scarpelli and all those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars.
Mrs. F. B. Shipley

In Memoriam

In loving memory of E. G. A. Snider.
SAFE ON HIS GENTLE BREAST
THERE BY HIS LOVE O'ER SHADED
SWEETLY HIS SOUL SHALL REST.
Sadly missed by his Wife & Children.

In loving memory of our beloved mother, Mary O. Twigg, who passed away 2 years ago today, February 6, 1949.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered; since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Your Devoted Children

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Marie Wilkins, who passed away one year ago today, February 6, 1950.
Dear Mother in silence you suffered
And with patience you bore,
And God called you to him to suffer no more.
We took our sorrows all to you,
You'd smooth our troubled brow;
You always chased the cloud away,
We could not forget you now,
Gone into the light that shines so fair,
Gone from this earth of sorrows and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
Gone dear Mother, gone to rest,
What is home without our Mother?
What are all the joys we meet,
When your loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet.
Dear Mother, how we miss you
Since from earth you passed away,
And our hearts are aching sorely,
As we think of you today.
Sadly missed by her daughters
MRS. CLARA BREIGHNER
MRS. ELEANOR MILLER

In loving memory of our Daddy, Russell Coakley, Jr., who was killed two years ago in February, 1949.
We miss your love and pleasing way,
Please God just let him know
That we down here do not forget,
And that we miss him so.
His loving son and daughter,
DONALD & VIRGINIA

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness following the sudden and tragic death of my husband, Mr. F. B. Shipley. I especially wish to thank the Blades family, Rev. Donald F. Brake and James Scarpelli and all those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars.
Mrs. F. B. Shipley

In Memoriam

In loving memory of E. G. A. Snider.
SAFE ON HIS GENTLE BREAST
THERE BY HIS LOVE O'ER SHADED
SWEETLY HIS SOUL SHALL REST.
Sadly missed by his Wife & Children.

In loving memory of our beloved mother, Mary O. Twigg, who passed away 2 years ago today, February 6, 1949.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered; since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Your Devoted Children

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Marie Wilkins, who passed away one year ago today, February 6, 1950.
Dear Mother in silence you suffered
And with patience you bore,
And God called you to him to suffer no more.
We took our sorrows all to you,
You'd smooth our troubled brow;
You always chased the cloud away,
We could not forget you now,
Gone into the light that shines so fair,
Gone from this earth of sorrows and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
Gone dear Mother, gone to rest,
What is home without our Mother?
What are all the joys we meet,
When your loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet.
Dear Mother, how we miss you
Since from earth you passed away,
And our hearts are aching sorely,
As we think of you today.
Sadly missed by her daughters
MRS. CLARA BREIGHNER
MRS. ELEANOR MILLER

In loving memory of our Daddy, Russell Coakley, Jr., who was killed two years ago in February, 1949.
We miss your love and pleasing way,
Please God just let him know
That we down here do not forget,
And that we miss him so.
His loving son and daughter,
DONALD & VIRGINIA

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl try to "change" her men friends?

Answer: As a rule it is a waste of effort which may end by leaving her with no men friends to change. There is no subtler form of self-deception than persuading yourself that it will be "good for" someone else to make him over so as to conform to your tastes and ideas. For not only does this generally prove impossible — it is likely to make the other person more set in his ways than ever and angry at you into the bargain. Either adjust your own attitudes to those of your friends or pick friends whom you can like and respect as they are.

Can you "intervene" in your dreams?

Answer: A good many people can if they are well-balanced emotionally. Of course anyone will wake up when the terror of a nightmare becomes unendurable—when the building actually crashes on his head or the tiger's jaws close on him. But it is also possible for many people, when the tension of a dream becomes uncomfortable, to say: "Look here, is this real or am I dreaming?" and deliberately wake themselves up. I should say that the more strongly your sense of reality has been developed, the more likely this will be to happen.

Are children naturally mischievous?

Answer: Not nearly so much as most people believe. If you let a child realize that he has the power to "get your goat" by acting mischievously, he may exercise that power for the fun of proving to himself that he is stronger than you are. But most of what adults see as mischief in children's behavior is really a form of experimenting—trying to find out what makes things tick—and intends no harm because the child does not know what the consequences of his actions will be. It is curiosity, not malice, that makes Johnny pull the cat's tail.

Britons Aroused As Fuel Shortage Again Threatens Domestic Chaos

COVENTRY, England—(AP)—Pursued by a flue epidemic, shivering over unfulfilled coal rations, many perplexed Britons are wondering just why it is that fuel shortages once more threaten them with a measure of domestic chaos. And a lot of them are getting mad.

After four years of state ownership of the mines, a new coal crisis threatens to close factories, return millions of workers to the dole, and steam up old political feuds.

Although the House of Commons on Feb. 1 rejected Conservative charges that Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor government bungled Britain into the coal shortage, Winston Churchill has not given up hope of forcing a new election.

The Tories reason thus: The coal situation plus the rising cost of living plus the meat shortage are tipping the political scales in their favor. Various polls profess to show some swing toward the Conservatives. Labor Party leaders privately acknowledge some such public reaction. The Churchillian forces say they could win a national election now.

At the moment, coal supplies are the main reason.

Everybody seems to be bitter at everybody else. The consumers are made at the miners. The miners, exhausting themselves in the grime and danger of the pits, are mad at their critics. Mine managers are discontented because they have not received pay concessions as have the diggers. Leaders of the Trades Union Congress, numbering 8,000,000 organized workers, are sore at the government, too.

Beset from all sides, the government has ordered a 15 per cent cut in coal supplies to industry. But that could lead to another vicious circle. The rearmament program might be affected. So would exports, so vital to Britain's economy that the repercussions would be even more widespread.

To be on the safe side, Britain's coal stockpile needs to total about 17,000,000 tons each October. Last October, the supply was 1,500,000 tons shy.

The question isn't where to get the goal—the island is underplaced by tremendous fields of black diamonds—but how to get it out. Manpower is increasingly scarce.

When the National Coal Board took over four years ago, there were 697,000 miners. Higher wages, a five-day week for six days pay, overtime, and paid vacations helped build up the force to 727,000 diggers early in 1949.

Then the wartime fence came down. In 20 months, the pits lost more than 40,000 workers, and miners still are drifting away. The average pay for all mine workers is nearly $28 a week—high pay by British standards, but the automobile factories pay about as much for cleaner and less dangerous jobs.

Many of the miners are old men, their strength sapped by a lifetime in the pits. Hardly a one advises his son to follow in the business. In a nation with more jobs than men, youngsters see no reason to pin their livelihood to a dank, dark, and dangerous mine.

Inadequate housing in the coal fields is one more reason for the labor drift. Absenteeism also plays hob with coal production. The miners explain that they must lay off to rest. But absenteeism also rises noticably on days when local football teams are playing a home. Many men who work on Saturday lay off during the week.

There is cautious talk of resuming wartime control and direction of labor. Aneurin Bevan, himself a miner during his youth in Wales, has been advanced to labor minister to wrestle with the problem. So far, the only plans are to import 10,000 Italian miners and the release of ex-coal miners from the armed forces if they will go back to their old jobs.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Svenborg managed to stay on the Yale football squad all season, although he never got into a game. His only contribution consisted of acting as a tackling dummy at practice sessions, and sitting huddled up in a robe at the end of the bench during games.

The Harvard fray, however, produced so many minor injuries that, near the end of the final quarter, the coach had poured every member of the squad but Svenborg into the line-up. Time was called while still another Yale stalwart was carried off the field. The coach's eyes traveled along the empty bench until they encountered Svenborg. A wild hope surged through Svenborg's veins. "Gee, coach," he marveled. "Are you gonna send me in?" "I should say not," snapped the coach. "Just get up. I'm gonna send in the bench!"

Bird Club To Build Feeder

The Oldtown Seventh Grade Girls Bird Club received reports at the meeting Saturday at the school and a group volunteered to make a bird feeding station for the class room. Those volunteering were Jane Keyser, Patricia McCoy and Mary Harbaugh.

Reports on various birds were given, with Patricia McCoy telling of the thrush; Mary Harbaugh, the robin; Jane Keyser, the woodpecker; and Louise Hose discussing the health of birds.

between 15 and 25 per cent. There were three approaches he could choose from when he was named defense mobilizer. The first was business-as-usual, which meant not getting the job done at all. The second was going on to a full war basis, which meant turning the whole economy upside down to achieve the flood of production needed for a shooting war; and then seeing a great mass of obsolescent weapons pile up and the economy go into a nose dive if war did not come.

These approaches he has rejected, in favor of the more imaginative one of permanently lifting the whole national economy to an entirely new level, at which enough will be produced to satisfy all defense needs short of all-out war, and to maintain the present American living standard at the same time. He figures that if the country accepts temporary controls, if the Congress goes along on stiff taxes and credit restrictions to prevent swelling civilian consumption, and if business and labor cooperate, it will take about 18 months.

"The orders are going in now," he explains. "Pretty soon, the bad time will begin, when the controls pinch and there are dislocations. But in around a year and a half, even the long lead defense items ought to be coming off the production line so fast they'll need the State of Texas to store them in."

It sounds simple when he says it. You even feel it will be easy when he remarks, for instance, that the war potential of American industry, having already been doubled and tripled and quintupled between 1940 and 1945, has invisibly increased by another 50 per cent between 1945 and 1950.

In fact, of course, there will be nothing easy or simple about this business of increasing the already immense productivity of the United States to make comfortable room for a huge defense output. Wilson will have plenty of headaches, and will be on the receiving end of plenty of brickbats, before the task is finished. But after a good many years as a legendary captain of industry, he still retains the toughness of Hell's Kitchen, where he began life; he has faith in America, and he knows his work. If Wilson cannot do the job, nobody can.

Drastic Tax Plan, Rail Tieup Fail To Halt Rising Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A set of drastic tax proposals and one of history's worst transport tieups failed today to impede a rising stock market.

At times the market faltered and lost its stride over the implications of the industry-crippling rail strike and of the details as to how the administration believes the nation's taxes should be boosted by $10,000,-000,000.

The volume of trading amounted to 2,680,000 shares, against 3,030,000 at the last full session Friday.

Gains for individual issues ranged from a few cents to around $1 a share, with a few produced more spectacular advances. Loses ran to around $1.

Some auto shares — such as General Motors, up ⅞ at 51⅝, and Packard, up ¼ at 5⅝—did well despite the recommendation that excises on cars be increased from seven to 20 per cent.

Some excellent bits of corporate news proved a boon to individual stocks.

Boeing Airplane closed 3⅛ points higher at 44⅝ following reports the company had developed a small gas turbine engine capable of adding spectacular pulling power to Diesel or reciprocating gas engine trucks. It also was reported the Air Force was figuring on Boeing's B-52 jet bomber in its long range planning.

Illinois Central advanced 4¾ at 70¾ on the strength of a fine 1950 earnings report.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, American Woolen, American Tobacco, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.), Paramount Pictures and Johns Manville.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP HIM READ FALSE-CARDING when you are on the defense is a dangerous procedure. It hazards the misleading of your partner, hence the disruption of the entire plan to head off the declarer, which so often depends on the clear exchange of information between the two who are sniping at him. But situations arrive in which a defender should false-card. They are mainly of two kinds. One is that in which the declarer is in a better position to use whatever facts your play discloses. The other is a lineup presenting a poor card-reader as your partner and a fine one as your foe. Then you should avoid helping the declarer to read the situation.

South let the heart J win when East played it on the lead of the 4. The A took the Q return and the club 9 was finessed to the Q. West's heart 10 knocked out the K and the spade K was used as a dummy re-entry to lead a second club. When East played low, South came right in with the A to drop the K. That gave him his contract with three tricks in clubs and two in each other suit.

If South had finessed on the second round of clubs, he would have had no way to develop nine tricks, since the then singleton K would have won. West wondered how he decided to play for the drop instead of the finesse. His explanation was simple.

"Since you had led a fourth-best from a four-card suit, I reckoned the chances were you considered you had a re-entry," said South. "The only card higher than a queen against me was the king of clubs. So I felt you had it and my only chance was to drop it on the second round, especially since the ten was clearly marked as still in East's hand."

Then East chimed in with, "If you had played the king the first time, he could not have followed that logic on his second club trick, but might have finessed." To which South responded, "I guess I would have."

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl try to "change" her men friends?

Answer: As a rule it is a waste of effort which may end by leaving her with no men friends to change. There is no subtler form of self-deception than persuading yourself that it will be "good for" someone else to make him over so as to conform to your tastes and ideas. For not only does this generally prove impossible — it is likely to make the other person more set in his ways than ever and angry at you into the bargain. Either adjust your own attitudes to those of your friends or pick friends whom you can like and respect as they are.

Can you "intervene" in your dreams?

Answer: A good many people can if they are well-balanced emotionally. Of course anyone will wake up when the terror of a nightmare becomes unendurable—when the building actually crashes on his head or the tiger's jaws close on him. But it is also possible for many people, when the tension of a dream becomes uncomfortable, to say: "Look here, is this real or am I dreaming?" and deliberately wake themselves up. I should say that the more strongly your sense of reality has been developed, the more likely this will be to happen.

Are children naturally mischievous?

Answer: Not nearly so much as most people believe. If you let a child realize that he has the power to "get your goat" by acting mischievously, he may exercise that power for the fun of proving to himself that he is stronger than you are. But most of what adults see as mischief in children's behavior is really a form of experimenting—trying to find out what makes things tick—and intends no harm because the child does not know what the consequences of his actions will be. It is curiosity, not malice, that makes Johnny pull the cat's tail.

Britons Aroused As Fuel Shortage Again Threatens Domestic Chaos

COVENTRY, England—(AP)—Pursued by a flue epidemic, shivering over unfulfilled coal rations, many perplexed Britons are wondering just why it is that fuel shortages once more threaten them with a measure of domestic chaos. And a lot of them are getting mad.

After four years of state ownership of the mines, a new coal crisis threatens to close factories, return millions of workers to the dole, and steam up old political feuds.

Although the House of Commons on Feb. 1 rejected Conservative charges that Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor government bungled Britain into the coal shortage, Winston Churchill has not given up hope of forcing a new election.

The Tories reason thus: The coal situation plus the rising cost of living plus the meat shortage are tipping the political scales in their favor. Various polls profess to show some swing toward the Conservatives. Labor Party leaders privately acknowledge some such public reaction. The Churchillian forces say they could win a national election now.

At the moment, coal supplies are the main reason.

Everybody seems to be bitter at everybody else. The consumers are made at the miners. The miners, exhausting themselves in the grime and danger of the pits, are mad at their critics. Mine managers are discontented because they have not received pay concessions as have the diggers. Leaders of the Trades Union Congress, numbering 8,000,000 organized workers, are sore at the government, too.

Beset from all sides, the government has ordered a 15 per cent cut in coal supplies to industry. But that could lead to another vicious circle. The rearmament program might be affected. So would exports, so vital to Britain's economy that the repercussions would be even more widespread.

To be on the safe side, Britain's coal stockpile needs to total about 17,000,000 tons each October. Last October, the supply was 1,500,000 tons shy.

The question isn't where to get the goal—the island is underplaced by tremendous fields of black diamonds—but how to get it out. Manpower is increasingly scarce.

When the National Coal Board took over four years ago, there were 697,000 miners. Higher wages, a five-day week for six days pay, overtime, and paid vacations helped build up the force to 727,000 diggers early in 1949.

Then the wartime fence came down. In 20 months, the pits lost more than 40,000 workers, and miners still are drifting away. The average pay for all mine workers is nearly $28 a week—high pay by British standards, but the automobile factories pay about as much for cleaner and less dangerous jobs.

Many of the miners are old men, their strength sapped by a lifetime in the pits. Hardly a one advises his son to follow in the business. In a nation with more jobs than men, youngsters see no reason to pin their livelihood to a dank, dark, and dangerous mine.

Inadequate housing in the coal fields is one more reason for the labor drift. Absenteeism also plays hob with coal production. The miners explain that they must lay off to rest. But absenteeism also rises noticeably on days when local football teams are playing a home. Many men who work on Saturday lay off during the week.

There is cautious talk of resuming wartime control and direction of labor. Aneurin Bevan, himself a miner during his youth in Wales, has been advanced to labor minister to wrestle with the problem. So far, the only plans are to import 10,000 Italian miners and the release of ex-coal miners from the armed forces if they will go back to their old jobs.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Svenborg managed to stay on the Yale football squad all season, although he never got into a game. His only contribution consisted of acting as a tackling dummy at practice sessions, and sitting huddled up in a robe at the end of the bench during games.

The Harvard fray, however, produced so many minor injuries that, near the end of the final quarter, the coach had poured every member of the squad but Svenborg into the line-up. Time was called while still another Yale stalwart was carried off the field. The coach's eyes traveled along the empty bench until they encountered Svenborg. A wild hope surged through Svenborg's veins. "Gee, coach," he marveled. "Are you gonna send me in?" "I should say not," snapped the coach. "Just get up. I'm gonna send in the bench!"

Bird Club To Build Feeder

The Oldtown Seventh Grade Girls Bird Club received reports at the meeting Saturday at the school and a group volunteered to make a bird feeding station for the class room. Those volunteering were Jane Keyser, Patricia McCoy and Mary Harbaugh.

Reports on various birds were given, with Patricia McCoy telling of the thrush; Mary Harbaugh, the robin; Jane Keyser, the woodpecker; and Louise Hose discussing the health of birds.

between 15 and 25 per cent. There were three approaches he could choose from when he was named defense mobilizer. The first was business-as-usual, which meant not getting the job done at all. The second was going on to a full war basis, which meant turning the whole economy upside down to achieve the flood of production needed for a shooting war; and then seeing a great mass of obsolescent weapons pile up and the economy go into a nose dive if war did not come.

These approaches he has rejected, in favor of the more imaginative one of permanently lifting the whole national economy to an entirely new level, at which enough will be produced to satisfy all defense needs short of all-out war, and to maintain the present American living standard at the same time. He figures that if the country accepts temporary controls, if the Congress goes along on stiff taxes and credit restrictions to prevent swelling civilian consumption, and if business and labor cooperate, it will take about 18 months.

"The orders are going in now," he explains. "Pretty soon, the bad time will begin, when the controls pinch and there are dislocations. But in around a year and a half, even the long lead defense items ought to be coming off the production line so fast they'll need the State of Texas to store them in."

It sounds simple when he says it. You even feel it will be easy when he remarks, for instance, that the war potential of American industry, having already been doubled and tripled and quintupled between 1940 and 1945, has invisibly increased by another 50 per cent between 1945 and 1950.

In fact, of course, there will be nothing easy or simple about this business of increasing the already immense productivity of the United States to make comfortable room for a huge defense output. Wilson will have plenty of headaches, and will be on the receiving end of plenty of brickbats, before the task is finished. But after a good many years as a legendary captain of industry, he still retains the toughness of Hell's Kitchen, where he began life; he has faith in America, and he knows his work. If Wilson cannot do the job, nobody can.

Drastic Tax Plan, Rail Tieup Fail To Halt Rising Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A set of drastic tax proposals and one of history's worst transport tieups failed today to impede a rising stock market.

At times the market faltered and lost its stride over the implications of the industry-crippling rail strike and of the details as to how the administration believes the nation's taxes should be boosted by $10,000,-000,000.

The volume of trading amounted to 2,680,000 shares, against 3,030,000 at the last full session Friday.

Gains for individual issues ranged from a few cents to around $1 a share, with a few produced more spectacular advances. Loses ran to around $1.

Some auto shares — such as General Motors, up ⅞ at 51⅝, and Packard, up ¼ at 5⅝—did well despite the recommendation that excises on cars be increased from seven to 20 per cent.

Some excellent bits of corporate news proved a boon to individual stocks.

Boeing Airplane closed 3⅛ points higher at 44⅝ following reports the company had developed a small gas turbine engine capable of adding spectacular pulling power to Diesel or reciprocating gas engine trucks. It also was reported the Air Force was figuring on Boeing's B-52 jet bomber in its long range planning.

Illinois Central advanced 4¾ at 70¾ on the strength of a fine 1950 earnings report.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, American Woolen, American Tobacco, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.), Paramount Pictures and Johns Manville.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP HIM READ

FALSE-CARDING when you are on the defense is a dangerous procedure. It hazards the misleading of your partner, hence the disruption of the entire plan to head off the declarer, which so often depends on the clear exchange of information between the two who are sniping at him. But situations arrive in which a defender should false-card. They are mainly of two kinds. One is that in which the declarer is in a better position to use whatever facts your play discloses. The other is a lineup presenting a poor card-reader as your partner and a fine one as your foe. Then you should avoid helping the declarer to read the situation.

South let the heart J win when East played it on the lead of the 4. The A took the Q return and the club 9 was finessed to the Q. West's heart 10 knocked out the K and the spade K was used as a dummy re-entry to lead a second club. When East played low, South came right in with the A to drop the K. That gave him his contract with three tricks in clubs and two in each other suit.

If South had finessed on the second round of clubs, he would have had no way to develop nine tricks, since the then singleton K would have won. West wondered how he decided to play for the drop instead of the finesse. His explanation was simple.

"Since you had led a fourth-best from a four-card suit, I reckoned the chances were you considered you had a re-entry," said South. "The only card higher than a queen against me was the king of clubs. So I felt you had it and my only chance was to drop it on the second round, especially since the ten was clearly marked as still in East's hand."

Then East chimed in with, "If you had played the king the first time, he could not have followed that logic on his second club trick, but might have finessed." To which South responded, "I guess I would have."

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl try to "change" her men friends?

Answer: As a rule it is a waste of effort which may end by leaving her with no men friends to change. There is no subtler form of self-deception than persuading yourself that it will be "good for" someone else to make him over so as to conform to your tastes and ideas. For not only does this generally prove impossible — it is likely to make the other person more set in his ways than ever and angry at you into the bargain. Either adjust your own attitudes to those of your friends or pick friends whom you can like and respect as they are.

Can you "intervene" in your dreams?

Answer: A good many people can if they are well-balanced emotionally. Of course anyone will wake up when the terror of a nightmare becomes unendurable—when the building actually crashes on his head or the tiger's jaws close on him. But it is also possible for many people, when the tension of a dream becomes uncomfortable, to say: "Look here, is this real or am I dreaming?" and deliberately wake themselves up. I should say that the more strongly your sense of reality has been developed, the more likely this will be to happen.

Are children naturally mischievous?

Answer: Not nearly so much as most people believe. If you let a child realize that he has the power to "get your goat" by acting mischievously, he may exercise that power for the fun of proving to himself that he is stronger than you are. But most of what adults see as mischief in children's behavior is really a form of experimenting—trying to find out what makes things tick—and intends no harm because the child does not know what the consequences of his actions will be. It is curiosity, not malice, that makes Johnny pull the cat's tail.

Britons Aroused As Fuel Shortage Again Threatens Domestic Chaos

COVENTRY, England—(AP)—Pursued by a flue epidemic, shivering over unfulfilled coal rations, many perplexed Britons are wondering just why it is that fuel shortages once more threaten them with a measure of domestic chaos. And a lot of them are getting mad.

After four years of state ownership of the mines, a new coal crisis threatens to close factories, return millions of workers to the dole, and steam up old political feuds.

Although the House of Commons on Feb. 1 rejected Conservative charges that Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor government bungled Britain into the coal shortage, Winston Churchill has not given up hope of forcing a new election.

The Tories reason thus: The coal situation plus the rising cost of living plus the meat shortage are tipping the political scales in their favor. Various polls profess to show some swing toward the Conservatives. Labor Party leaders privately acknowledge some such public reaction. The Churchillian forces say they could win a national election now.

At the moment, coal supplies are the main reason.

Everybody seems to be bitter at everybody else. The consumers are made at the miners. The miners, exhausting themselves in the grime and danger of the pits, are mad at their critics. Mine managers are discontented because they have not received pay concessions as have the diggers. Leaders of the Trades Union Congress, numbering 8,000,000 organized workers, are sore at the government, too.

Beset from all sides, the government has ordered a 15 per cent cut in coal supplies to industry. But that could lead to another vicious circle. The rearmament program might be affected. So would exports, so vital to Britain's economy that the repercussions would be even more widespread.

To be on the safe side, Britain's coal stockpile needs to total about 17,000,000 tons each October. Last October, the supply was 1,500,000 tons shy.

The question isn't where to get the goal—the island is underplaced by tremendous fields of black diamonds—but how to get it out. Manpower is increasingly scarce.

When the National Coal Board took over four years ago, there were 697,000 miners. Higher wages, a five-day week for six days pay, overtime, and paid vacations helped build up the force to 727,000 diggers early in 1949.

Then the wartime fence came down. In 20 months, the pits lost more than 40,000 workers, and miners still are drifting away. The average pay for all mine workers is nearly $28 a week—high pay by British standards, but the automobile factories pay about as much for cleaner and less dangerous jobs.

Many of the miners are old men, their strength sapped by a lifetime in the pits. Hardly a one advises his son to follow in the business. In a nation with more jobs than men, youngsters see no reason to pin their livelihood to a dank, dark, and dangerous mine.

Inadequate housing in the coal fields is one more reason for the labor drift. Absenteeism also plays hob with coal production. The miners explain that they must lay off to rest. But absenteeism also rises noticably on days when local football teams are playing a home. Many men who work on Saturday lay off during the week.

There is cautious talk of resuming wartime control and direction of labor. Aneurin Bevan, himself a miner during his youth in Wales, has been advanced to labor minister to wrestle with the problem. So far, the only plans are to import 10,000 Italian miners and the release of ex-coal miners from the armed forces if they will go back to their old jobs.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Svenborg managed to stay on the Yale football squad all season, although he never got into a game. His only contribution consisted of acting as a tackling dummy at practice sessions, and sitting huddled up in a robe at the end of the bench during games.

The Harvard fray, however, produced so many minor injuries that, near the end of the final quarter, the coach had poured every member of the squad but Svenborg into the line-up. Time was called while still another Yale stalwart was carried off the field. The coach's eyes traveled along the empty bench until they encountered Svenborg. A wild hope surged through Svenborg's veins. "Gee, coach," he marveled. "Are you gonna send me in?" "I should say not," snapped the coach. "Just get up. I'm gonna send in the bench!"

Bird Club To Build Feeder

The Oldtown Seventh Grade Girls Bird Club received reports at the meeting Saturday at the school and a group volunteered to make a bird feeding station for the class room. Those volunteering were Jane Keyser, Patricia McCoy and Mary Harbaugh.

Reports on various birds were given, with Patricia McCoy telling of the thrush; Mary Harbaugh, the robin; Jane Keyser, the woodpecker; and Louise Hose discussing the health of birds.

between 15 and 25 per cent. There were three approaches he could choose from when he was named defense mobilizer. The first was business-as-usual, which meant not getting the job done at all. The second was going on to a full war basis, which meant turning the whole economy upside down to achieve the flood of production needed for a shooting war; and then seeing a great mass of obsolescent weapons pile up and the economy go into a nose dive if war did not come.

These approaches he has rejected, in favor of the more imaginative one of permanently lifting the whole national economy to an entirely new level, at which enough will be produced to satisfy all defense needs short of all-out war, and to maintain the present American living standard at the same time. He figures that if the country accepts temporary controls, if the Congress goes along on stiff taxes and credit restrictions to prevent swelling civilian consumption, and if business and labor cooperate, it will take about 18 months.

"The orders are going in now," he explains. "Pretty soon, the bad time will begin, when the controls pinch and there are dislocations. But in around a year and a half, even the long lead defense items ought to be coming off the production line so fast they'll need the State of Texas to store them in."

It sounds simple when he says it. You even feel it will be easy when he remarks, for instance, that the war potential of American industry, having already been doubled and tripled and quintupled between 1940 and 1945, has invisibly increased by another 50 per cent between 1945 and 1950.

In fact, of course, there will be nothing easy or simple about this business of increasing the already immense productivity of the United States to make comfortable room for a huge defense output. Wilson will have plenty of headaches, and will be on the receiving end of plenty of brickbats, before the task is finished. But after a good many years as a legendary captain of industry, he still retains the toughness of Hell's Kitchen, where he began life; he has faith in America, and he knows his work. If Wilson cannot do the job, nobody can.

Drastic Tax Plan, Rail Tieup Fail To Halt Rising Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A set of drastic tax proposals and one of history's worst transport tieups failed today to impede a rising stock market.

At times the market faltered and lost its stride over the implications of the industry-crippling rail strike and of the details as to how the administration believes the nation's taxes should be boosted by $10,000,000,000.

The volume of trading amounted to 2,680,000 shares, against 3,030,000 at the last full session Friday.

Gains for individual issues ranged from a few cents to around $1 a share, with a few produced more spectacular advances. Loses ran to around $1.

Some auto shares — such as General Motors, up ⅞ at 51⅝, and Packard, up ¼ at 5⅝—did well despite the recommendation that excises on cars be increased from seven to 20 per cent.

Some excellent bits of corporate news proved a boon to individual stocks.

Boeing Airplane closed 3⅛ points higher at 44⅝ following reports the company had developed a small gas turbine engine capable of adding spectacular pulling power to Diesel or reciprocating gas engine trucks. It also was reported the Air Force was figuring on Boeing's B-52 jet bomber in its long range planning.

Illinois Central advanced 4¾ at 70¾ on the strength of a fine 1950 earnings report.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, American Woolen, American Tobacco, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.), Paramount Pictures and Johns Manville.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP HIM READ FALSE-CARDING when you are on the defense is a dangerous procedure. It hazards the misleading of your partner, hence the disruption of the entire plan to head off the declarer, which so often depends on the clear exchange of information between the two who are sniping at him. But situations arrive in which a defender should false-card. They are mainly of two kinds. One is that in which the declarer is in a better position to use whatever facts your play discloses. The other is a lineup presenting a poor card-reader as your partner and a fine one as your foe. Then you should avoid helping the declarer to read the situation.

South let the heart J win when East played it on the lead of the 4. The A took the Q return and the club 9 was finessed to the Q. West's heart 10 knocked out the K and the spade K was used as a dummy re-entry to lead a second club. When East played low, South came right in with the A to drop the K. That gave him his contract with three tricks in clubs and two in each other suit.

If South had finessed on the second round of clubs, he would have had no way to develop nine tricks, since the then singleton K would have won. West wondered how he decided to play for the drop instead of the finesse. His explanation was simple.

"Since you had led a fourth-best from a four-card suit, I reckoned the chances were you considered you had a re-entry," said South. "The only card higher than a queen against me was the king of clubs. So I felt you had it and my only chance was to drop it on the second round, especially since the ten was clearly marked as still in East's hand."

Then East chimed in with, "If you had played the king the first time, he could not have followed that logic on his second club trick, but might have finessed." To which South responded, "I guess I would have."

Mother And Son Badly Hurt In Train-Car Crash

8-Year-Old Boy Pinned In Wreck

A fast freight crushed an automobile stalled on a Meyersdale, Pa., grade crossing yesterday afternoon, critically injuring 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer and badly injuring his mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, of Meyersdale.

Rescuers worked with hydraulic jacks and steel bars for 45 minutes before they could raise a box car, reach Johnnie and rush him to the hospital.

Woman Tossed Aside

Mrs. Schnelzer was tossed aside when the westbound B. and O. freight smashed into the automobile while she stood on the outside frantically trying to get her son out of the back seat.

Mrs. Schnelzer and Johnnie had just left their home on North Street on their way to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Alfred Wilmoth, in Somerset, Pa.

They had started to cross the double-track crossing only a mile from home when the car stalled. Mrs. Schnelzer leaped from the machine and was trying to get Johnnie out of the back seat when the freight hit the automobile.

Carried some 50 feet down the track, the machine smashed into a standing box car on a siding, and was twisted and mangled between the moving and standing box cars.

Mrs. Schnelzer was taken to Hazel McGilvery Hospital in Meyersdale where she was found to be suffering from a crushed left chest. Her condition is fair.

Rescuers Free Boy

Rescuers, meanwhile, had gotten to work at once to get Johnnie out of the wreckage. Salt loaded in the standing box car was moved to one side to ease the weight on the crushed automobile. Hydrualic jacks and steel bars finally did the job and the workers were able to free Johnnie from the wreckage.

He still wore his cowboy belt and holster, but his toy pistol was broken to bits.

Rescuers Free Injured Boy

Rescuers worked for 45 minutes to reach 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer from beneath a box car after the boy was trapped and badly injured after his mother's stalled automobile was hit by a fast freight train and crushed and twisted against a standing box car in Meyersdale, Pa., yesterday afternoon. The boy's mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, who jumped from the auto and attempted to rescue Johnnie from the back seat, was also critically hurt. A doctor (in white shirt) helps lift the injured youth from the wreckage.

City Will Ask New Bids On Garbage Hauling

Dougherty Declines To Renew Option

Emmett A. Dougherty, garbage colector for the City of Cumberland, last night notified the Mayor and Council he did not wish to renew his contract for garbage and paper collection.

His contract, which provided $62,445 for the work during the past year, will expire April 30.

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, with approval of the Mayor and Council, asked that the city attorney be instructed to ask for bids for the work, including paper collections, during year beginning May 1, 1951.

Dougherty said he was not renewing his option for the third year due to the increasing costs of labor, tires, gasoline, tires, repairs and the like.

The Army, he said, has called many of his best workers for physical examinations and possible induction. It is not easy, he pointed out, to secure labor due to hours and working conditions.

He pointed out that garbage collection problems here have been increasing since 1941, due both to rising costs and difficulty of securing adequate labor supplies.

City Requests Marshall's Aid

Secretary of Defense Marshall will be asked to use his influence in having a proposed Army Quartermaster research laboratory located in this city.

The Mayor and Council, in a telegram dispatched to the defense chief, said it understands the city is to be considered as a site for the defense project.

Cumberland, the telegram said, has much to offer a facility of this kind since many persons are available here with technical and laboratory skills.

The government, it added, has designated this area as a "distress" or "E" area. The upswing in employment in the nation in general has had little effect here.

With the program of allocating materials, many workers engaged in peace-time production here may become unemployed, thus aggravating an already serious situation, city officials said.

Myers Post Receives New Liquor Permit

Joyotis G. Smith, Charles E. Trimble and Ernest Williams for Fulton Myers Post No. 153, 104 North Mechanic Street, received a beer, wine and liquor permit yesterday from the Allegany County Liquor Control Board.

The post surrended a similar licenses for other offices and premises at 68 North Mechanic Street.

Two Men Named To City Labor Mediation Group

Naughton, Webster Are Appointed

The Mayor and Council last night reactivated the Labor-aMnagement-Citizens Committee of Cumberland and named two members to fill the ranks of the group formed here last year to foster better labor-management relations.

The appointments, approved unanimously by the Mayor and Council were:

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, to replace R. A. J. Morrison, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, who was transferred from here.

Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany High School, to succeed the late Associate Judge William A. Huster, who served as chairman of the committee.

Naughton will fill a vacancy in the Management representatives and Webster on the Citizens panel.

The Mayor and Council has asked the committee to meet in the near future to elect a chairman so its organization will be ready to go into action whenever needed.

Other members of the committee are:

Labor—Jack F. Moore, secretary; George W. Lucas, John L. Estes, Edwin C. Hoffman, Homer Berry and James H. Manning.

Management — Maurice Milberg, G. William Bibby, Robert Little Ebert, Edgar D. Vandergrift and Charles A. Piper.

Lenten Program Begins Tomorrow

Mid-week lenten services will begin tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Mechanic Street. Each Wednesday throughout the season of lent appropriate services including motion pictures on the life of St. Paul will be shown.

Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, pastor of the church announces the following schedule:

The Red Cross plans to train instructors to teach 700,000 persons home nursing throughout the nation, an effort to have at least one trained person in each home in case of national or local emergencies.

Allegany County Chapter is expected to train a comparable total of this amount, Mrs. Witherup explained, and the present course is planned to train instructors for the undertaking. Home economic teachers and graduate nurses are among those being instructed.

Infirmary Case Still Unsettled After Hearing

Board Meets Behind Closed Doors There

No decision was reached by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday afternoon following a lengthy closed-door hearing at the County Infirmary concerning the abrupt discharge of seven employes, William H. Lemmert, board chairman, said last night.

Besides the three commissioners, those who attended the hearing, which lasted about an hour-and-a-half, were Earl Grim, County Infirmary superintendent, who discharged the seven workers last Wednesday; Dr. Arthur Jones, county physician; Mrs. Ella Beamer Smith, head nurse at the infirmary; Gorman Getty, the board's attorney, and James G. Stevenson, board clerk.

Ryan Represents Workers

Attorney Edward J. Ryan, retained by the seven fired workers to represent them, said last night that nothing specific was brought out at the hearing in the way of charges against the employes.

"Superintendent Grim apparently acted on the recommendation of Mrs. Smith, the head nurse, in discharging the seven employes," Ryan asserted. "Her views seemed to be based on gossip and hearsay and no definite facts," the attorney added. "Mrs. Smith contended that the discharged employes lacked cooperation and respect for her," he said.

Four of the seven persons no longer employed at the County Infirmary testified at the hearing, Lemmert and Ryan both reported. Ryan said that illness prevented the other three from attending.

Registered Nurse Included

Those who lost their jobs included one man, an orderly, and six women, one a registered nurse and five practical nurses. Among those fired was one woman who had been out because of illness since before the first of the year when Grim took his post as superintendent and another who had been away from the Infirmary most of January because of illness.

Each of the seven received an identical letter, they said yesterday. It read:

"You have been warned in the past that your services were not satisfactory.

"It now becomes necessary for me to inform you that your name has been removed from the payroll of Allegany County Infirmary."

Notices Not Given

Ryan contended that the discharged workers should have been given at least two weeks notice of their dismissals and definite reasons for the action. They were discharged immediately upon receipt of the letters from Grim last Wednesday, they said.

Lemmert indicated last night that any further action on the matter would be taken by the commissioners at one of their regular meetings, held each Tuesday and Friday morning.

Inductees May Finish School Before Leaving

High School Seniors May Choose Service

High school seniors who will be ordered by Selective Service Boards to take preliminary physicals prior to induction into the armed services now will be permitted to complete their education, P. Emmett Fahey, local director, announced yesterday.

The program set up for high school inductees is similar to that already in progress for college students, Fahey said, and will allow these students to complete their senior year at school before joining the armed services.

In addition, Fahey added, the students will be permitted to join any branch of the service of their own choosing instead of being taken into the army as befalls all other inductees.

Present selective service plans call for all 18-year-old youths to register and be eligible for induction at age 19, Fahey said. A student may now complete his high school education or go to school until age 20, whichever is earliest, before being inducted.

Many of the students in the three local high schools will be affected by this order, Fahey noted, but although they will have to take pre-induction examinations they will not be called until schooling is completed.

The order will include all students called for service between now and June, Fahey related.

It was amended by Senator Kimble to designate the tax collector for Tax District 1 as the distributing official.

Celanese Layoff May Result From Railroad Strike

Rail Traffic Tie-Up Causes Production Cut

Effects of the switchman's strike across the nation are being felt locally at the Celanese Corporation. Furlough notices are being posted throughout the plant but officials are not yet in a position to reveal the number of employees who will be laid off until a few days.

When contacted last night Plant Manager Harrison C. Givens Jr. said that "a further substantial cut in production has been made at the Amcelle plant due to shortage of raw materials. The present shortage has resulted from the inability of the railroads to make delivery of the materials now in transit from suppliers.

"The unauthorized strike of the switchmen at the various switching centers has blocked movement of incoming materials to such an extent the production can no longer be maintained at the previous level.

Givens continued to say that "the current curtailment will reduce production to about two-thirds of normal capacity. Production will be resumed as rapidly as materials are received following the termination of the strike.

"The reduction in production at the Amcelle has now reached a point which will require furloughs in many departments. Further cuts in production may be necessary if the switchmen's strike is not terminated in the next 24 hours.

The heating problem at the play center has also been simplified through the installation of a Celotex ceiling.

Milk Program Improvements Cost $96,000

Tri-State Area Praised For Work

The extensive improvement program and excellent cooperation between milk producers and plants was praised yesterday at the third annual conference of Milk Plant Managers and Plant Foremen at Union Street building under jurisdiction of state department of health.

Fifty-three persons attended the meeting, including 18 plant managers, eight health department officials, and 14 plant foremen, J. B. Dowling, department sanitary officer, said last night.

The group represented 16 milk plants and 918 producers in the tri-state area with a production capacity of 13,000 gallons of milk a day, Dowling stated.

Dowling outlined the current milk situation in Cumberland and vicinity and described improvements which are being made in the 75-mile area to aid in producing better Grade A milk.

Plants in Cumberland alone have completed $96,000 worth of improvements in the past year, Dowling said, with an anticipated $13,000 more to be added in the near future. An additional $76,000 has been spent by farmers and other milk producers in farm improvements such as new dairy barns, milk houses, newer equipment and others, Dowling said, to increase the productivity of the tri-state milk shed. Altogether the program here is operating at a daily cost of $6,000, Dowling added.

Yesterday's program included movies from the U. S. Department of Health, "Sanitary Milk Production," and talks by visiting officials. Dr. H. S. Johnson, chief of Dairy Products Laboratory, Pittsburgh, Pa., spoke on the importance of milk testing; W. E. Botwright, Rohm and Hass Company, Philadelphia, Pa., official told of experiences in use of Detergent-Sanitizers on Dairy Farms and plants; W. S. Anderson, director of Bureau of Milk Control of Commonwealth of Pennsylvania gave a general discussion of farm and plant inspection and praised the cooperation of the workers in the area; and H. M. Ewell, of Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, used "Salt of the Earth" as his subject.

Delegation Will Receive City Sponsored Bills

Home Rule Plans To Be Submitted

City sponsored legislation for constitutional and statutory home rule and authority to issue revenue bonds for parking and sewage disposal will be presented to the Allegany County Delegation in Annapolis today.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, will present the proposed legislation at a conference with the delegation at 3 p. m.

The constitutional home rule measure requiring an amendment to the constitution, provides that the issue be submitted to voters of the state for adoption or rejection.

Sets Up Charter Board

It provides that on demand of the Mayor and Council or by petition, the Board of Allegany County Election Supervisors will provide for the election of a charter board of 11 members. Voters could vote for or against the creation of a charter board and for members of the board.

The board must, within six months, prepare a proposed charter and present it to the Mayor and Council.

The charter must be submitted to voters at the next general or congressional election and, if passed by a majority, would be subject only to the general laws of Maryland.

Voters Gain Power

The charter would provide for an elected legislative body with such Mayor and Council vested with powers to enact local laws, subject to powers granted in the charter.

The act would thus abolish powers of the legislature to pass laws of a purely local nature, with such rights being vested in the voters of Cumberland.

Amendments to the new charter would be proposed by the Mayor and Council or by petition and submitted to voters at the next scheduled election, before becoming part of the charter.

Under the statutory home rule plan, a similar procedure would be followed, except that the home rule power would be granted by the Legislature, rather than by referendum.

The delegation has indicated general preference for the constitutional amendment plan.

Sewage Disposal Law

The third bill would empower the Mayor and Council to borrow $1,500,000 from the State of Maryland and issue revenue coupon bonds known as the "Cumberland Disposal and Sewage Treatment Bonds of 1951."

It also would give the city authority to construct a sewage disposal plant and repay the bonds and interest through service charges to users.

The parking lot bill would empower the city to acquire real estate, by purchase or lease, and erect upon it improvements necessary to establish a municipal parking lot or garage.

The legislation would empower the city to issue revenue bonds to finance the project, with principal and interest paid through proceeds of the parking facilities. Such bonds would not be a general obligation of the city, but payable solely from operation of the parking facilities.

Social Security Law Requires All Wages Be Taxed

Age No Limit Under Amendments To Act

Under present amendments to the Social Security Act employers must withhold taxes and report wages of all employes no matter what their ages, James S. Getty, manager of the Cumberland field office, reported yesterday.

In an effort to clear up certain inquiries and misunderstanding the law Getty pointed out that the original act provided that employers did not have to continue to report workers after they reached age 65. Now, however, the law has been amended and employers are required to report all employees regardless of age.

A 1950 amendment to the Social Security Act also provides benefits for workers over age 75, even though they continue work. This caused confusion, Getty said, as to whether wages should be reported and taxes withheld for these workers. The same rule applies to these 75-year-old workers as to those 65.

Getty stressed the importance of reporting all wages correctly regardless of the worker's age to prevent any possibility of tax liabilities or wage investigations at some later date.

Weather

After the severe cold snap of the last few days Cumberlanders welcomed the warmer temperatures prevalent yesterday. Constitution Park weather station reports that high for the 24 hour period was 38 and the low was 20. It was 32 late last night. The weatherman promises some cloudiness but moderate temperatures today.

Mother And Son Badly Hurt In Train-Car Crash

8-Year-Old Boy Pinned In Wreck

A fast freight crushed an automobile stalled on a Meyersdale, Pa., grade crossing yesterday afternoon, critically injuring 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer and badly injuring his mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, of Meyersdale.

Rescuers worked with hydraulic jacks and steel bars for 45 minutes before they could raise a box car, reach Johnnie and rush him to the hospital.

Woman Tossed Aside

Mrs. Schnelzer was tossed aside when the westbound B. and O. freight smashed into the automobile while she stood on the outside frantically trying to get her son out of the back seat.

Mrs. Schnelzer and Johnnie had just left their home on North Street on their way to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Alfred Wilmoth, in Somerset, Pa.

They had started to cross the double-track crossing only a mile from home when the car stalled. Mrs. Schnelzer leaped from the machine and was trying to get Johnnie out of the back seat when the freight hit the automobile.

Carried some 50 feet down the track, the machine smashed into a standing box car on a siding, and was twisted and mangled between the moving and standing box cars.

Mrs. Schnelzer was taken to Hazel McGilvery Hospital in Meyersdale where she was found to be suffering from a crushed left chest. Her condition is fair.

Rescuers Free Boy

Rescuers, meanwhile, had gotten to work at once to get Johnnie out of the wreckage. Salt loaded in the standing box car was moved to one side to ease the weight on the crushed automobile. Hydrualic jacks and steel bars finally did the job and the workers were able to free Johnnie from the wreckage.

He still wore his cowboy belt and holster, but his toy pistol was broken to bits.

Rescuers Free Injured Boy

Rescuers worked for 45 minutes to reach 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer from beneath a box car after the boy was trapped and badly injured after his mother's stalled automobile was hit by a fast freight train and crushed and twisted against a standing box car in Meyersdale, Pa., yesterday afternoon. The boy's mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, who jumped from the auto and attempted to rescue Johnnie from the back seat, was also critically hurt. A doctor (in white shirt) helps lift the injured youth from the wreckage.

City Will Ask New Bids On Garbage Hauling

Dougherty Declines To Renew Option

Emmett A. Dougherty, garbage colector for the City of Cumberland, last night notified the Mayor and Council he did not wish to renew his contract for garbage and paper collection.

His contract, which provided $62,445 for the work during the past year, will expire April 30.

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, with approval of the Mayor and Council, asked that the city attorney be instructed to ask for bids for the work, including paper collections, during year beginning May 1, 1951.

Dougherty said he was not renewing his option for the third year due to the increasing costs of labor, tires, gasoline, tires, repairs and the like.

The Army, he said, has called many of his best workers for physical examinations and possible induction. It is not easy, he pointed out, to secure labor due to hours and working conditions.

He pointed out that garbage collection problems here have been increasing since 1941, due both to rising costs and difficulty of securing adequate labor supplies.

City Requests Marshall's Aid

Secretary of Defense Marshall will be asked to use his influence in having a proposed Army Quartermaster research laboratory located in this city.

The Mayor and Council, in a telegram dispatched to the defense chief, said it understands the city is to be considered as a site for the defense project.

Cumberland, the telegram said, has much to offer a facility of this kind since many persons are available here with technical and laboratory skills.

The government, it added, has designated this area as a "distress" or "E" area. The upswing in employment in the nation in general has had little effect here.

With the program of allocating materials, many workers engaged in peace-time production here may become unemployed, thus aggravating an already serious situation, city officials said.

Infirmary Case Still Unsettled After Hearing

Board Meets Behind Closed Doors There

No decision was reached by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday afternoon following a lengthy closed-door hearing at the County Infirmary concerning the abrupt discharge of seven employes, William H. Lemmert, board chairman, said last night.

Besides the three commissioners, those who attended the hearing, which lasted about an hour-and-a-half, were Earl Grim, County Infirmary superintendent, who discharged the seven workers last Wednesday; Dr. Arthur Jones, county physician; Mrs. Ella Beamer Smith, head nurse at the infirmary; Gorman Getty, the board's attorney, and James G. Stevenson, board clerk.

Ryan Represents Workers

Attorney Edward J. Ryan, retained by the seven fired workers to represent them, said last night that nothing specific was brought out at the hearing in the way of charges against the employes.

"Superintendent Grim apparently acted on the recommendation of Mrs. Smith, the head nurse, in discharging the seven employes," Ryan asserted. "Her views seemed to be based on gossip and hearsay and no definite facts," the attorney added. "Mrs. Smith contended that the discharged employes lacked cooperation and respect for her," he said.

Four of the seven persons no longer employed at the County Informary testified at the hearing, Lemmert and Ryan both reported. Ryan said that illness prevented the other three from attending.

Registered Nurse Included

Those who lost their jobs included one man, an orderly, and six women, one a registered nurse and five practical nurses. Among those fired was one woman who had been out because of illness since before the first of the year when Grim took his post as superintendent and another who had been away from the Infirmary most of January because of illness.

Each of the seven received an identical letter, they said yesterday. It read:

"You have been warned in the past that your services were not satisfactory.

"It now becomes necessary for me to inform you that your name has been removed from the payroll of Allegany County Infirmary."

Notices Not Given

Ryan contended that the discharged workers should have been given at least two weeks notice of their dismissals and definite reasons for the action. They were discharged immediately upon receipt of the letters from Grim last Wednesday, they said.

Lemmert indicated last night that any further action on the matter would be taken by the commissioners at one of their regular meetings, held each Tuesday and Friday morning.

Inductees May Finish School Before Leaving

High School Seniors May Choose Service

High school seniors who will be ordered by Selective Service Boards to take preliminary physicals prior to induction into the armed services now will be permitted to complete their education, P. Emmett Fahey, local director, announced yesterday.

The program set up for high school inductees is similar to that already in progress for college students, Fahey said, and will allow these students to complete their senior year at school before joining the armed services.

In addition, Fahey added, the students will be permitted to join any branch of the service of their own choosing instead of being taken into the army as befalls all other inductees.

Present selective service plans call for all 18-year-old youths to register and be eligible for induction at age 19, Fahey said. A student may now complete his high school education or go to school until age 20, whichever is earliest, before being inducted.

Many of the students in the three local high schools will be affected by this order, Fahey noted, but although they will have to take pre-induction examinations they will not be called until schooling is completed.

The order will include all students called for service between now and June, Fahey related.

Rec Department Will Show Movies

Two movies will be shown today at 3:45 p. m. in City Hall Auditorium under the auspices of the City Department of Recreation.

They are "Infield Play at First and Third" and "Double Play Kings of Baseball."

It was amended by Senator Kimble to designate the tax collector for Tax District 1 as the distributing official.

Celanese Layoff May Result From Railroad Strike

Rail Traffic Tie-Up Causes Production Cut

Effects of the switchman's strike across the nation are being felt locally at the Celanese Corporation. Furlough notices are being posted throughout the plant but officials are not yet in a position to reveal the number of employees who will be laid off until a few days.

When contacted last night Plant Manager Harrison C. Givens Jr. said that "a further substantial cut in production has been made at the Amcelle plant due to shortage of raw materials. The present shortage has resulted from the inability of the railroads to make delivery of the materials now in transit from suppliers.

"The unauthorized strike of the switchmen at the various switching centers has blocked movement of incoming materials to such an extent the production can no longer be maintained at the previous level.

Givens continued to say that "the current curtailment will reduce production to about two-thirds of normal capacity. Production will be resumed as rapidly as materials are received following the termination of the strike.

"The reduction in production at the Amcelle has now reached a point which will require furloughs in many departments. Further cuts in production may be necessary if the switchmen's strike is not terminated in the next 24 hours.

Milk Program Improvements Cost $96,000

Tri-State Area Praised For Work

The extensive improvement program and excellent cooperation between milk producers and plants was praised yesterday at the third annual conference of Milk Plant Managers and Plant Foremen at Union Street building under jurisdiction of state department of health.

Fifty-three persons attended the meeting, including 18 plant managers, eight health department officials, and 14 plant foremen, J. B. Dowling, department sanitary officer, said last night.

The group represented 16 milk plants and 918 producers in the tri-state area with a production capacity of 13,000 gallons of milk a day, Dowling stated.

Dowling outlined the current milk situation in Cumberland and vicinity and described improvements which are being made in the 75-mile area to aid in producing better Grade A milk.

Plants in Cumberland alone have completed $96,000 worth of improvements in the past year, Dowling said, with an anticipated $13,000 more to be added in the near future. An additional $76,000 has been spent by farmers and other milk producers in farm improvements such as new dairy barns, milk houses, newer equipment and others, Dowling said, to increase the productivity of the tri-state milk shed. Altogether the program here is operating at a daily cost of $6,000, Dowling added.

Yesterday's program included movies from the U. S. Department of Health, "Sanitary Milk Production," and talks by visiting officials. Dr. H. S. Johnson, chief of Dairy Products Laboratory, Pittsburgh, Pa., spoke on the importance of milk testing; W. E. Botwright, Rohm and Hass Company, Philadelphia, Pa., official told of experiences in use of Detergent-Sanitizers on Dairy Farms and plants; W. S. Delegation Will Receive City Sponsored Bills

Home Rule Plans To Be Submitted

City sponsored legislation for constitutional and statutory home rule and authority to issue revenue bonds for parking and sewage disposal will be presented to the Allegany County Delegation in Annapolis today.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, will present the proposed legislation at a conference with the delegation at 3 p. m.

The constitutional home rule measure requiring an amendment to the constitution, provides that the issue be submitted to voters of the state for adoption or rejection.

Sets Up Charter Board

It provides that on demand of the Mayor and Council or by petition, the Board of Allegany County Election Supervisors will provide for the election of a charter board of 11 members. Voters could vote for or against the creation of a charter board and for members of the board.

The board must, within six months, prepare a proposed charter and present it to the Mayor and Council.

The charter must be submitted to voters at the next general or congressional election and, if passed by a majority, would be subject only to the general laws of Maryland.

Voters Gain Power

The charter would provide for an elected legislative body with such Mayor and Council vested with powers to enact local laws, subject to powers granted in the charter.

The act would thus abolish powers of the legislature to pass laws of a purely local nature, with such rights being vested in the voters of Cumberland.

Amendments to the new charter would be proposed by the Mayor and Council or by petition and submitted to voters at the next scheduled election, before becoming part of the charter.

Under the statutory home rule plan, a similar procedure would be followed, except that the home rule power would be granted by the Legislature, rather than by referendum.

The delegation has indicated general preference for the constitutional amendment plan.

Sewage Disposal Law

The third bill would empower the Mayor and Council to borrow $1,500,000 from the State of Maryland and issue revenue coupon bonds known as the "Cumberland Disposal and Sewage Treatment Bonds of 1951."

It also would give the city authority to construct a sewage disposal plant and repay the bonds and interest through service charges to users.

The parking lot bill would empower the city to acquire real estate, by purchase or lease, and erect upon it improvements necessary to establish a municipal parking lot or garage.

The legislation would empower the city to issue revenue bonds to finance the project, with principal and interest paid through proceeds of the parking facilities. Such bonds would not be a general obligation of the city, but payable solely from operation of the parking facilities.

Social Security Law Requires All Wages Be Taxed

Age No Limit Under Amendments To Act

Under present amendments to the Social Security Act employers must withhold taxes and report wages of all employes no matter what their ages, James S. Getty, manager of the Cumberland field office, reported yesterday.

In an effort to clear up certain inquiries and misunderstanding to the law Getty pointed out that the original act provided that employers did not have to continue to report workers after they reached age 65. Now, however, the law has been amended and employers are required to report all employees regardless of age.

A 1950 amendment to the Social Security Act also provides benefits for workers over age 75, even though they continue work. This caused confusion, Getty said, as to whether wages should be reported and taxes withheld for these workers. The same rule applies to these 75-year-old workers as to those 65.

Getty stressed the importance of reporting all wages correctly regardless of the worker's age to prevent any possibility of tax liabilities or wage investigations at some later date.

Weather

After the severe cold snap of the last few days Cumberlanders welcomed the warmer temperatures prevalent yesterday. Constitution Park weather station reports that high for the 24 hour period was 38 and the low was 20. It was 32 late last night. The weatherman promises some cloudiness but moderate temperatures today.

Mother And Son Badly Hurt In Train-Car Crash

8-Year-Old Boy Pinned In Wreck

A fast freight crushed an automobile stalled on a Meyersdale, Pa., grade crossing yesterday afternoon, critically injuring 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer and badly injuring his mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, of Meyersdale.

Rescuers worked with hydraulic jacks and steel bars for 45 minutes before they could raise a box car, reach Johnnie and rush him to the hospital.

Woman Tossed Aside

Mrs. Schnelzer was tossed aside when the westbound B. and O. freight smashed into the automobile while she stood on the outside frantically trying to get her son out of the back seat.

Mrs. Schnelzer and Johnnie had just left their home on North Street on their way to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Alfred Wilmoth, in Somerset, Pa.

They had started to cross the double-track crossing only a mile from home when the car stalled. Mrs. Schnelzer leaped from the machine and was trying to get Johnnie out of the back seat when the freight hit the automobile.

Carried some 50 feet down the track, the machine smashed into a standing box car on a siding, and was twisted and mangled between the moving and standing box cars.

Mrs. Schnelzer was taken to Hazel McGilvery Hospital in Meyersdale where she was found to be suffering from a crushed left chest. Her condition is fair.

Rescuers Free Boy

Rescuers, meanwhile, had gotten to work at once to get Johnnie out of the wreckage. Salt loaded in the standing box car was moved to one side to ease the weight on the crushed automobile. Hydraulic jacks and steel bars finally did the job and the workers were able to free Johnnie from the wreckage.

He still wore his cowboy belt and holster, but his toy pistol was broken to bits.

Rescuers Free Injured Boy

Rescuers worked for 45 minutes to reach 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer from beneath a box car after the boy was trapped and badly injured after his mother's stalled automobile was hit by a fast freight train and crushed and twisted against a standing box car in Meyersdale, Pa., yesterday afternoon. The boy's mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, who jumped from the auto and attempted to rescue Johnnie from the back seat, was also critically hurt. A doctor (in white shirt) helps lift the injured youth from the wreckage.

Allegany County Chapter is expected to train a comparable total of this amount, Mrs. Witherup explained, and the present course is planned to train instructors for the undertaking. Home economic teachers and graduate nurses are among those being instructed.

An additional $76,000 has been spent by farmers and other milk producers in farm improvements such as new dairy barns, milk houses, newer equipment and others, Dowling said, to increase the productivity of the tri-state milk shed. Altogether the program here is operating at a daily cost of $6,000, Dowling added.

Yesterday's program included movies from the U. S. Department of Health, "Sanitary Milk Production," and talks by visiting officials. Dr. H. S. Johnson, chief of Dairy Products Laboratory, Pittsburgh, Pa., spoke on the importance of milk testing; W. E. Botwright, Rohm and Hass Company, Philadelphia, Pa., official told of experiences in use of Detergent-Sanitizers on Dairy Farms and plants; W. S. Anderson, director of Bureau of Milk Control of Commonwealth of Pennsylvania gave a general discussion of farm and plant inspection and praised the cooperation of the workers in the area; and H. M. Ewell, of Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, used "Salt of the Earth" as his subject.

City Will Appoint Price Control Group

The Mayor and Council will name a volunteer citizens committee here to assist in stabilizing prices in this city.

The decision to name a volunteer emergency stabilization cooperative committee was made last night at a meeting of the Mayor and Council upon the request of Price Administrator Michael V. DiSalle.

The proposal met the full approval of the Mayor and council, with all backing Commissioner William H. Buchholtz's statement that "we want no black market here."

Equity Case Filed

An equity case filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday was titled Virginia B. Nestor vs. Kenneth C. Nestor.

Delegation Will Receive City Sponsored Bills

Home Rule Plans To Be Submitted

City sponsored legislation for constitutional and statutory home rule and authority to issue revenue bonds for parking and sewage disposal will be presented to the Allegany County Delegation in Annapolis today.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, will present the proposed legislation at a conference with the delegation at 3 p. m.

The constitutional home rule measure requiring an amendment to the constitution, provides that the issue be submitted to voters of the state for adoption or rejection.

Sets Up Charter Board

It provides that on demand of the Mayor and Council or by petition, the Board of Allegany County Election Supervisors will provide for the election of a charter board of 11 members. Voters could vote for or against the creation of a charter board and for members of the board.

The board must, within six months, prepare a proposed charter and present it to the Mayor and Council.

The charter must be submitted to voters at the next general or congressional election and, if passed by a majority, would be subject only to the general laws of Maryland.

Voters Gain Power

The charter would provide for an elected legislative body with such Mayor and Council vested with powers to enact local laws, subject to powers granted in the charter.

The act would thus abolish powers of the legislature to pass laws of a purely local nature, with such rights being vested in the voters of Cumberland.

Amendments to the new charter would be proposed by the Mayor and Council or by petition and submitted to voters at the next scheduled election, before becoming part of the charter.

Under the statutory home rule plan, a similar procedure would be followed, except that the home rule power would be granted by the Legislature, rather than by referendum.

The delegation has indicated general preference for the constitutional amendment plan.

Sewage Disposal Law

The third bill would empower the Mayor and Council to borrow $1,500,000 from the State of Maryland and issue revenue coupon bonds known as the "Cumberland Disposal and Sewage Treatment Bonds of 1951."

It also would give the city authority to construct a sewage disposal plant and repay the bonds and interest through service charges to users.

The parking lot bill would empower the city to acquire real estate, by purchase or lease, and erect upon it improvements necessary to establish a municipal parking lot or garage.

The legislation would empower the city to issue revenue bonds to finance the project, with principal and interest paid through proceeds of the parking facilities. Such bonds would not be a general obligation of the city, but payable solely from operation of the parking facilities.

Social Security Law Requires All Wages Be Taxed

Age No Limit Under Amendments To Act

Under present amendments to the Social Security Act employers must withhold taxes and report wages of all employes no matter what their ages, James S. Getty, manager of the Cumberland field office, reported yesterday.

In an effort to clear up certain inquiries and misunderstanding the law Getty pointed out that the original act provided that employers did not have to continue to report workers after they reached age 65. Now, however, the law has been amended and employers are required to report all employees regardless of age.

A 1950 amendment to the Social Security Act also provides benefits for workers over age 75, even though they continue work. This caused confusion, Getty said, as to whether wages should be reported and taxes withheld for these workers. The same rule applies to these 75-year-old workers as to those 65.

Getty stressed the importance of reporting all wages correctly regardless of the worker's age to prevent any possibility of tax liabilities or wage investigations at some later date.

Weather

After the severe cold snap of the last few days Cumberlanders welcomed the warmer temperatures prevalent yesterday. Constitution Park weather station reports that high for the 24 hour period was 38 and the low was 20. It was 32 late last night. The weatherman promises some cloudiness but moderate temperatures today.

City Will Ask New Bids On Garbage Hauling

Dougherty Declines To Renew Option

Emmett A. Dougherty, garbage colector for the City of Cumberland, last night notified the Mayor and Council he did not wish to renew his contract for garbage and paper collection.

His contract, which provided $62,445 for the work during the past year, will expire April 30.

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, with approval of the Mayor and Council, asked that the city attorney be instructed to ask for bids for the work, including paper collections, during year beginning May 1, 1951.

Dougherty said he was not renewing his option for the third year due to the increasing costs of labor, tires, gasoline, tires, repairs and the like.

The Army, he said, has called many of his best workers for physical examinations and possible induction. It is not easy, he pointed out, to secure labor due to hours and working conditions.

He pointed out that garbage collection problems here have been increasing since 1941, due both to rising costs and difficulty of securing adequate labor supplies.

City Requests Marshall's Aid

Secretary of Defense Marshall will be asked to use his influence in having a proposed Army Quartermaster research laboratory located in this city.

The Mayor and Council, in a telegram dispatched to the defense chief, said it understands the city is to be considered as a site for the defense project.

Cumberland, the telegram said, has much to offer a facility of this kind since many persons are available here with technical and laboratory skills.

The government, it added, has designated this area as a "distress" or "E" area. The upswing in employment in the nation in general has had little effect here.

With the program of allocating materials, many workers engaged in peace-time production here may become unemployed, thus aggravating an already serious situation, city officials said.

Lenten Program Begins Tomorrow

Mid-week lenten services will begin tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Mechanic Street. Each Wednesday throughout the season of lent appropriate services including motion pictures on the life of St. Paul will be shown.

Rev. Raymond A. Faulds, pastor of the church announces the following schedule:

WILSON APPEALS TO SWITCHMEN

Increase Of $10,155,000,000 In Income And Excise Levies Is Asked By Administration

Cautious Approach To "Rugged" Bill Is Favored By Some On Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Snyder outlined the proposed $10,155,000,000 defense tax increase to Congress today, disclosing that in its sweep across the nation's economy it calls for 20 per cent more income taxes from the little fellow.

Heavy increases in corporate income taxes also were proposed. They would be accompanied by greatly increased levies on new automobiles, liquor, beer, cigarets, radios, refrigerators and many other consumer items.

Snyder called the program "rather rugged." He told the House Ways and Means Committee it was only the first step in the administration's plan to get at least $16,500,000,000 more revenue to put the government on a pay-as-we-go basis during the vast rearmament program.

And, the Secretary added, if the Treasury has its way, individual and corporate tax increases will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1951.

Wall Street expressed astonishment at the program. New York businessmen said they had been resigned to tax increases, but that size of the boosts proposed flabbergasted them.

Cautious Approach Favored

A bloc of congressional sentiment favors a cautious approach to the new tax bill, some contending the legislators should wait and size up the budget, then levy a one-package bill. Leaders in both houses indicated they did not expect great speed in getting a bill out despite the administration's request for speed.

Individual income taxpayers would contribute $3,600,000,000 more to the kitty under the plan outlined by the secretary. To collect it, Snyder proposed a boost of four percentage points in each rate — that is, the lowest rate, now 20 per cent, would go up to 24 per cent; the 22 per cent rate to 26, and so on.

As an example, he said a married person with two dependents and a net income of $3,000 now pays $120 federal tax or four per cent of his income. The proposed rates would increase his tax liability to $144 or 4.8 per cent of his income.

Republican members of the committee immediately raised objections to the administration's two-package approach to the revenue problem.

One Big Bill Suggested

Rep. Reed of New York, top ranking Republican on the committee, suggested that Congress first determine whether non-defense expenditures have been cut to the lowest possible level and then wrap up all the tax increases in one big bill.

Individual income tax, $3,600,000,000; Corporate income taxes, $3,080,000,000; Excise taxes, $3,035,000,000.

Increases in capital gains tax: Individuals, $330,000,000; corporations, $110,000,000.

Totals, $10,155,000,000.

The rate on liquor, now $9 per 100-proof gallon, would go up to $12, which would amount to $2.40 a fifth.

India Rejects, Sweden Accepts Committee Spot

U. N. Group To Seek Korean Settlement

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 5 (AP) — Sweden consented tonight to serve on the United Nations Good Offices Committee in the place India refused to take. The committee is seeking a settlement of the Korean conflict.

Sir Benegal N. Rau of India informed U. N. Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam of Iran today he would not serve on the committee. Entezam then offered Sweden the spot, and Sven Grafstroem, Swedish delegate, accepted.

Sweden has an envoy in Peiping, Red Chinese capital. Entezam was reported anxious to have one member of the three-man committee from a government with a channel to Red China.

Word From Pearson Awaited

Entezam was closeted today with Grafstroem; R. G. Riddell of Canada; and U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie. The Assembly president, a member of the committee, still is waiting definite word from Lester B. Pearson, Canadian foreign minister who served with Entezam and Rau on a cease-fire committee in December and January.

Pearson was reported reluctant to serve unless the original three-man group remained intact, but it was said considerable pressure was being put on him by Entezam and other delegates to remain. Final word is not expected from Pearson until the end of the foreign affairs debate in the Canadian Parliament.

Group Set Up By Assembly

Rau was the leader of a group of 12 Asian and Arab nations which sought another peace appeal to Communist China. The proposal was turned down by the Assembly, and New Delhi refused to permit him to serve.

Mexico, Norway and Argentina were being mentioned also as possibilities. The Good Offices Committee was set up last week by the U. N. Assembly to try for a cease-fire and a settlement of the whole problem. If it does not report prospects of success, a committee on collective measures is ready to study sanctions against the Chinese, ranging from mild retrictions to military action.

DiSalle-McGrath Accord Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. (AP) — Chairman Maybank (D-SC) said today Price Director Michael V. DiSalle and Attorney General McGrath will be called before a Senate-House "watchdog" committee Wednesday to settle who shall enfore price controls.

The reported high-level differences stemmed from DiSalle's contention that his agency, like the old OPA of World War II days, should handle the mechanics of enforcement, except criminal prosecutions.

McGrath was described as being insistent that the Justice Department should handle all court cases growing out of price and wage controls. McGrath announced last week he was setting up a special enforcement unit.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston promised a "very quick settlement" of the disagreement.

Steel Mill Town Has Panther Scare

CLAIRTON, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—This bustling steel mill town is enjoying the thrills and chills of a black panther scare.

Police began by scoffing at reports of excited residents who telephoned with news of seeing a black panther. Now police aren't so sure. Chief Peter Orsini and others have seen the animal.

The chief said the beast is about four feet long with a long tail. How the animal reached this industrial center near Pittsburgh remains a mystery.

Married People Get Fewer Headaches, Doctor Reports

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Married people have fewer headaches—the hurting kind in the head—than the single ones.

This is one finding in a survey, reported today, of who gets headaches and why.

Educated people get more headaches than the less educated, it shows. Women have more headaches than men. Young people get them oftener than older persons. Housewives suffer more than salesmen. Farmers get the fewest. Medical students are about the worst off, and lawyers rate high, too.

The headache survey, one of the first thorough studies of its kind, was made by Dr. Henry R. Ogden, clinical assistant professor of medicine at Louisiana State University School of Medicine. He reported it to the American Academy of Allergy at a meeting here.

Czech President Is Reported Under Police Supervision

VIENNA, Austria, Tuesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—A Vienna newspaper said today that Czech President Klement Gottwald (above) is under police supervision. It linked the report with the mysterious disappearance of former Foreign Minister Vlado Clementis from Prague.

A dispatch from Brno, Czechoslovakia, to the Neue Wiener Tageszeitung said the police action against Gottwald assertedly had been taken on Russian orders because of the President's friendship with Clementis.

Clementis was ousted as Czech foreign minister last March on charges of "bourgeois nationalism" and enmity toward the Soviet Union. It was disclosed Saturday that he had disappeared from his Prague home. Speculation in Prague yesterday was that he had fled the country on hearing that his "highly placed protector" was in disfavor with ruling circles.

Republican Rally Speakers Blast Administration

'Dangerous' Policies Assailed By Sen. Taft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Republicans fired a political broadside in a Lincoln Day rally tonight at what they called the Truman administration's "dangerous" foreign policies and "confused" planning at home.

Sen. Taft of Ohio led a parade of GOP speakers assailing "the dangerous world position to which the Truman policies have brought this country."

Top Republicans were allotted one minute each of radio time at a $1 box supper where the party faithful gathered to munch chicken and cheer for GOP chances in 1952.

Taft cited his own reelection victory in Ohio last November as a sign that the American workman is "not interested in appeals to class interest."

GOP "Protects" Workmen

"Today the Republican Party undertakes to protect him against excessive government regulation and taxation," Taft said in a prepared talk.

Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, said Republicans "reject President Truman's claim that he alone has power to say whether American boys shall be drafted and sent into a peacetime international army in Europe."

"We don't want any more Koreas —no more Dunkirks," Wherry declared.

Rep. Devereux (R-Md) said that United Nations troops "had the battle won" in Korea "when someone made Gen. MacArthur delay at the 38th parallel when he had the enemy on the run."

McCarthy Charges "Sellout"

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said that in the November election the American people had "repudiated the greatest fraud in history."

"They turned their backs on the planners who were willing to use the blood of other people's sons to fight Communism abroad in order to disguise their sellout to Communism at home," he declared.

Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson of the Republican National Committee, called on the Republicans to help "do away with fuzzy international thinking—confused domestic planning—and above all, let's put an end to creeping socialistic schemes, disguised as welfare programs."

January Employment 59,010,000, New Record

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Census Bureau reported tonight that 59,010,000 persons were employed in civilian jobs last month, the greatest number ever for the month of January.

The number of employed dropped 1,298,000 from the December level, however. The bureau called that drop normal for the season, pointing to curtailment of outdoor work due to the weather and "the usual" after-Christmas lull in trade.

Big U. N. Tank Force Pounds Red Positions

Droves Of Chinese Killed Near Seoul

TOKYO, Tuesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—The greatest Allied tank thrust of the Korean war jabbed deep into Chinese and Korean Red positions within five miles of Seoul Monday, killed and wounded droves of Reds, then retired safely to Allied lines.

In the west, three swift hunter-killer tank columns slashed through a reported buildup of from 10,000 to 15,000 fresh Communist troops who had moved south from the Han River Sunday night.

The Reds had appeared to be massing for a Chinese lunar new year's counter-offensive today.

Five Miles From Seoul

The main Allied tank punch hit within five air miles of dead and silent Seoul. This was the nearest approach to the fallen South Korean capital since the United Nations forces abandoned it Jan. 4.

On the Central Korea front, a tank-led Allied force spurted forward to gain four miles in four hours in an attack north of Hoengsong. This placed the U. N. team 52 air miles east of Seoul on an interior highway running toward the 38th parallel, some 31 miles to the north.

The central front attacks were aimed at the North Korean Fifth Corps, which has been reported grouping for another offensive.

Holdout Reds Routed

Holdout Red forces on heights north of Suwon were driven into flight. White flags of surrender showed on Hill 431, eight miles northwest of Suwon.

Other Communists were seen fleeing north from bitterly contested ridge positions on Hill 431 after ownership of the ridge changed hands five times in furious action between Turks and Chinese.

The cannon and machine guns of the tanks cut down thousands of Red troops, caught unprepared in rear-assembly areas. Then the tanks pulled back before the Communists knew where to mass and hit, front dispatches said.

Soviet Union Replies To Conference Note

MOSCOW, Feb. 5 (AP)—British, American and French envoys tonight received Russia's latest reply on whether there will be another four-power foreign ministers conference.

The contents of the Russian note were expected to become known shortly.

The reply, it was believed, reemphasizes the Soviet view that German rearmament is the most acute problem in Europe and the Major cause of world tension. Informed sources speculated that the Soviet Union did not close the door to considering other questions at a four-power conference, but insisted the German question be the first issue.

Lend-Lease Talks Set

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Russia, after a week layoff, has notified the State Department today it will be ready to resume talks on a lend lease settlement on Wednesday.

"Work Or Fight" Bill Introduced

Rep. George W. Andrews (D-Ala) displays a copy of a "work or fight" bill he introduced in Congress yesterday. The legislation calls for immediate induction of striking railroad employes who hold occupational draft deferments.

DiSalle Plans Meat Orders To Fight Black Marketeers

TOLEDO, Feb. 5 (AP)—The nation's price chief, Michael V. DiSalle, announced tonight he is about to issue two meat orders that will enable the government "to keep a finger on meat supplies from the slaughterer to the retailer."

He also made his toughest warning against black markets so far, saying "the black marketeer is a first class fifth columnist for Stalin and I would hate to be the first one to get caught."

And he said frankly that the rising cost of living can't be stopped suddenly—"it may take us much of 1951 to put the lid on the inflationary forces generated in the past year."

But he declared that if the Jan. 25 price freeze order had not been issued, "prices today would be much higher than they are now."

Will Regulate Slaughtering

DiSalle's statements were in a speech prepared for delivery in a high school auditorium before his fellow townsmen.

It was his first real speech since he resigned as mayor of Toledo two months ago to become director of price stabilization.

Here's what he said about the two meat orders:

1. "I can announce to you tonight that the Office of Price Stabilization will within a few days issue or order regulating the slaughter of livestock. This is a first important and necessary step toward controlling prices of the nation's meat supply."

Will Assume Adequate Supplies

2. "We will follow up this regulation with another which will keep meat supplies moving through legitimate channels of distribution and enable the housewife to buy adequate meat supplies from her regular butcher or market at local ceiling prices."

Officials said this second order may require meat wholesalers and retailers to make regular reports on their business operations, so that fly-by-night distributors and "dummy" middlemen can be more easily checked to see whether they are selling at above ceiling prices.

Bears Who Tried Winter Sports End Up In Icy Prison

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 5 (AP) — A couple of husky black bears, groggy from hibernating, dabbled in winter sports over the weekend and slid into an 18-foot moat. They've been there since Saturday.

Baffled zoo keepers have tried coaxing and prodding and even let down two ladders, but the 400-pound bruins still remained trapped in their icy prison today. Bear "experts" have suggested everything from tempting them out with honey to floating them out by filling the moat with water.

The bears poked their noses into the warm air Saturday and ventured out of their caves for a little winter fun. But they lost their footing on glare ice and shot over the precipice into the moat.

Red Casualties Since Jan. 25 Over 51,000

[By The Associated Press]

The Eighth Army's estimate of enemy casualties inflicted in the current "limited offensive" that began Jan. 25 soared beyond 51,000 with Monday's toll still incomplete.

From Jan. 25 through Feb. 2, the Army estimate of ground and air-inflicted enemy battle casualties was 34,359, of whom 20,615 were listed as killed.

On Feb. 3, the ground total alone was put at 6,601, and on Feb. 4 at 8,635, plus more than 2,000 attributed to two Allied tank columns in a preliminary estimate for Monday's big thrust.

Baltimore Would Get New Congress District Under Md. Democrats' Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The high echelon of Maryland Democrats tonight recommended placing the state's new congressional district in Baltimore.

Their plan will be presented to Democrats in the General Assembly for approval later this week.

The realignment tentatively reached at a closed conference called by Rep. Sasscer, Fifth District dean of Maryland Democratic congressmen, would leave unmolested the two districts now composed entirely of counties. These are the First on the Eastern Shore and Sixth in Western Maryland.

But it would add to Baltimore's representation by slicing all city wards from the Second District and two-thirds of those now situated in the Fifth District.

What to do with the city's additions was left largely to the two congressmen from districts currently within the city limits, Rep. Fallon of the Fourth and Garmatz of the Third.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature was asked tonight to take cognizance of a growing national concern over sale of narcotics to minors by imposing stiff prison terms on the salesmen.

House Speaker Luber of Baltimore's Fifth District introduced a bill to impose a mandatory prison term of from five to 20 years for supplying a minor with narcotic drugs.

This would be in addition to present penalties for selling drugs to anybody which provide for fines of $1,000 to $3,000 and imprisonment up to five years.

Delegate Cardin (D-Balto. 5th) also introduced a bill relating to teen-agers. His would raise the minimum age of granting automobile driving licenses from 16 to 18 years.

A bill to exempt the inventory stock of business firms from state taxation was put in by Delegates Wilkinson, Democrat, and Lillard, Republican, of Prince Georges County.

Order To Draft Childless Men Awaits Approval

Hershey Favors Lower Standards

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey said today an order now awaiting approval would remove the draft exemption of 220,000 childless married men who are not veterans.

And, he added, he sees no reason "whatever" why physical and mental standards also should not be lowered to tap 150,000 to 250,000 more men, now deferred.

Both these groups would be in the 19 to 26 age group covered by the present draft law.

Still Wants 18-Year-Olds

But Hershey, testifying before the House Armed Services Committee, said these steps still would not meet the nation's defense manpower needs. He stuck to his guns in favor of an administration bill lowering the draft age to 18, and providing universal military service and training.

Some congressmen are reluctant to take 18-year-olds until the draft of the 19-to-26 group is tightened.

Committeemen suggested to Hershey today two additional steps in this tightening process: Drafting of National Guardsmen, and a stricter policy in deferring "essential" industrial and agricultural workers.

Certain Of Approval

Hershey told the committee an order to draft childless married men aged 19 to 26 has been prepared and turned over to defense manpower agencies, where he is virtually certain it will be approved.

The step also requires an executive order by President Truman. Chances for the order would be strong if his manpower chiefs endorse it. No date was indicated.

The order would not apply to married men with more than one dependent. The law itself exempts all war veterans.

Weather Normal Again After Damaging Blow

[By The Associated Press]

The weather returned to normal Monday after dealing the nation the most damaging blows of the winter.

Landslides and a flood threat developed in heavy rains in Northern California. Some of the northern border states had more sub-zero temperatures. But elsewhere the severe cold snap, which caused millions of dollars in damage in the southern states, had ended.

Readings Monday were 10 to 20 degrees higher than Sunday morning in Texas, the Southern Plains and Central Gulf states.

Russia Apparently Ignoring Trygve Lie

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Russia apparently is sticking to her threat to have nothing to do with U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie after he began his extended term Feb. 2.

U. N. officials said communications coming from Russia are now being addressed to the "United Nations Secretariat," instead of to the Secretary-General as previously.

The Russians objected to the extension of Lie's five-year term but were outvoted in the General Assembly.

Anti-Labor Spy Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Six senators today introduced a bill to make labor espionage punishable by a $5,000 fine, two years imprisonment, or both. The penalty would apply both to those making espionage reports and to those receiving them.

Strikers Told Tieup Threat To U. S. Safety

Union Chief Says Many Back On Job

[By The Associated Press]

The federal mobilization director Monday night appealed to striking switchmen to go back to work for "the safety of our conutry."

Charles E. Wilson spoke from the White House, with President Truman's approval.

Shortly before he spoke, President W. P. Kennedy of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen said a survey showed "hundreds of our men throughout the country are responding to my appeal" to return to their jobs.

In Philadelphia, more than 5,000 rail workers were reported to have ended their six-day "sickness" strike with a back-to-work movement. Their was the first big break in the six-day old nationwide work stoppage.

Wilson told the strikers in a radio address their walkout "was not a legitimate means" to better their working conditions.

"I ask you to report for duty—now, tonight, for those who should be working now—and to stay on the job as patriotic Americans."

Strike Spreads To Erie

Despite the Philadelphia back-to-work movement and Kennedy's statement, the strike Monday night spread to another railroad—the Erie.

More than 250,000 industrial workers, in addition to the strikers, have been made idle by the walkout.

The Erie Railroad announced that the "sick strike" was spreading through its system like "ink on a blotter" and cancelled two main line passenger trains.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey announced it was shutting down all commuter service Tuesday morning, as trainmen and conductors joined the switchmen in their strike. Switchmen reported for duty through the day at several cities Monday, but there were new walkouts in Wisconsin.

Talks Deadlocked

Wage-hour talks in Washington were reported hopelessly deadlocked. A railroad "work or fight" bill was introduced in Congress.

Rep. Andrews (D-Ala.) introduced legislation for immediate induction of striking railroad employes who hold occupational draft deferments.

Andrews called the work stoppage "unpatriotic." He said he understands that many railroad men not working now on the grounds they are "sick" have been deferred from the draft because of their jobs.

The strike dealt new blows to industry. With 125,000 automobile workers idle, an industry source predicted car making will be halted if the walkout continues.

Seeking to end the tieup, the National (railway) Mediation Board met separately in Washington with representatives of the unions and the carriers.

Thomas Bickers, board secretary, said that he had "never seen any more stubborn case." No progress was reported.

South Nevadans Await Biggest A-Blast Yet

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 5 (AP) — A little alarmed by a warning to stay away from windows, Southern Nevadans waited anxiously today for the fifth of the government's current atomic tests. They think it will be the "biggest blast" yet.

When it will be no layman knows. But high government officials are in town, and presumably they want to get back to their desks as quickly as possible.

The AEC, after Sunday's warning to avoid windows which might splinter from sound waves set up by the next explosion, had nothing to say when dawn came and went today without the now-familiar flash in the northwest sky and jarring concussion a few minutes later.

Infant's Arrival Creates More Than Usual Uproar

HUNTLEY, Ill., Feb. 5 (AP)—When the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Svatik came into the world today, she created more than the usual uproar.

The score was: One man in the hospital seriously injured; a snow plow, a big milk truck, and two automobiles badly damaged.

When the Svatik birth became imminent this morning, Dr. S. L. Gabby of nearby Elgin, the attending physician, asked state highway police to get a snowplow and clear the country road leading to the Svatik farm home.

The snow plow, a state highway police squad car, and Dr. Gabby in his automobile met at the spot where the country road leaves the state highway. They stopped for a conference.

A big milk truck driven by Emory A. Luebke of Whitewater, Wis., was rolling down the road. Luebke tried to stop but skidded into the snow plow and the police car.

Then along came Alex Jankowski, 36, of Woodstock, in his automobile. He ran into the whole shebang.

Jankowski was taken to an Elgin hospital, seriously injured. Dr. Gabby finally made it to the Svatik home, but the daughter had been born unattended.

VFW Plans Larger Drum-Bugle Corps

Plans are under way to increase the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum and Bugle Corps, Henry Hart Post 1411 officials said last night, with the addition of a fife brigade to the unit.

Additional openings for six buglers and five drummers are now available in the corps, officials said, and six fife players are needed to bring the outfit to full strength.

All veterans over 21 years of age are eligible to join the marching corps.

Organization of street rehearsals and plans for parades will be made at the next weekly meeting of the VFW at the post home, Harrison Street, Monday at 7:30 p. m. A report on the banquet held last week in honor of the drum and bugle corps will also be made at the meeting.

Doubt Cast On Legality Of Md. Pay Hike Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—A wage stabilization spokesman today cast doubt on the legality of a proposed pay increase for Maryland's 11,000 state jobholders.

"There is a contradiction in the regulations which cover the situation," said Garnet L. Patterson, legal consultant to the WSB, "and the answer is uncertain. I have hopes for a clarification this week."

would be subject to a 20 per cent levy.

Radios, television sets and various other electrical household appliances would be taxed 25 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

Vacuum cleaners, electric razors, washing machines, mangles, dishwashers, sewing machines and a number of other appliances would become subject for the first time to a 25 per cent manufacturer's tax.

Canada's Defense Plan

OTTAWA, Feb. 5 (AP) — Defense Minister Brooke Claxton announced tonight a $5,000,000,000 three-year Canadian defense program highlighted by a drive to build up a 40-squadron air force — 11 to be posted to Europe.

The word bureau comes from the French "burel," coarse woolen cloth, because a bureau originally was covered with brown baize.

There are more than 90 cities in the United States with a population larger than that of the state of Nevada.

Continuous Method Of Making Synthesis Gas Is Developed

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 5 (AP)—The United States Bureau of Mines today disclosed development of a new laboratory process for the continuous production of synthesis gas from pulverized coal.

Synthesis gas, carbon monoxide and hydrogen, is used to make synthetic gasoline and other liquid fuels.

H. J. Greenwald, regional director of the bureau, said the new process "offers an easily controlled method for testing gas-making qualities of various materials being studied for producing synthetic liquid fuels."

The process was developed at the bureau's synthesis - gas - production laboratories in Morgantown, W. Va., in cooperation with West Virginia University.

Curtain Falls On Case Of Martinsville Seven

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 5 (AP) — Three men shuffled down death row corridor to the electric chair in the Virginia State Penitentiary today in the final act of the case of the "Martinsville Seven."

In identical fashion to their four companions executed Friday, they paid with their lives for the mass rape two years ago of Mrs. Ruby Stroud Floyd, 32, a white Martinsville, Va., woman.

The executioner required 45 minutes to accomplish what attorneys in dramatic eleventh hour appeals had sought to stop. They made an unsuccessful plea to a U. S. Supreme Court justice Friday for the first four condemned negro men. Another futile bid was made last night.

Officer Surrenders

WESTERN FRONT, Korea, Feb. 5 (AP) — A Chinese lieutenant and a warrant officer surrendered tonight to Puerto Rican infantrymen.

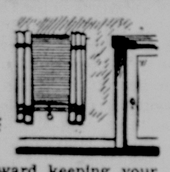
What About Radioactivity in the House?



KEEP ALL WINDOWS AND DOORS CLOSED UNTIL IT IS OFFICIALLY REPORTED THAT THERE IS NO POLLUTION IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD

A FEW simple steps will go a long way toward keeping your house from being contaminated by lingering radioactive wastes scattered about in some bombings. As a rule, it is far easier to prevent radioactive pollution of a household than it is to remove it.

Keep all windows and doors closed for at least several hours after an atomic bombing. In fact, better leave them shut until civil defense authorities pass the word that there is no lingering radioactivity in your neighborhood. Should you get an official report that there is serious contamination in the vicinity, better cover all broken windows with blankets or cardboard.

CLOSE FIREPLACE DAMPERS AND SHUT OFF VENTILATING FANS AND AIR CONDITIONERS

Whenever there is widespread neighborhood pollution, it will be impossible to keep your house absolutely free of it. A little is bound to seep in through cracks or else down the chimney. (By all means close the dampers in fireplace flues and shut off air conditioners and ventilating fans not equipped with special filters).

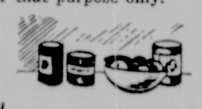
BE CAREFUL NOT TO TRACK RADIOACTIVE MATERIALS INTO THE HOUSE

Unless you are careful, some radioactivity is likely to be tracked in by people or pets. Keep your cat or dog indoors. And when you come in from outside, leave your shoes at the door, for their soles are likely to be covered with radioactive dusts. Better still, wear rubbers, galoshes or other disposable foot coverings over your shoes. Take these precautions, but don't worry. There isn't much chance really dangerous amounts will pile up in the house.

LAUNDER CONTAMINATED OBJECTS IN SPECIAL BUCKETS OR TUBS

Should you help to clean up a contaminated area, you might get some radioactive materials on both your body and clothing. So don't go home and sit around in your work clothes. Take off your outer garments outdoors or in the basement. Then wash, if you can, using warm water and plenty of soap. Never fail to launder your working clothes, but don't use the family washing machine. Scrub all contaminated objects in buckets or tubs used for that purpose only.

What About Food and Water?



WATCH OUT FOR FOOD CONTAMINATION AFTER GROUND OR WATER BURSTS

To prevent harm from accidentally eating or drinking radioactivity, throw out all unpackaged foods that were lying around where dust from ground bursts or mist from underwater bursts might have settled on them. And before opening canned or bottled goods, wash the outside of the containers thoroughly. That will remove most of the pollution that may have gotten on them. Also be sure that all cooking utensils and tableware are scrubbed clean in order to remove any invisible, radioactive dusts. Food and utensils that were in closed drawers or tight cupboards will be all right.

If it was an air burst, don't worry about the food in the house. It will be safe to use.

WATER IN THE PIPES OF YOUR HOUSE AT THE TIME OF EXPLOSION WILL NOT BE RADIOACTIVE

Be careful of drinking water after atomic explosions. There is little or no chance that water actually inside household pipes at the time of attack will be made radioactive. If a little is drawn off right after the burst and placed in clean containers with covers, it should tide you over the immediate post-raid period.

BOIL WATER BEFORE DRINKING UNLESS YOU'VE BEEN OFFICIALLY TOLD IT IS SAFE

But even if the water continues running, don't keep on using tap water for drinking purposes unless you have received official information that the city system is safe. This is not only because of radioactivity, but because of other dangers like typhoid that can come from damaged water systems. If you have to use city water before you get official information, boil it. Boiling won't remove radioactivity, but the chances that your water supply will be radioactive are pretty slim. Boiling will kill most germs that may get into damaged water mains.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS) A RECENT suggestion in these dispatches that it might be comforting for Douglas MacArthur to hear from the people back home, on the occasion of his 71st birthday, caused the General to be swamped with heart-warming mail.

In case you sent him a message, here's MacArthur's answer:

"I would be most grateful if you would convey my heartfelt gratitude to the thousands from all corners of the land who sent me messages of good will and support on my birthday.

"Tell them that my operational duties in the conduct of the war in Korea, the administration of the occupation of Japan and the fulfillment of my responsibilities to other areas within my theater of activity do not permit me the time to answer personally each as I should like to, but that as I read each message I saw reflected in it the great spiritual strength of the American home.

"Not a word expressive of fear, uncertainty or defeatism there, but that quiet determination, resolute will and unconquerable faith which has ever been the guiding impulse to American victory.

"Tell them that they who deprecate the power of American arms under-estimate that mighty reservoir of inspiration which from the home front steadies the eye and steels the arm of the American fighting man on the battle front.

"Tell them that in capable hands such as theirs our country's free destiny is secure and however long and difficult the road with the help of almighty God our immutable concepts of liberty and justice and morality will ultimately prevail. MacArthur."

Gen. Eisenhower's full endorsement of the President's military and relief program for Western Europe lends a trace of credence to the report—unconfirmed—that Mr. Truman has asked the General to head the Democrat ticket in 1952.

If the President did offer to aid any presidential plans of the General, it was his second such gesture. In 1945 Truman left the Potsdam conference tables long enough to review the 84th Division, as a guest of Ike. The General later wrote, in his "Crusade In Europe," that he and the President discussed the future of the American war leaders and the General said he himself hoped to retire and "do what little I could to help our people understand some of the great changes the war had brought to the world." Then Eisenhower continued:

"I shall never forget the President's answer . . . He suddenly turned toward me and said, 'General, there is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically includes the presidency in 1948."

But by 1948 Eisenhower was having difficulty avoiding a Republican Party draft. The following year he made several speeches which political experts, aided by fine-tooth combs, decided were anti-administration. Gov. Dewey then endorsed the General's candidacy, and other Republican leaders swarmed to his unresponsive side.

Eisenhower has never publicly stated whether he is a Republican or Democrat. His speeches since returning from his European tour would indicate, however, that if he is a Republican he does not see eye to eye with, say, Sen. Taft or ex-President Hoover.

Perhaps he has been approached again by the President, a unique honor for any American. If he has been he would now seem to be in line to become the first citizen ever to be endorsed by both major parties.

News item: Alfred Krupp, scion of the 160-year-old German munitions trust, said, upon his release from a war-criminal prison, that Krupp would never again produce arms.

Yep, Krupp finally broke itself of that nagging little 160-year-old habit.

As for Al, he'll never again produce arms until, let's say, he's told to do so by the Allied powers who sprung him for the purpose.

To Quiet Rumors

The White House announces that the Federal Reserve Board has pledged its support to President Truman "to maintain the stability of government securities as long as the emergency lasts." White House Secretary Joseph Short adds an explanation. "This," said he, "is to quiet those rumors."

What rumors? Readers of the financial pages can answer. For weeks there have been reports of differences between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board over a question that has been raised before but has lately been posed in acute form. The swift advance of prices has turned attention to the Treasury's policy of keeping the interest rate on government securities at low levels, which Secretary of the Treasury Snyder intends to continue. The Federal Reserve Board could bring about higher rates and thus, in the opinion of many experts, put a brake on inflation.

There are indications that these clashing opinions exist. Secretary Snyder has made known his position, which is that there is no evidence that "fractional" increases in interest rates have retarded inflationary borrowing—but that even a small rise in the interest paid on the public debt can cost the government upwards of a billion dollars. Thomas C. McCabe, FRB chairman, has not openly challenged this view. Recently, however, he endorsed a statement of 400 economists who called for a rise as a move against inflation.

So the White House announcement indicates that Secretary Snyder has won this latest argument. That may save the government a half billion or thereabouts in interest charges, but it will not necessarily be an economical move If inflation continues, the government can lose not half a billion, a billion, but many billions in higher prices paid for what it buys. Snyder doesn't seem to think so, but if he is mistaken the American people will pay a stiff price for his stubborn insistence on getting his way. And can those 400 economists be wrong?

Still The Deterrent

The series of nuclear detonations near Las Vegas, Nev., point toward an obvious conclusion. Since they were of varying explosive power, American scientists now know how to put up atomic materials in packages to produce different effects. The atomic bomb has been succeeded, apparently, by a number of atomic weapons.

This, in the kind of world Americans must live in whether they like it or not, must be regarded as good news. The fact that American scientists can set off a series of nuclear explosions in a period of days is proof that their efforts to learn more about atomic energy have ben fruitful. It will not restore the sense of relative security Americans had before it was announced that Russia had succeeded in producing an atomic bomb.

Actually, American superiority in the field of Atomic weapons may be the only thing that stands in the way of a direct Russian attack on the free nations. At a recent press conference, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter drew a sharp line between air power that is a deterrent to war and air power that is chiefly valuable in winning a war after it starts.

He said that American long-range aircraft, capable of striking with atomic weapons inside the territory of a potential enemy, is a preventive of war. Planes for the support of ground troops are not.

That was tantamount to an assertion that this country is still relying on its bombers and atomic bombs to deter Russia while is it building up armed strength to match that of the Reds if and when the Kremlin no longer fears America's stock of atomic bombs.

But the U. N. now has other nuclear weapons possessing a scope and flexibility not thought of even a year ago. The Russians must weigh this new situation carefully before they take an irrevocable step.

Winters Are Different

Not much has been heard this winter to the effect that winters are different from what they were 40 or 50 years ago. If winters long ago were colder than the temperatures that have prevailed this winter over a large part of the nation, they were humdingers. Not for years have there been so many news items of the temperature dropping so low that the mercury in thermometers froze. Mercury freezes at 38 degrees below zero.

But if this winter has not been greatly different meteorologically from those of a half century ago, it has been different in many other ways. Weather years ago did not have the impact upon transportation that it now has. Trains stopped running when snow became too deep, and horse transportation was interfered with, but people expected such occurrences every winter and were prepared for them.

There was plenty of food in the cellar and there was no danger of starvation if it became inconvenient to dash to the nearest store. Today, if the average household is cut off from its food suppliers for three days, the cuisine becomes mighty limited.

If electric current was disrupted by a storm in the old days, it made little difference to the average citizen whose house wasn't wired anyway. It didn't shut down his heating system, which was hand fired and probably used wood as fuel, nor interfere with his refrigeration, which was provided by nature.

The greatest inconvenience caused by weather which swept down from the Arctic regions, in the old days, was the nightly freezing of the pump. Buckets of boiling water were required to get it going again in the morning, but this accomplished life resumed its smooth course and worries were less technological than is the case today.

End Of A Shady Deal

No sympathy should be wasted on the two New York detectives who, as the result of a court order, have now lost their $6,000 city pensions. They knew what they were doing and so did former Mayor O'Dwyer, the engineer of the deal.

The whole proceeding was a piece of trickery and the payment of pensions was, as the court declares, an outright "gift of public funds." The two men were first-grade detectives and as such were entitled upon retirement to benefits of $2,587 a year.

But Mayor O'Dwyer first appointed them as his chauffeurs and then, on the eve of his own resignation to become ambassador to Mexico, made them deputy police commissioners. Given this high and unearned rank, both promptly applied for retirement and were awarded pensions of $6,000 a year.

In ruling that the awards are null and void the court not only issues an indirect rebuke to O'Dwyer but strikes a needed blow against the policy of regarding public money as private property.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Take Care Of Child's Teeth

THE STATEMENT is made frequently that serious dental defects later in life could be lessened by administering timely dental treatment of children. This sound logical and it is no wonder that the 75,000 practicing American dentists are willing to give priority to youngsters. In addition, they have gone further by adopting the slogan, "More and better dentistry for children."

Dental decay is one of the most common diseases of civilized man. A study made in several thousand dental offices throughout the country revealed that in the year 1940 the average adult required 4.4 fillings and 2.2 extractions. One out of four needed a bridge, one out of six a partial denture, one out of seven a full upper denture, and one out of 10 a full lower denture. Selective service records from World War II showed that defective dentition was one of the most frequent causes of rejection. If better dental care for boys and girls will offset this state of affairs we are all for it and urge parents to cooperate.

Age is no barrier as studies demonstrate that caries is rife even among two and three-year-olds. It is not wise to wait until the youngster complains or a cavity can be seen with the naked eye. By this time it may be too late to save the structure. Moreover, a family history of good teeth is no guarantee that the children will escape trouble. The truth of the matter is that 90 per cent of them develop dental disorders and the odds are too high to assume that any one child is the exception.

A standard excuse for neglect is that the baby set will fall out anyway. This is idle chatter because the structures are identical with the permanent teeth except for their size and short existence. They are are necessary to the child for chewing purposes as for the adult and in some respects are more essential because proper nutrition is so necessary for growth and for laying the foundation of future well being. In addition, an abscessed tooth may affect the body in the same way as infected tonsils. There is no reason why one is more serious than the other.

Baby teeth are essential to the proper eruption and position of the permanent set. They are nature's space retractors and help the teeth to grow in a straight line. The roots begin to absorb when the permanent incisor, for example, is about to erupt. The timing of this mechanism is miraculous. In the span of years when the old teeth are leaving and the new ones coming there always are some of both sets for grinding and others for cutting. In this way there is no interference with mastication, which means that nutrition can proceed normally.

Neglecting dental difficulties defeats this phenomenon; it is hard to chew on broken down, painful, or abscessed teeth. Many school-age youngsters will not complain unless distress severe but they are restless and fussy and eat and sleep poorly. When asked point blank whether a tooth hurts they will mention an ache here and there. With immediate attention, the tooth can be saved and future trouble is averted. This is reason enough for "more and better dentistry for children."

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses heating and ventilation requirements.

EXERCISE AFTER SURGERY

Mrs. S. writes: I have your leaflet on exercises to reduce the waistline and hips. Can these exercises be used several months after an abdominal operation? Since that time I have put on a lot of weight.

Yes. They can be started as soon as healing has occurred.

STOMACH BUBBLE

It indicates that you are normal. This bubble is with us day and night and usually is largest after eating and smallest after a good burp.

PUFFY TOES

B. W. writes: Could working at a standing job cause the toes to swell? What are other causes?

REPLY

Yes, but when swelling is extensive enough to be noticeable, inflammation of the lymph channels, veins, and joints, as well as skin infections, must be considered. Possibilities include phlebitis, gout, ringworm of the feet, and a "run-around" associated with an ingrown nail.

Pentagon Debates Big Army Vs. Air Armada; Truman Tax Conference Resulted In Sharp Clashes; Jimmie Byrnes Will Fight For His Program

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—An all-important debate is going on inside the Pentagon. On its outcome will depend whether we keep on building up a huge land army; also whether we draft more married men and have a continuing policy of drafting 18-year-olds.

The debate is over the basic military question of whether it takes a big army of foot soldiers or a big air armada to win a war.

Old line army men, led by General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, together with Gen. Lawton Collins, the Army's Chief of Staff, both favor building a huge army, claim that final victory will be decided on the ground.

The Air Force, on the other hand, argues that we can never outnumber the red hordes of Asia and Russia; that our only chance to win is to produce superior weapons and airplanes. Russia, they claim, can never be whipped on the ground. Her manpower reserves are too limitless and the Russian value of life too cheap.

There is a very honest difference of opinion about this, and the men who differ do so not to promote their own type of warfare but with the interest of their country at heart.

The debate has now gone one step beyond the Pentagon to the National Security Council, composed of President Truman, Vice President Barkley, Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson and Security Resources Board Chairman Stuart Symington.

Inside the National Security Council, Symington is leading the fight to put most of our defense eggs in the aviation and tactical weapons basket. He is chiefly opposed by General Marshall, a former infantryman, who argues for a big land army.

So far the President has stuck with Marshall.

However, the outcome of the atomic tests in Nevada may help to settle the question. One of the most important weapons the scientists are reported testing in Nevada is atomic artillery shells which Gen. Collins announced we were developing. If atomic artillery shells are proved practical in the Nevada test, it will make the Red Army's famed artillery old fashioned overnight and will mean that a big land army is not so necessary.

Unrecommended Reading

Two ex-Roosevelt aides, George Allen and Judge Samuel Rosenman, were traveling from New York to Washington and had a literary argument in the diner.

Noticing a man at the next table deep in a book, Judge Rosenman remarked: "Now there is a citizen improving his mind on his way to Washington. What kind of book do you suppose it is?"

"George," continued Rosenman in deep horror, "the country is going to the bowwows. It's that terrible low-brow book of yours, 'Presidents Who Have Known Me.' Here I write a serious, scholarly book about government, and haven't found more than ten people who ever read it. But this terrible thing of yours is every place.

"There are only two pieces of reading matter in the entire dining car," concluded Rosenman, "The menu and your book. Personally I prefer the menu!"

Truman On Taxes

The President's private tax conference with members of the House Ways and Means Committee wasn't nearly as chummy as the press indicated. There were some sharp clashes over government economy, also over Truman's piece-meal tax program—a plan by which Congress would approve $10 billion of new taxes now, then another $6½ billion later.

"I realize that the more we economize the less we will have to tax," Truman announced. "However, I have scrutinized the budget with great care and find that we just can't cut expenditures any more without sacrificing efficiency. We have already cut to the bone, but I am open to suggestions."

"Senator Byrd of Virginia has made some very fine suggestions on how to effect economies in domestic spending," remarked GOP Congressman Noah Mason of Illinois. "We could save a lot of money if they were carried out."

"It's one thing to speak about economy," snapped the President, "but it's quite another to accomplish it without endangering the necessary operations of the government."

"We're talking about wasteful operations that can be cut down or eliminated," interposed GOP Congressman Dan Reed of New York. He pointed out that overstaffing of nondefense agencies was one example.

Reducing Exemptions

Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, another Republican, added: "Mr. President, you have told us how to get the first $10 billion of your tax program, but you haven't told us where the additional $6½ billion is coming from. How can you get that without delving deeper into the pockets of lower-income taxpayers? How can you do it without lowering their personal exemptions from $600 to $500 which you apparently oppose?"

"That's something your committee will have to decide," replied Truman warmly. "I will make some suggestions, but it's your job to write the tax laws."

"Well, if you really meant it when you said that you wanted us to raise $16½ billion, then we must assume that you want us to reduce the exemptions of lower-bracket taxpayers in addition to increasing their regular taxes," persisted the Pennsylvania Congressman.

This is the $64 question that everybody agrees will have to be answered eventually. It was obvious at the White House meeting, however, that neither Truman nor the committee (including its Democratic members) wanted to take responsibility for such a politically unpopular move.

"That's a committee matter," reiterated the President. "I haven't asked for a lowering of personal exemptions."

Governor Jimmie Byrnes

For years the Legislature of South Carolina has quarreled with the Governor of South Carolina. Last month, however, South Carolina's legislators finally met a governor whom they may have to get along with—ex-Secretary of State, ex-Supreme Court Justice, ex-Senator, ex-War Mobilizer Jimmie Byrnes.

Byrnes, who has fought plenty of battles on the Potomac, is determined to push a $75,000,000 school program through the South Carolina Legislature—much of it for Negro schools. He also wants a sales tax to finance the school program, plus a complete reorganization of the state government.

Probably he'll win—due to the fact that 90 per cent of the people love him and the other 10 per cent fear him.

NOTE—Though invited to come to Washington to advise the State Department, Byrnes plans to stick to his knitting in South Carolina.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Mobilizer

WASHINGTON—

IT IS TOO bad that in these troubled times, Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson cannot be regularly exhibited to selected guided tours. During the mornings, perhaps, groups of the more defeatist politicians and government officials might alternate with parties of worried Allies and of the narrower sort of businessmen; while larger troops of ordinary voters could be admitted in the afternoons.

The mere spectacle of this huge, raw-boned, red-faced, ham-fisted man is in itself reassuring. There is something natural and simple and powerful about Wilson that must strike even the sort of politician who normally has eyes only for the main chance. And if Wilson would talk for a bit in his plain unvarnished way about America and what America can do, the doubt and defeatism in which most people clammily wallow nowadays would be suddenly dispelled, like smog shredding away before a gust of good air.

What manner of man Charles Wilson may be is now a vitally important question, since he is, in his own person, the national device for making up for criminally lost time. In the government, the seismic shocks resulting from the Defense Mobilizer's enormous new powers over production, manpower, wages, prices, raw materials, housing and research can already be observed in the miffed expressions of Cabinet members whose new boss he has in fact become. In the country, his effort will probably be little noticed until the man in the street feels the inevitably unpleasant first effects, in the form of shortages, labor dislocations and the like.

"The worst problem I've got," Wilson says himself, "is that we have to take wartime measures in peacetime, when people aren't ready for them."

Due To Un-Awareness

But this national un-awareness is, of course, the penalty for having to make up for lost time. Wilson's task, as he conceives it, is to rebuild the dismantled defenses of the United States and the Western World in the shortest possible interval, thus reducing to a minimum the unavoidable time of danger when a weak Western defense invites Soviet aggression. For a while, because the task of defense has been put off for so long, measures that would normally be taken only in wartime must be adopted in what passes for peace-time. It does not bother Wilson.

"If I thought I could get the job done any faster," he says, "I'd just ask for whatever I needed to do it. In this business, it's the country you've got to think about."

The job he has set for himself is nothing less than a permanent expansion of American productivity of

'Economist' Twits British Government On Tactics

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Many people here have had a good laugh over an article in the London "Economist" twitting the British government on its recent tactics in the UN in connection with the Korean situation. It is in the form of an imaginary dispatch dated about a year hence—January 22, 1952—from a British correspondent at Lake Success. It reads as follows:

"Since the withdrawal of the United Nations forces from Bonn, opinion in the assembly has been veering in favour of the American view that it is necessary to abandon Germany altogether in order to restore peace in Europe. The British delegate, Sir Gladwyn Jebb, has, indeed, continued to press for the condemnation of Russia as an aggressor, arguing that the whole purpose of the United Nations would be stultified if the assembly refused to stigmatize the Russian invasion of West Germany as an aggression. The American delegate, Mr. Warren Austin, however, is urging caution: he maintains that hasty action would not be in the interests of peace and that time is needed to study the latest Russian counter-proposals, which should be given the most careful consideration.

Russia Confident

"The proposal of the United Nations political committee for a cease-fire in Germany, to be followed by a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers, was rejected by Russia, who insisted that Russian basic terms for a settlement must be accepted before the victorious Russian volunteers could be advised to desist from their offensive. The Russian demand is that all foreign troops must be withdrawn from Germany and that the internal affairs of Germany must be settled by the Germans themselves; as all German politicians who have not either escaped across the Rhine or joined the Communists have now been shot, Moscow is confident that Herr Ulbricht will be able to handle the situation without difficulty. The Russians are willing to accept the proposal for a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers on condition that representatives of Italy, Iraq and Mongolia are added to it and that the conference is held in Leningrad.

"The British Army having suffered 50,000 casualties in the fighting in Germany, British public opinion is in a somewhat excitable mood and the government is being sharply criticized by the opposition for the ineffectiveness of its European policy. The Prime Minister has pointed out that the RAF cannot be used for bombing beyond the boundary of the British zone without a decision of the United Nations, but he has promised to do all he can to get the United Nations to declare Russia an aggressor, even though it is generally recognized that no sanctions are likely to be imposed. Opinion in well-informed circles in Washington, however, is that America must be wary of being drawn into an extension of hostilities; it is felt that the British are liable to be headstrong in their reactions to events in Europe and that their old imperial traditions are making them unduly bellicose. The State Department has not yet abandoned its hope of detaching Russia from China, and deprecates any policy which might have the effect of driving Stalin into the arms of Mao.

"Senator Bebop has made an important speech at Cincinnati, in which he warned the American people against allowing American troops to be tied up in Europe when there was such a serious danger of Russo-Chinese attack on Alaska, Japan and the Philippines. He said it was very unfortunate that nobody seemed to be able to exercise any control over General Eisenhower who had evidently underestimated the prospects of Russian intervention when he pursued the East German invaders back across the zonal boundary. Everything should be done to restore peace as quickly as possible, so that there should be no damage to the old friendship between the Russian and American peoples. The Russians, he declared, were a proud people who would no longer be subservient to the mandarins of the forbidden city.

India Still At It

"A deep impression has also been made by an address delivered to the Foreign Policy Association by Mr. John K. Poffenheimer of Adriatic Exports Inc., who told his audience that he had been doing excellent business in trade from Trieste behind the iron curtain and that, if only America would do nothing to interfere with Russian expansion there was no reason why this trade should not go on for a few years longer. He said that communism in Europe could not be stopped by force, and the sooner Britain realised this, the better.

"The Indian Prime Minister has also given a press conference in Mexico opposing the idea of declaring Russia an aggressor. The Russians, he said, had suffered great humiliations in the period before Peter the Great, and naturally it would take them a long time to get over it; they were very sensitive to criticism and, if they were to be branded as aggressors simply because they had committed an act of aggression, it might spoil the chances of peaceful negotiation. The Indian delegation in the assembly has been taking a similar line with the support of the bloc of Asian and Arab countries.

"The latest news from Germany is that the Russians have crossed the Rhine on a broad front and that an armoured spearhead has penetrated into Aachen. The political committee of the assembly has today voted for an adjournment to consider Mr. Vyshinsky's clarification of the Russian terms for a cease-fire. Sir Gladwyn Jebb strongly opposed the adjournment, declaring that the new Russian statement was a transparent attempt to divide the free world and delay the exercise of the pacific functions of the United Nations. Mr. Warren Austin however, urged that delegates must have time to consult their governments about the 'new situation' and said that in the opinion of his government the United Nations 'should not at this stage take a new and important decision.' "

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Salesman Ike

GENERAL Dwight D. Eisenhower is possessed of so charming and convincing a personality that President Truman could have selected no one more able to sell his war program, or who could have done it more effectively.

Furthermore, it takes considerable courage to question General Eisenhower's judgement on a military question in view of his expertness and authority in this particular field. While it is possible to wonder whether the President quite understands the problems of war, it is not possible to have the same doubts about General Eisenhower.

Again, while General George Marshall has been involved in startling errors, proved by time to have been errors of knowledge as well as judgment, General Eisenhower has not become so involved. He has had no part in the Asiatic confusion and bears no responsibility for Teheran or Yalta.

This places him in an extraordinary position to influence public opinion, and his responsibilities are the greater because his acceptance is so universal.

Therefore, an analysis of his speeches, press interviews and the reports of his meetings with congressional committees must take on this objective approach: That with keen desire to accept what General Eisenhower has said as gospel truth, it is still essential, under our system of government, to scrutinize, analyze, and debate his suggestions with the view toward discovering, as far as possible, the exact state of our own security.

1. It is clear that General Eisenhower adds nothing to nor does he modify the terms, purposes and arrangements of the Brussels Conference. Therefore, his speeches could have been made before his trip to Europe, or without any trip at all. His was a confirmatory inspection.

2. He holds that the President should be in a position to send ground troops, of whatever quantity, anywhere without restriction.

3. While this is the equipment-providing stage, no restrictions are to be placed upon the man-giving stage.

4. Spain, Yugoslavia, Turkey and Formosa are not included in his program. His remarks concerning Germany are remote and inconclusive.

He said:

"I am not even going to mention my several conversations in Germany, and for a very specific reason. I personally think that there has to be a political platform achieved, an understanding that will contemplate an eventual and earned equality on the part of that nation, before we should start to talk about including units of Germans in any kind of army."

In a word, France's program regarding Germany is to be accepted by the United States, although that means that more manpower will have to be provided either by France or the United States.

5. While, in a plea for patience, he refers to France's commitments in French Indo-China and Great Britain's in Malaya, General Eisenhower makes no comment on our own enormous commitments in Korea. Why are we more concerned with other countries' commitments than with our own?

6. General Eisenhower declines any commitment on ratios of obligations, which translated means a free hand and an open heart, without a specified quid pro quo. That cost us $50,000,000,000 in lend-lease, as operated by Harry Hopkins, including $11,000,000,00 for Soviet Russia.

Lend-Lease did not bring to the United States security from war, for had it done so, General Eisenhower would not have been called upon to make these speeches and statements. Nor has it brought us friendships, as the recent conduct of nations at the United Nations clearly indicated.

If there is to be a giving, there ought to be some fixed obligations by the recipients of our benefactions. General Eisenhower does not indicate that he has such a plan in mind.

7. He said:

"I do not believe, for example, that the United States can pick up the world on its economic, financial and material shoulders and carry it. We must have cooperation if we are going to work with other nations. The results of the effort would be the mutual, the common good, the common security of the nations of the free world."

Nothing could be sounder doctrine. Yet it comes out of committee that he anticipates a 20 or 30-year period of confusion and cost. Will our economy and a lowering standard of living sustain either this operation

Scouts Will Celebrate 41st Anniversary

Pageant And Circus Will Highlight Week

The units of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, have many activities scheduled during Boy Scout Week which begins today and will run until next Monday.

The week has been set aside to mark the 41st anniversary of the founding of Scouting in the United States. "Strengthen Liberty" is the anniversary theme.

Willis V. Smith, Potomac Council executive, said events are planned in five of the six districts of the council.

Cumberland District's main celebration will be the presentation of a pageant on Scouting Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Strand Theatre. From 25 troops and Cub packs, will be 150 actors who will show in 25 scenes the various phases of their training.

Fun Night Planned

A fun night will be held next Monday at 7 p. m. in Centre Street Methodist Church recreation hall for the pageant participants. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

In New Creek District, which covers the Keyser-Mineral County, W. Va., area, a fun night program will be held Wednesday at 7 p. m. in Potomac State School gym. A swim night will be held Friday evening in the Central YMCA pool.

A father and son dinner will be held for Scouts, Cubs and their fathers Monday at 6:30 p. m. in Grace Methodist Church, Keyser. The following day at 7 p. m. a Cub party will be held in the same church.

Circus At Piedmont

Tri-Towns District, comprised of Piedmont, Westernport and Luke troops and packs, will have its annual Scout Circus Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in Piedmont High School auditorium.

Mountain District, Frostburg, will have its Cub and Scout circus Thursday at 7 p. m. in Beall Elementary School.

A "deerburger" feed at St. Paul's Methodist Church Thursday evening will start Boy Scout Week in Deep Creek District at Oakland.

On Saturday the Boy Scouts will take over the government of Oakland and Monday they will be guests of the Oakland Lions Club at a dinner.

In all districts, Boy Scouts and Cubs will attend church uniformed and in groups this Sunday.

Gas Shortage Here Eased By Temperature Rise

The Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company relaxed its gas conservation request to commercial users yesterday as the mercury rose slowly.

The program for industrial users for gas remains unchanged, however. Industrial users all along the gas supply lines last week cut consumption to a minimum because of the sudden cold wave.

There was no indication that such a request would be made if temperatures suddenly drop again. "We'll have to wait and see what develops," a spokesman said.

The weather also eased. With the exception of reports of early-morning fog in spots which made travel for both cars and pedestrians hazardous, the district was generally clear.

The only exception was Garrett county where light snow flurries fell yesterday morning. G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said that the flurries in no way interfered with traffic.

The present contract with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company expires May 1, Beard said. Contract talks are expected to get started sometime late this month. Wages will not be a part of the talks.

At a meeting Saturday night the union voted to donate $50 to the Allegany County Heart Association. It was also voted to match a previous contribution of $69 to the March of Dimes campaign. This action followed an appeal from the March of Dimes committee.

Workers at the Kelly plant, both office and production, donated $124 to the March of Dimes during the past few weeks. The money was placed in containers at the plant.

Food Prices Up 127 Percent Over September, 1936

Food prices in Cumberland have risen 127 per cent over the September, 1936, totals, according to Chamber of Commerce food basket statistics.

This week the basket of 15 staple items for the average family costs $9.12 while in the fall of 1936 the list figured to $3.99.

Meats, coffee, milk and butter have all doubled or tripled their cost of 14 years ago.

In September, 1936, three pounds of round steak could be purchased for 69 cents, but today the price tag says $2.85.

Fourteen years ago, a housewife could buy two pounds of lard for 15 cents. Today it is 42 cents for two pounds.

Bacon has jumped from 58 cents for two pounds in 1936, to $1.40 today while the cost of five pounds of sugar in the similar time went from 30 cents to 50 cents.

With the increase of government help to the farmer, potatoes have dropped from 37 cents a peck to 27 cents a peck. Advances in agriculture have also helped this situation.

Canned vegetables have remained fairly static over the 14 years with the exception of 1941 when they dropped to nearly half of their 1936 and 1951 prices.

A dozen of eggs in 1930 sold for 33 cents. This month the cost is 56 cents. However, this is a fluctuating market, depending on the attitude of "Mother Hen."

The other dinner table staple, the loaf of bread, has risen from 10 cents to 18 cents.

Milk, similarly, has climbed slowly from 12 cents a quart to 21 cents. Cabbage has remained the same.

The comparisons follow:

When Lefty Teed Off

Tom Mont Tells One

All Pro Teams Alike

Fisher Averages .739

By C. V. BURNS

They still write about that mighty clout "Lefty" Duberstein, one-time Cumberland Colts' first sacker, put over The Point Stadium right field wall at Johnstown.

Only two players have achieved this feat since the stadium was built 25 years ago.

Al Milnar hoisted one over the barrier when he was a rookie with Zanesville. Al is the 1951 manager at New Castle.

These were mighty clouts but how about the time Babe Ruth belted one over the centerfield fence at Community Park during batting practice when the Yankees played the Colts in an exhibition game here?

At the testimonial dinner the other day for Bob Ward, All-America lineman from Maryland, Tommy Mont of the Redskins told a funny one about Joe Tereshinski, who played in the 1947 All-Star game in Chicago.

As Frank Leahy drilled his All-Stars, he warned Tereshinski about Fred Davis, the Bears' standout tackle.

"Don't worry none about that Davis coach, "Tereshinski assured Leahy, "After I hit him once he'll be as dumb as I am."

The Spas and their predecessors, the Dukes, have wretched road records but how about these for National Basketball Association teams:

Rochester 9-14, Minneapolis 8-13, New York 9-15, Syracuse 7-16, Boston 6-14, Indianapolis 7-18, Philadelphia 6-16, Fort Wayne 5-20, Tri-Cities 3-22 and Baltimore Bullets 2-20.

Mel Henry's Hagerstown High cagers have won seven in a row while Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets provided an upset by spilling Patterson Park High of Baltimore, 41-40. Frederick has won nine and lost two. Hagerstown plays Fort Hill here Feb. 26.

Ed "Whitey" Mathewson is still leading the Spas in scoring with 243 points. Bob Pence who headed the locals for four years is 2nd with 203 followed by Jack Murphy with 200 and Jimmy Clevenger with 174.

The Hilltoppers have knocked off Allegany 40-32 and LaSalle 37-32 and since the records of the Campers and Explorers is 1-2 in the city race, Fort Hill can grab off the bunting by winning its third straight contest.

Clash In 31st Game

Jack Rice and Charles Hartman, Fort Hill players who were injured early in the season, have rejoined the squad and are ready to play, Coach Cavanaugh announced last night. Rice suffered a broken bone in his wrist several weeks ago and on the following day Hartman suffered a dislocated cartilage in his nose.

Jackets Seek 14th

Moorefield High will be angling for its 14th consecutive victory in the Potomac Valley Conference when it plays at Piedmont High tonight. It will be the Yellow Jackets' first of two visits to Mineral county this week. Keyser will be met on Thursday.

Keyser invades Petersburg tonight for a game with Walt Owens' Vikings while Davis is host to Franklin in another P. V. C. battle.

Fort Ashby At Beall

Barton High (11-2) will seek a sweep of its series with Grantsville by playing in Garrett County. Johnny Thomas' club won the opener 63-23.

Thomas High is slated to invade Preston County, W. Va., to play Terra Alta, Mathias (W.Va.) High invades Broadway, Va., to play the home quint and Bedford High's Jayvees oppose Hyndman High's cagers on the latter's court.

Pinehurst Lands Ryder Cup Tests

U. S. British Teams Clash In November

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25 (AP)—The 1951 Ryder Cup matches between the top 10 professional golfers of the United States and Great Britain were awarded today to Pinehurst, N. C. for the first week of November. The announcement was made by President Joe Novak of the Professional Golfers Association of America after conferences with Dick Tufts, representing Pinehurst, which put in the first bid.

Also assisting was Robert A. Hudson of Portland, Ore. He is chairman of the PGA advisory committee and sponsored the matches the last time they were held in this country in 1947.

Ryder Cup play started in 1927, and is held every two years—although the war caused a lapse from 1937 to 1947—with the U. S. and Britain alternating as host country. Americans have won six of the eight matches. The last time Great Britain won was at Southport, Eng., in 1933.

The matches have been set for Friday, Nov. 2, and Sunday, Nov. 4. Saturday, Nov. 3, will be skipped to avoid conflict with the North Carolina-Tennessee football game at nearby Chapel Hill.

The American team is selected on a point system based on victories in such major classics as the national open, the PGA championship, and PGA-conducted tournaments.

Selection on the team is a big goal for the golfers. Presently, Sam Snead leads with 972 points. Trailing, in order, are Lloyd Mangrum, 588 points, Jimmy Demaret, 439, Jack Burke, Jr., 413, Skip Alexander, 276, Henry Ransom, 268, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, 251, Chandler Harper, 233, Ed Oliver, 215, and Ben Hogan, 192.

Ready for Willie

Governor Says No

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 5 (AP)—The job of baseball's high commissioner does not appeal to Gov. Earl Warren.

"I was just elected governor," Warren told newsmen today, "and I think that's the job I want."

Income Tax Primer

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—This year, more than ever, income taxpayers will want to find their lowest tax.

Personal income taxes have been increased, and may be increased more, but the federal government doesn't want you to pay more tax than you actually owe. It expects you to take every allowable exemption and deduction.

Another important tax saver for thousands of taxpayers is choosing the cheaper way of taking non-business deductions.

Among these deductions are most taxes and interest paid by you, losses from fire, storm and theft and medical expenses exceeding five per cent of your income. Others are contributions to religious, educational and charitable organizations.

The government gives you the choice of taking a standard deduction, amounting to 10 per cent of your income, or itemizing your allowable deductions and taking the total of those deductions.

You will want to itemize your deductions if they amount to more than 10 per cent of your income. If they amount to less than 10 per cent of your income, it will pay you to take the 10 per cent allowance.

An important choice for married couples is whether to make a joint or a separate return. For a large majority of married couples a joint return is a cheap or cheaper than a separate return.

Most taxpayers want to use a return form easy to fill out. But be sure an easy return doesn't cost you more.

There are three different return forms—Form 1040-A, the "short" Form 1040 and the "long" form 1040. They are aimed at fitting the varying needs of the more than 50,000,000 taxpayers.

Many taxpayers, however, don't have a choice of forms.

If your income in 1950 was $5,000 or more, you must make your return on long form 1040.

Also you must use long form 1040 if you itemize your non-business deductions.

The law requires every citizen or resident of the United States who had a gross income of $600 or more in 1950 to file a federal income tax return. Even minors (persons under 21) must file a return if their incomes amounted to $600.

Minors who worked for a short period and received less than $600 in pay from which income tax was withheld will still want to make a return. They will get a refund of the tax that was withheld.

KEEPING UP WITH

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5—(INS)—Hal Wallis put $100,000 on the line for "Scapel," a Horace McCoy story he bought while it was still in manuscript form. He decided then and there if he could persuade Burt Lancaster to star in it he would have a great picture.

Well, although it's a complete change for Burt, who plays a surgeon, he decided to do it. It sounds very much like the A. J. Cronin stories.

The hero is a young coal miner who becomes a surgeon after marrying a wealthy girl, and has to decide whether he wants to be a society doctor or spend the rest of his life helping everyday humanity.

Sid Silvers has completed the biography of Buddy De Sylva with the title "Stairway To Paradise"—and it is a work of love and devotion. Sid was with Buddy when he died—and Buddy had said that he wanted no one but Silvers to write his life story.

Buddy's story, plus the use of many of his song hits, would make an excellent romantic musical. There were many sad and melodramatic things in Buddy's life as well as his success as a tunewriter and a film producer.

Recently, Silvers and James Kern (director of "Two Tickets To Broadway") formed a writing-directing partnership. The De Sylva story will probably be their first fling as independents.

Ever since "Double Indemnity," Fred MacMurray has been looking for another thriller. Now he thinks he has found it in "Windy City Six," a radio script he'll play this week. So sold is Fred on the yarn that he's bought it from E. John Neumann before it ever goes on the air.

It's about a jazz band drummer who gets tangled up with Chicago mobsters. But it's ten to one that Fred will change that drummer spot to a saxophone player. Maybe you have forgotten that MacMurray started his movie career in Hollywood after he played the sax at one of Marion Davies' parties. He had been a professional before he came to Hollywood.

The color and scenes of Spain in "Pandora And The Flying Dutchman" are breathtakingly beautiful. This story is done with the same artistry that Art Lewin puts into all his motion pictures.

I was curious to see Mario Cabre, the bullfighter who fell in love with Ava Gardner and wrote her such impassioned poems. As an actor, Cabre will never win an Academy Award, but he is more than adequate.

Ava, in some of the scenes is more beautiful than I have ever seen her. Her gowns are gorgeous. Moreover, this is a love story and a beautifu one, and that, I believe, is what the public likes.

Chatter in Hollywood:

Franchot Tone telephoned me to say that he was very worried about my news that Jean Wallace planned to go to Italy and make a picture.

"I expected to leave the two boys with her," Franchot told me. "I don't want them in Hollywood alone, and I must be in New York, so I shall take them with me."

Now I have some news! Upon advice of Jean's attorney, she planed back to the coast from New York and is here now. She wanted to prevent Franchot from taking the children out of the state.

Pat and Randy Scott take off for a ten-day holiday—destination unknown. The Scotts say they don't even know where they are going. I can tell them it's no kind of a vacation. Tried it myself once.

John Ringling North has reservations at Mayo Clinic and is probably there by this time.

Ida Lupino and Howard Duff are more that way than ever.

Don Cornell, Cocoanut Grove singer, who reminds so many people of Russ Colombo, is being tested at Warners.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Aggipah peak in the Salmon National forest of central Idaho was named after the Chinook Indian dialect for salmon.

FROSTBURG—Plans for the current Lenten season of St. Paul's Lutheran Church have been released by Rev. Harold R. Stoudt, pastor.

The services will commence with the first mid-week service tomorrow, Ash Wednesday evening, at 7:30.

The sermon series for these Wednesday evening services will be on the general theme of "The Seven Last Words From The Cross." $975 Collected In Dimes Drive

KEYSER, W. Va.—The March of Dimes campaign in Mineral county has moved very slowly this year, and James Goldsworthy, treasurer of the county chapter, announced yesterday that only $975 had been deposited in the bank to date.

He is hopeful that there will be more donations received before the end of next week, when the campaign is scheduled to close, having been extended two weeks over the regular period.

He said that another case like that of Mona Walker will be hard to handle unless there is more money contributed to the fund.

Interest has been very light in the campaign this year, he said, although the county was called on for care of the local child, who is still in a convalescent home in Morgantown and will probably need attention for another three months.

Four Bonus Bills In West Virginia Reach Governor

Misunderstanding Delays Another

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 5 (AP) —The Legislature laid four of the five Veterans' Bonus measures on the Governor's desk today, but an apparent misunderstanding prevented final passage of the fifth.

Still awaiting final Senate concurrence in a minor House amendment is the bill authorizing the issuance of the $90,000,000 bond issue.

The House took up the omnibus bonus legislation with leaders still mindful of a desire to keep all five measures in one bundle when dispatching them to the Governor.

A technical revision was made in the Bond Issue Bill itself relating to the payments to be made over the 20-year liquidation period. Majority Leader Davis (D-Kanawha) told the House he had received assurances from the Senate it would act favorably on this change at once so that all five bills could be passed finally on the same day.

However, when the bill got over to the Senate, that chamber had adjourned. A Senate leader said merely the bill was too late getting there; assuring newsmen there was no disposition to be obstinate and that the House change would be speeded through.

West Virginia Soldiers Honored For Heroism

Berkeley Springs Man Commended

Two West Virginians are among three soldiers who have just received awards for heroism for plunging into the chill waters of Seattle's Shilshole Bay last Spring in a partially successful rescue effort, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Seattle, Wash.

They are PFC Vernon McGowan, Berkeley Springs, and Cpl. Clinton D. Nelson, Whitmer, in Randolph county. The third is PFC Joseph Barnett, Dayton, Ohio. All are military policemen at Fort Lawton in Seattle and are winners of the Army's commendation ribbons.

The ribbons, each with a metal pendant, were given to the trio at a recent Fort Lawton ceremony.

The three risked their lives last April 7 after a small skiff capsized and threw two other Fort Lawton soldiers and a girl companion into the bay. The rescuers swam out several hundred feet and managed to get the victims of the boating accident to shore.

One of the men in the skiff, Cpl. Frederick M. Towns, Grand Rapids, Mich., died soon afterward of shock and exhaustion.

If you want to look taller, you can! Learn how to extend your body to its full capacity today!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

NO WONDER the tall, reed-slim look of the fashion model is the ideal of today. Implicit in it are youth, figure beauty, grace and the ability to wear clothes well. But you need not be 5'6" or over to have that tall look. Some of the tiniest women I know carry themselves with such assurance and authority that they appear inches taller than they measure. You can, too.

Just by learning to extend your body to its full capacity, you can increase your height by a whole inch! I'll show you how right now. But first, put a mark on the wall to record your present height.

Loosening Tight Spots

Let's start by loosening the tight spots in your spine. Stand on tiptoe with your feet together. Raise both arms high over head. Beginning at the base of your spine, start to stretch. Pull your waist out of your hips, your neck out of your shoulders, your hands out of your wrists. Reach for the ceiling. Then, slowly walk around the room in this attenuated position for a count of ten.

Now, very slowly, allow your arms and feet to return to normal standing position. But, don't lose the stretch in your spine! Do this exercise ten times or more during each day at various intervals. Between times, hold your back and head as erect as possible.

Stretch Your Neck

Next, let's see how swan-like we can make your neck. Lie on your back on the floor. Keep one leg out straight. Bend the other so the knee touches your chest. Clasp your hands lightly around the bent knee. Raise your head and stretch it toward that knee. Keep your shoulders flat on the floor and don't cheat by pulling your knee toward your head with your hands! At the same time, try to stretch the leg that is on the floor. Hold for a count of five; repeat with opposite leg. Start with five times for each and work up to fifteen times per leg as soon as possible.

These exercises will help you achieve ease in standing, sitting and walking stretched as tall as possible, which you should do at all times.

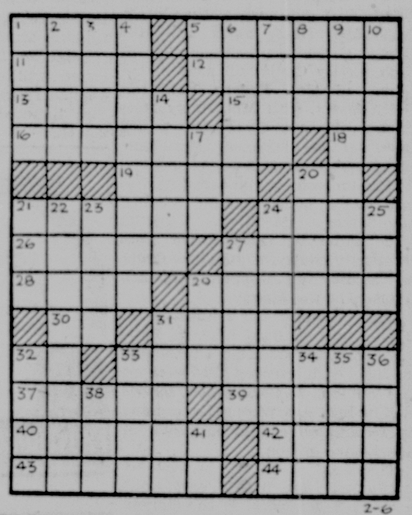
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

IFF ORIO'D YZTERO AHDO KIVL,—ORL YZTEROLDO DOTFF ORL KFLLOLDO—AUUZL.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE MISS THY SMALL STEP ON THE STAIR: WE MISS THEE AT THINE EVENING PRAYER.—MOIR.

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness following the sudden and tragic death of my husband, Mr. F. B. Shipley. I especially wish to thank the Blades family, Rev. Donald F. Brake and James Scarpelli and all those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars.
Mrs. F. B. Shipley

In Memoriam

In loving memory of E. G. A. Snider.
SAFE ON HIS GENTLE BREAST
THERE BY HIS LOVE O'ER SHADED
SWEETLY HIS SOUL SHALL REST.
Sadly missed by his Wife & Children.

In loving memory of our beloved mother, Mary O. Twigg, who passed away 2 years ago today, February 6, 1949.
No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered; since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
Your Devoted Children

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Marie Wilkins, who passed away one year ago today, February 6, 1950.
Dear Mother in silence you suffered
And with patience you bore,
And God called you to him to suffer no more.
We took our sorrows all to you,
You'd smooth our troubled brow;
You always chased the cloud away,
We could not forget you now,
Gone into the light that shines so fair,
Gone from this earth of sorrows and care,
Resting those hands that did their best,
Gone dear Mother, gone to rest,
What is home without our Mother?
What are all the joys we meet,
When your loving smile no longer
Greets the coming of our feet.
Dear Mother, how we miss you
Since from earth you passed away,
And our hearts are aching sorely,
As we think of you today.
Sadly missed by her daughters
MRS. CLARA BREIGHNER
MRS. ELEANOR MILLER

In loving memory of our Daddy, Russell Coakley, Jr., who was killed two years ago in February, 1949.
We miss your love and pleasing way,
Please God just let him know
That we down here do not forget,
And that we miss him so.
His loving son and daughter,
DONALD & VIRGINIA

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should a girl try to "change" her men friends?

Answer: As a rule it is a waste of effort which may end by leaving her with no men friends to change. There is no subtler form of self-deception than persuading yourself that it will be "good for" someone else to make him over so as to conform to your tastes and ideas. For not only does this generally prove impossible — it is likely to make the other person more set in his ways than ever and angry at you into the bargain. Either adjust your own attitudes to those of your friends or pick friends whom you can like and respect as they are.

Can you "intervene" in your dreams?

Answer: A good many people can if they are well-balanced emotionally. Of course anyone will wake up when the terror of a nightmare becomes unendurable—when the building actually crashes on his head or the tiger's jaws close on him. But it is also possible for many people, when the tension of a dream becomes uncomfortable, to say: "Look here, is this real or am I dreaming?" and deliberately wake themselves up. I should say that the more strongly your sense of reality has been developed, the more likely this will be to happen.

Are children naturally mischievous?

Answer: Not nearly so much as most people believe. If you let a child realize that he has the power to "get your goat" by acting mischievously, he may exercise that power for the fun of proving to himself that he is stronger than you are. But most of what adults see as mischief in children's behavior is really a form of experimenting—trying to find out what makes things tick—and intends no harm because the child does not know what the consequences of his actions will be. It is curiosity, not malice, that makes Johnny pull the cat's tail.

Britons Aroused As Fuel Shortage Again Threatens Domestic Chaos

COVENTRY, England—(AP)—Pursued by a flue epidemic, shivering over unfulfilled coal rations, many perplexed Britons are wondering just why it is that fuel shortages once more threaten them with a measure of domestic chaos. And a lot of them are getting mad.

After four years of state ownership of the mines, a new coal crisis threatens to close factories, return millions of workers to the dole, and steam up old political feuds.

Although the House of Commons on Feb. 1 rejected Conservative charges that Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Labor government bungled Britain into the coal shortage, Winston Churchill has not given up hope of forcing a new election.

The Tories reason thus: The coal situation plus the rising cost of living plus the meat shortage are tipping the political scales in their favor. Various polls profess to show some swing toward the Conservatives. Labor Party leaders privately acknowledge some such public reaction. The Churchillian forces say they could win a national election now.

At the moment, coal supplies are the main reason.

Everybody seems to be bitter at everybody else. The consumers are made at the miners. The miners, exhausting themselves in the grime and danger of the pits, are mad at their critics. Mine managers are discontented because they have not received pay concessions as have the diggers. Leaders of the Trades Union Congress, numbering 8,000,000 organized workers, are sore at the government, too.

Beset from all sides, the government has ordered a 15 per cent cut in coal supplies to industry. But that could lead to another vicious circle. The rearmament program might be affected. So would exports, so vital to Britain's economy that the repercussions would be even more widespread.

To be on the safe side, Britain's coal stockpile needs to total about 17,000,000 tons each October. Last October, the supply was 1,500,000 tons shy.

The question isn't where to get the goal—the island is underplaced by tremendous fields of black diamonds—but how to get it out. Manpower is increasingly scarce.

When the National Coal Board took over four years ago, there were 697,000 miners. Higher wages, a five-day week for six days pay, overtime, and paid vacations helped build up the force to 727,000 diggers early in 1949.

Then the wartime fence came down. In 20 months, the pits lost more than 40,000 workers, and miners still are drifting away. The average pay for all mine workers is nearly $28 a week—high pay by British standards, but the automobile factories pay about as much for cleaner and less dangerous jobs.

Many of the miners are old men, their strength sapped by a lifetime in the pits. Hardly a one advises his son to follow in the business. In a nation with more jobs than men, youngsters see no reason to pin their livelihood to a dank, dark, and dangerous mine.

Inadequate housing in the coal fields is one more reason for the labor drift. Absenteeism also plays hob with coal production. The miners explain that they must lay off to rest. But absenteeism also rises noticably on days when local football teams are playing a home. Many men who work on Saturday lay off during the week.

There is cautious talk of resuming wartime control and direction of labor. Aneurin Bevan, himself a miner during his youth in Wales, has been advanced to labor minister to wrestle with the problem. So far, the only plans are to import 10,000 Italian miners and the release of ex-coal miners from the armed forces if they will go back to their old jobs.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Svenborg managed to stay on the Yale football squad all season, although he never got into a game. His only contribution consisted of acting as a tackling dummy at practice sessions, and sitting huddled up in a robe at the end of the bench during games.

The Harvard fray, however, produced so many minor injuries that, near the end of the final quarter, the coach had poured every member of the squad but Svenborg into the line-up. Time was called while still another Yale stalwart was carried off the field. The coach's eyes traveled along the empty bench until they encountered Svenborg. A wild hope surged through Svenborg's veins. "Gee, coach," he marveled. "Are you gonna send me in?" "I should say not," snapped the coach. "Just get up. I'm gonna send in the bench!"

Bird Club To Build Feeder

The Oldtown Seventh Grade Girls Bird Club received reports at the meeting Saturday at the school and a group volunteered to make a bird feeding station for the class room. Those volunteering were Jane Keyser, Patricia McCoy and Mary Harbaugh.

Reports on various birds were given, with Patricia McCoy telling of the thrush; Mary Harbaugh, the robin; Jane Keyser, the woodpecker; and Louise Hose discussing the health of birds.

between 15 and 25 per cent. There were three approaches he could choose from when he was named defense mobilizer. The first was business-as-usual, which meant not getting the job done at all. The second was going on to a full war basis, which meant turning the whole economy upside down to achieve the flood of production needed for a shooting war; and then seeing a great mass of obsolescent weapons pile up and the economy go into a nose dive if war did not come.

These approaches he has rejected, in favor of the more imaginative one of permanently lifting the whole national economy to an entirely new level, at which enough will be produced to satisfy all defense needs short of all-out war, and to maintain the present American living standard at the same time. He figures that if the country accepts temporary controls, if the Congress goes along on stiff taxes and credit restrictions to prevent swelling civilian consumption, and if business and labor cooperate, it will take about 18 months.

"The orders are going in now," he explains. "Pretty soon, the bad time will begin, when the controls pinch and there are dislocations. But in around a year and a half, even the long lead defense items ought to be coming off the production line so fast they'll need the State of Texas to store them in."

It sounds simple when he says it. You even feel it will be easy when he remarks, for instance, that the war potential of American industry, having already been doubled and tripled and quintupled between 1940 and 1945, has invisibly increased by another 50 per cent between 1945 and 1950.

In fact, of course, there will be nothing easy or simple about this business of increasing the already immense productivity of the United States to make comfortable room for a huge defense output. Wilson will have plenty of headaches, and will be on the receiving end of plenty of brickbats, before the task is finished. But after a good many years as a legendary captain of industry, he still retains the toughness of Hell's Kitchen, where he began life; he has faith in America, and he knows his work. If Wilson cannot do the job, nobody can.

Drastic Tax Plan, Rail Tieup Fail To Halt Rising Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—A set of drastic tax proposals and one of history's worst transport tieups failed today to impede a rising stock market.

At times the market faltered and lost its stride over the implications of the industry-crippling rail strike and of the details as to how the administration believes the nation's taxes should be boosted by $10,000,000,000.

But it never fell, and at the close stocks again had reached a new 20-year price peak.

The volume of trading amounted to 2,680,000 shares, against 3,030,000 at the last full session Friday.

Gains for individual issues ranged from a few cents to around $1 a share, with a few produced more spectacular advances. Loses ran to around $1.

Some auto shares — such as General Motors, up ⅞ at 51⅝, and Packard, up ¼ at 5⅝—did well despite the recommendation that excises on cars be increased from seven to 20 per cent.

Some excellent bits of corporate news proved a boon to individual stocks.

Boeing Airplane closed 3¼ points higher at 44⅝ following reports the company had developed a small gas turbine engine capable of adding spectacular pulling power to Diesel or reciprocating gas engine trucks. It also was reported the Air Force was figuring on Boeing's B-52 jet bomber in its long range planning.

Illinois Central advanced 4⅝ at 70⅝ on the strength of a fine 1950 earnings report.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, United Aircraft, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, American Woolen, American Tobacco, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (N. J.), Paramount Pictures and Johns Manville.

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T HELP HIM READ

FALSE-CARDING when you are on the defense is a dangerous procedure. It hazards the misleading of your partner, hence the disruption of the entire plan to head off the declarer, which so often depends on the clear exchange of information between the two who are sniping at him. But situations arrive in which a defender should false-card. They are mainly of two kinds. One is that in which the declarer is in a better position to use whatever facts your play discloses. The other is a lineup presenting a poor card-reader as your partner and a fine one as your foe. Then you should avoid helping the declarer to read the situation.

South let the heart J win when East played it on the lead of the 4. The A took the Q return and the club 9 was finessed to the Q. West's heart 10 knocked out the K and the spade K was used as a dummy re-entry to lead a second club. When East played low, South came right in with the A to drop the K. That gave him his contract with three tricks in clubs and two in each other suit.

If South had finessed on the second round of clubs, he would have had no way to develop nine tricks, since the then singleton K would have won. West wondered how he decided to play for the drop instead of the finesse. His explanation was simple.

"Since you had led a fourth-best from a four-card suit, I reckoned the chances were you considered you had a re-entry," said South. "The only card higher than a queen against me was the king of clubs. So I felt you had it and my only chance was to drop it on the second round, especially since the ten was clearly marked as still in East's hand."

Then East chimed in with, "If you had played the king the first time, he could not have followed that logic on his second club trick, but might have finessed." To which South responded, "I guess I would have."

Mother And Son Badly Hurt In Train-Car Crash

8-Year-Old Boy Pinned In Wreck

A fast freight crushed an automobile stalled on a Meyersdale, Pa., grade crossing yesterday afternoon, critically injuring 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer and badly injuring his mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, of Meyersdale.

Rescuers worked with hydraulic jacks and steel bars for 45 minutes before they could raise a box car, reach Johnnie and rush him to the hospital.

Woman Tossed Aside

Mrs. Schnelzer was tossed aside when the westbound B. and O. freight smashed into the automobile while she stood on the outside frantically trying to get her son out of the back seat.

Mrs. Schnelzer and Johnnie had just left their home on North Street on their way to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Alfred Wilmoth, in Somerset, Pa.

They had started to cross the double-track crossing only a mile from home when the car stalled. Mrs. Schnelzer leaped from the machine and was trying to get Johnnie out of the back seat when the freight hit the automobile.

Carried some 50 feet down the track, the machine smashed into a standing box car on a siding, and was twisted and mangled between the moving and standing box cars.

Mrs. Schnelzer was taken to Hazel McGilvery Hospital in Meyersdale where she was found to be suffering from a crushed left chest. Her condition is fair.

Rescuers Free Boy

Rescuers, meanwhile, had gotten to work at once to get Johnnie out of the wreckage. Salt loaded in the standing box car was moved to one side to ease the weight on the crushed automobile. Hydraulic jacks and steel bars finally did the job and the workers were able to free Johnnie from the wreckage.

He still wore his cowboy belt and holster, but his toy pistol was broken to bits.

Rescuers Free Injured Boy

Rescuers worked for 45 minutes to reach 8-year-old Johnnie Schnelzer from beneath a box car after the boy was trapped and badly injured after his mother's stalled automobile was hit by a fast freight train and crushed and twisted against a standing box car in Meyersdale, Pa., yesterday afternoon. The boy's mother, Mrs. John Schnelzer, 30, who jumped from the auto and attempted to rescue Johnnie from the back seat, was also critically hurt. A doctor (in white shirt) helps lift the injured youth from the wreckage.

Infirmary Case Still Unsettled After Hearing

Board Meets Behind Closed Doors There

No decision was reached by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday afternoon following a lengthy closed-door hearing at the County Infirmary concerning the abrupt discharge of seven employes, William H. Lemmert, board chairman, said last night.

Besides the three commissioners, those who attended the hearing, which lasted about an hour-and-a-half, were Earl Grim, County Infirmary superintendent, who discharged the seven workers last Wednesday; Dr. Arthur Jones, county physician; Mrs. Ella Beamer Smith, head nurse at the infirmary; Gorman Getty, the board's attorney, and James G. Stevenson, board clerk.

Ryan Represents Workers

Attorney Edward J. Ryan, retained by the seven fired workers to represent them, said last night that nothing specific was brought out at the hearing in the way of charges against the employes.

"Superintendent Grim apparently acted on the recommendation of Mrs. Smith, the head nurse, in discharging the seven employes," Ryan asserted. "Her views seemed to be based on gossip and hearsay and no definite facts," the attorney added. "Mrs. Smith contended that the discharged employes lacked cooperation and respect for her," he said.

Four of the seven persons no longer employed at the County Infirmary testified at the hearing. Lemmert and Ryan both reported. Ryan said that illness prevented the other three from attending.

Registered Nurse Included

Those who lost their jobs included one man, an orderly, and six women, one a registered nurse and five practical nurses. Among those fired was one woman who had been out because of illness since before the first of the year when Grim took his post as superintendent and another who had been away from the Infirmary most of January because of illness.

Each of the seven received an identical letter, they said yesterday. It read:

"You have been warned in the past that your services were not satisfactory.

"It now becomes necessary for me to inform you that your name has been removed from the payroll of Allegany County Infirmary."

Notices Not Given

Ryan contended that the discharged workers should have been given at least two weeks notice of their dismissals and definite reasons for the action. They were discharged immediately upon receipt of the letters from Grim last Wednesday, they said.

Lemmert indicated last night that any further action on the matter would be taken by the commissioners at one of their regular meetings, held each Tuesday and Friday morning.

Auto Tag Bill Goes To Governor

The House last night passed and sent to Governor McKeldin a bill providing for the distribution of automobile license tags in Allegany County.

The bill, as passed by the House, authorized the Board of Allegany County Commissioners to appoint some official, other than the county treasurer, to issue license tags in this county.

It was amended by Senator Kimble to designate the tax collector for Tax District 1 as the distributing official.

Celanese Layoff May Result From Railroad Strike

Rail Traffic Tie-Up Causes Production Cut

Effects of the switchman's strike across the nation are being felt locally at the Celanese Corporation. Furlough notices are being posted throughout the plant but officials are not yet in a position to reveal the number of employees who will be laid off until a few days.

When contacted last night Plant Manager Harrison C. Givens Jr. said that "a further substantial cut in production has been made at the Amcelle plant due to shortage of raw materials. The present shortage has resulted from the inability of the railroads to make delivery of the materials now in transit from suppliers.

"The unauthorized strike of the switchmen at the various switching centers has blocked movement of incoming materials to such an extent the production can no longer be maintained at the previous level.

Givens continued to say that "the current curtailment will reduce production to about two-thirds of normal capacity. Production will be resumed as rapidly as materials are received following the termination of the strike.

"The reduction in production at the Amcelle has now reached a point which will require furloughs in many departments. Further cuts in production may be necessary if the switchmen's strike is not terminated in the next 24 hours.

GUEST SPEAKER — Rev. Roy Stevens, minister of the First Church of the Nazarene, Washington, D. C. will speak during Youth Week at the First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road. His service begins tonight at 7:30 o'clock and will continue each evening through next Sunday.

Milk Program Improvements Cost $96,000

Tri-State Area Praised For Work

The extensive improvement program and excellent cooperation between milk producers and plants was praised yesterday at the third annual conference of Milk Plant Managers and Plant Foremen at Union Street building under jurisdiction of state department of health.

Fifty-three persons attended the meeting, including 18 plant managers, eight health department officials, and 14 plant foremen, J. B. Dowling, department sanitary officer, said last night.

The group represented 16 milk plants and 918 producers in the tri-state area with a production capacity of 13,000 gallons of milk a day, Dowling stated.

Dowling outlined the current milk situation in Cumberland and vicinity and described improvements which are being made in the 75-mile area to aid in producing better Grade A milk.

Plants in Cumberland alone have completed $96,000 worth of improvements in the past year, Dowling said, with an anticipated $13,000 more to be added in the near future. An additional $76,000 has been spent by farmers and other milk producers in farm improvements such as new dairy barns, milk houses, newer equipment and others, Dowling said, to increase the productivity of the tri-state milk shed. Altogether the program here is operating at a daily cost of $6,000, Dowling added.

Yesterday's program included movies from the U. S. Department of Health, "Sanitary Milk Production," and talks by visiting officials. Dr. H. S. Johnson, chief of Dairy Products Laboratory, Pittsburgh, Pa., spoke on the importance of milk testing; W. E. Botwright, Rohm and Hass Company, Philadelphia, Pa., official told of experiences in use of Detergent-Sanitizers on Dairy Farms and plants; W. S. Anderson, director of Bureau of Milk Control of Commonwealth of Pennsylvania gave a general discussion of farm and plant inspection and praised the cooperation of the workers in the area; and H. M. Ewell, of Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, used "Salt of the Earth" as his subject.

Delegation Will Receive City Sponsored Bills

Home Rule Plans To Be Submitted

City sponsored legislation for constitutional and statutory home rule and authority to issue revenue bonds for parking and sewage disposal will be presented to the Allegany County Delegation in Annapolis today.

W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, will present the proposed legislation at a conference with the delegation at 3 p. m.

The constitutional home rule measure requiring an amendment to the constitution, provides that the issue be submitted to voters of the state for adoption or rejection.

Sets Up Charter Board

It provides that on demand of the Mayor and Council or by petition, the Board of Allegany County Election Supervisors will provide for the election of a charter board of 11 members. Voters could vote for or against the creation of a charter board and for members of the board.

The board must, within six months, prepare a proposed charter and present it to the Mayor and Council.

The charter must be submitted to voters at the next general or congressional election and, if passed by a majority, would be subject only to the general laws of Maryland.

Voters Gain Power

The charter would provide for an elected legislative body with such Mayor and Council vested with powers to enact local laws, subject to powers granted in the charter.

The act would thus abolish powers of the legislature to pass laws of a purely local nature, with such rights being vested in the voters of Cumberland.

Amendments to the new charter would be proposed by the Mayor and Council or by petition and submitted to voters at the next scheduled election, before becoming part of the charter.

Under the statutory home rule plan, a similar procedure would be followed, except that the home rule power would be granted by the Legislature, rather than by referendum.

The delegation has indicated general preference for the constitutional amendment plan.

Sewage Disposal Law

The third bill would empower the Mayor and Council to borrow $1,500,000 from the State of Maryland and issue revenue coupon bonds known as the "Cumberland Disposal and Sewage Treatment Bonds of 1951."

It also would give the city authority to construct a sewage disposal plant and repay the bonds and interest through service charges to users.

The parking lot bill would empower the city to acquire real estate, by purchase or lease, and erect upon it improvements necessary to establish a municipal parking lot or garage.

The legislation would empower the city to issue revenue bonds to finance the project, with principal and interest paid through proceeds of the parking facilities. Such bonds would not be a general obligation of the city, but payable solely from operation of the parking facilities.

Two Men Named To City Labor Mediation Group

Naughton, Webster Are Appointed

The Mayor and Council last night reactivated the Labor-aMnagement-Citizens Committee of Cumberland and named two members to fill the ranks of the group formed here last year to foster better labor-management relations.

The appointments, approved unanimously by the Mayor and Council were:

Joseph M. Naughton, president of the Second National Bank, to replace R. A. J. Morrison, superintendent of the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, who was transferred from here.

Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany High School, to succeed the late Associate Judge William A. Huster, who served as chairman of the committee.

Naughton will fill a vacancy in the Management representatives and Webster on the Citizens panel.

The Mayor and Council has asked the committee to meet in the near future to elect a chairman so its organization will be ready to go into action whenever needed.

Other members of the committee are:

Labor—Jack F. Moore, secretary; George W. Lucas, John L. Estes, Edwin C. Hoffman, Homer Berry and James H. Manning.

Management — Maurice Milberg, G. William Bibby, Robert Little Ebert, Edgar D. Vandergrift and Charles A. Piper.

Man Is Held In Tavern Entry

A man booked as Charles E. Swandol, Williams Road, was being held in the City Jail last night for the State's Attorney's office.

Police said the man, arrested by Detective Thomas J. See and Ernest Powell and Officer Kenneth Morrissey, is being held in connection with the breaking and entering of Virgie's Tavern here.

Robertson Will Head Community Chest Here

Earl C. Robertson, secretary-treasurer Cumberland Contracting Co., was re-elected president of the Cumberland Community Chest at the annual meeting of the executive committee held last night.

Other officers re-elected for the ensuing year include Clarence E. Gehr, division freight agent of the Western Maryland Railroad, vice-president; James W. Bishop, secretary-treasurer Queen City Brewing Co., secretary; and Mrs. Emma M. Everstine, Geare-Everstine Agency, treasurer.

Elected to the executive committee were Frederick W. Eiler, Eiler Chevrolet; Attorney Clarence Lippel; Roy W. Eves, superintendent Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge; Henry C. Swearingen, vice-president and sales manager of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. and Mrs. H. W. Eliason, wife of Dr. Eliason.

Reports of Red Feather agencies were approved.

The December, 1950, financial report, also approved, showed receipts of $1,927 during December for a total cash of $48,942.15 from the 1950-51 Chest Campaign.

Total disbursements were $6,622.73, leaving a balance of $42,319.42 as of January 1. Total receipts from 1950-51 pledges totaled $55,909.37, or 63 per cent of all pledges.

City Will Ask New Bids On Garbage Hauling

Dougherty Declines To Renew Option

Emmett A. Dougherty, garbage colector for the City of Cumberland, last night notified the Mayor and Council he did not wish to renew his contract for garbage and paper collection.

His contract, which provided $62,445 for the work during the past year, will expire April 30.

Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, with approval of the Mayor and Council, asked that the city attorney be instructed to ask for bids for the work, including paper collections, during year beginning May 1, 1951.

Dougherty said he was not renewing his option for the third year due to the increasing costs of labor, tires, gasoline, tires, repairs and the like.

The Army, he said, has called many of his best workers for physical examinations and possible induction. It is not easy, he pointed out, to secure labor due to hours and working conditions.

He pointed out that garbage collection problems here have been increasing since 1941, due both to rising costs and difficulty of securing adequate labor supplies.

Lenten Program Begins Tomorrow

Mid-week lenten services will begin tomorrow night at 7:30 at the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, North Mechanic Street. Each Wednesday throughout the season of lent appropriate services including motion pictures on the life of St. Paul will be shown.

Boy Scouts Start Fund Drive Today

Program Planned For Scout Week

The annual operating fund campaign of Potomac Council Boy Scouts will again be conducted during the Scout Week beginning today, Dr. Thomas Best, council finance chairman, announced yesterday.

The campaign to secure the council's operating budget gets under way today in Tri Towns, Mountain and New Creek districts, Best reported.

The current council budget is $13,000 of which approximately 50 per cent is received from the Cumberland Community Chest, he related, and the campaign will be conducted this week to raise the balance in those districts which are not part of the Chest program. The South Branch district will hold its fund drive in the fall, Best stated.

Chairmen of the drive are Dr. Paul R. Wilson, Tri Towns, Edgell Grayson, New Creek and Walter Mackey, Mountain district. Additional workers in various communities in these three districts are also aiding in the campaign. Letters also have been sent to prospective contributors asking for assistance, Best reported.

Home Nursing Class Begins

Allegany County Chapter American Red Cross held the first of a series of home nursing training courses last night at Allegany Hospital, Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary, reported.

The 30-hour training course for instructors is being held here in conjunction with a national Red Cross program in cooperation with Civil Defense plans, Mrs. Witherup said.

The Red Cross plans to train instructors to teach 700,000 persons home nursing throughout the nation, an effort to have at least one trained person in each home in case of national or local emergencies.

Allegany County Chapter is expected to train a comparable total of this amount, Mrs. Witherup explained, and the present course is planned to train instructors for the undertaking. Home economic teachers and graduate nurses are among those being instructed.

Miss Pena Anderson, Eastern Supervisor of Training Courses for Nursing, is conducting the local classes each night from 7 to 10 o'clock until February 16.

Finance Officials To Address Chamber

City finances will be discussed at a luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce here Friday, February 16.

Gibson will discuss the city's financial position and the need for additional revenues during the coming year.

Chamber officials said, interest in the subject indicates the meeting will be well attended.

Inductees May Finish School Before Leaving

High School Seniors May Choose Service

High school seniors who will be ordered by Selective Service Boards to take preliminary physicals prior to induction into the armed services now will be permitted to complete their education, P. Emmett Fahey, local director, announced yesterday.

The program set up for high school inductees is similar to that already in progress for college students, Fahey said, and will allow these students to complete their senior year at school before joining the armed services.

In addition, Fahey added, the students will be permitted to join any branch of the service of their own choosing instead of being taken into the army as befalls all other inductees.

Present selective service plans call for all 18-year-old youths to register and be eligible for induction at age 19, Fahey said. A student may now complete his high school education or go to school until age 20, whichever is earliest, before being inducted.

Many of the students in the three local high schools will be affected by this order, Fahey noted, but although they will have to take preinduction examinations they will not be called until schooling is completed.

The order will include all students called for service between now and June, Fahey related.

Rec Department Will Show Movies

Two movies will be shown today at 3:45 p. m. in City Hall Auditorium under the auspices of the City Department of Recreation.

They are "Infield Play at First and Third" and "Double Play Kings of Baseball."

Eagles Fete Tonight

Cumberland Aerie Fraternal Order Eagles, No. 245, will hold its 53rd national anniversary celebration tonight at the lodge home, North Mechanic Street. An added feature of the program will be honors bestowed on Frank C. McKnight for services rendered in 23 years work as secretary of the organization.

Frankfort Case Postponed Again

For the third time the hearing on assault charges filed against a suspended city policeman by a local man was postponed in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew said the postponement was requested by the attorneys in the case—Thomas B. Finan for Karl W. Frankfort, the suspended patrolman, and William H. Geppert, for William Shumaker, of 322 Henderson Avenue, the plaintiff.

A warrant was issued last Tuesday on charges that Shumaker was allegedly blackjacked by the officer early Sunday morning at a McMullen Highway inn.

The case originally was scheduled for Wednesday, January 24 and then postponed to Friday and again to Monday. Magistrate Perdew said the case has tentatively been set for Thursday by the attorneys, both of whom were in Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown, yesterday at a trial.

Several witnesses were present yesterday in court when the news of the postponement was received at 10 a. m.

Heart Week Will Be Observed Here

The Mayor and Council last night called upon the citizens of this city to observe the week of February 11 as American Heart Week.

Permission was granted to the Allegany County Rheumatic Fever and Heart Association to sell red lapel Hearts here either on February 10 or 17.

City Will Appoint Price Control Group

The Mayor and Council will name a volunteer citizens committee here to assist in stabilizing prices in this city.

The decision to name a volunteer emergency stabilization cooperative committee was made last night at a meeting of the Mayor and Council upon the request of Price Administrator Michael V. DiSalle.

The proposal met the full approval of the Mayor and council, with all backing Commissioner William H. Buchholtz's statement that "we want no black market here."

Equity Case Filed

Social Security Law Requires All Wages Be Taxed

Age No Limit Under Amendments To Act

Under present amendments to the Social Security Act employers must withhold taxes and report wages of all employes no matter what their ages, James S. Getty, manager of the Cumberland field office, reported yesterday.

In an effort to clear up certain inquiries and misunderstanding to the law Getty pointed out that the original act provided that employers did not have to continue to report workers after they reached age 65. Now, however, the law has been amended and employers are required to report all employees regardless of age.

A 1950 amendment to the Social Security Act also provides benefits for workers over age 75, even though they continue work. This caused confusion, Getty said, as to whether wages should be reported and taxes withheld for these workers. The same rule applies to these 75-year-old workers as to those 65.

Getty stressed the importance of reporting all wages correctly regardless of the worker's age to prevent any possibility of tax liabilities or wage investigations at some later date.

City Requests Marshall's Aid

Secretary of Defense Marshall will be asked to use his influence in having a proposed Army Quartermaster research laboratory located in this city.

The Mayor and Council, in a telegram dispatched to the defense chief, said it understands the city is to be considered as a site for the defense project.

Cumberland, the telegram said, has much to offer a facility of this kind since many persons are available here with techhical and laboratory skills.

The government, it added, has designated this area as a "distress" or "E" area. The upswing in employment in the nation in general has had little effect here.

With the program of allocating materials, many workers engaged in peace-time production here may become unemployed, thus aggravating an already serious situation, city officials said.
